REQUESTED FOR 2
FUND WITNESSES

Undermyer Says Chicago-

Bearing on Expenditures by the Republicans.

CHARGES MILLIONS ARE SPENT FOR "ADS"

Asserts Disbursements Are Not Accounted for in Committee's Report —
Would Summon Curtis.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Senate campaign fund investigators were today to hear in executive session two witnesses from Chicago who, it was indicated, had information bearing on expenditures on behalf of the Republican national ticket.

Samuel Undermyer, of counsel for Senator La Follette, said, in making the request, that he was not willing to take the responsibility of making the testimony made public before full corroboration, because of the possible effect on the Republican campaign.

"I don't care to take the responsibility, in the absence of corroborative testimony readily available to the committee, of spreading this before the country," Undermyer said, "until the committee has run down the leads these men will be able to give."

"Millions for Advertising." A charge that "millions of dollars" are being spent in advertising and in other means on behalf of the Republican national ticket was not accounted for through the median National Committee, made by Undermyer.

Evidence of this, the New York lawyer offered several copies of newspaper and magazine advertisements, in one of which the name of Chairman Curtis of the Republican National Committee appeared at the bottom. The advertisement said it was paid for by Republicans.

Undermyer also said he would like to see Curtis, he said, summoned before the committee. The request was in connection with an advertisement published in a number of papers and dealing with an article on La Follette appearing in the Saturday Evening Post, of which Curtis is publisher.

The names of the two Chicago witnesses referred to by Undermyer were not made public, but it was stated that they were in Washington ready to go before the committee.

Chairman Borah said the committee would have to decide in executive session whether it would hear testimony in secret. Undermyer suggested an immediate decision, but the chairman said he would hear first other witnesses present who desired to get back into the case.

Atterbury Contributed $25. W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was called first. He said he was a member of the campaign committee of the Union League Club of Philadelphia and had contributed $25 to the Republican campaign fund.

At the request of Undermyer, Atterbury produced two menu cards and a Pennsylvania Railroad card carrying quotations from publications attacking La Follette and opposing public ownership of railroads.

"Do you think," asked Undermyer, "that the Pennsylvania Railroad is within its rights to conduct a political campaign on its menus?" "I think the Pennsylvania Railroad is perfectly within its rights," Atterbury said, "in educating its patrons, its stockholders and employees on the great questions of the day and the greatest question today to me is Government ownership of railroads."

Means to Advise Public. The menu were intended to advise the public of Mr. La Follette's ambitions.

Replying to another question, Atterbury said: "I shouldn't say the Pennsylvania Railroad has any right to make the candidacy of any candidate a part of its business. It is a platform of candidates on public questions."

Atterbury said that if the menu cards had the La Follette name on it, there would be some additional cost to the road. He said it would be proper for his road to put out literature on its own opposing such legislation as the New Deal bill proposing nationalization of the Railroad Administration.

SOVIET SHIP BACK FROM WRANGELL WITH AMERICANS

Red October Reaches Kamchatka Coast After Tempestuous Voyage—Wells and Eskimos
Wanted to Depart.

By the Associated Press.

PETROVAVLOVSK, Kamchatka, Siberia, Oct. 24.—After a tempestuous voyage, the Soviet Russian transport "Red October" arrived here today from Wrangell Island with Charles Wells of Uniontown, Pa., survivor of the expedition which Vilhjalmur Stefansson took to the island a year ago, and with 12 Eskimo members of the expedition who are American citizens.

Prof. Davidov, chief of the Russian expedition, explained that Wells and his Eskimo companions were taken off the island because they had no permit from the Soviet government to live or hunt there.

The Red October ran short of coal in mid-Pacific and had a difficult time in making this port. During the survey of Wrangell Island, according to M. Davidov, the Soviet expedition found the grave of Lorne K. Knight, who perished there, while in the care of Ada Blackjack, and also found the flagpole on which the British flag had formerly flown, having been run up to claim British sovereignty.

Members of the British expedition constructed a new pole on which they hoisted the Red flag in the name of the Soviet republic.

Prof. Davidov gave the following narrative of the expedition: "We landed on Wrangell Island Aug. 20. At Rileighs Harbor our party found a pole without a flag and a small house containing food supplies and scientific instruments. This was an indication that somewhere near there must have been someone alive."

"We erected a flagpole on which we solemnly raised the red flag, taking possession of the island in the name of the Soviet republic. We left a written record of this event in Russian and English."

"At another point we found a bottle containing a note in English stating that Wells had gone to the Bay of Doubt. Then suddenly, to the west, we observed a boat with five passengers coming toward our ship. Apparently the occupants of the boat thought our vessel was an American ship which had come to rescue them, but when they reached a point about 50 yards from our boat and saw the red flag, they attempted to flee. We stopped them by our cries of reassurance. In the boat were Wells and four Eskimos. We later found eight additional Eskimos on the island. These 'birds of prey' had food for only six months. Wells had hidden away two flags, an American and the other a Canadian."

"We did considerable hydrographic and meteorological work, made photographic and moving picture records of the most interesting features of the island. As there was danger that our vessel would be caught in the ice if we remained longer, we decided to return to Russia immediately. Wells and the Eskimos did not want to remain on the island, so we took them aboard our boat."

Washington Glad a Troublesome Incident Is Cleared.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Word from Siberia indicating that Charles Wells, American citizen, and the Eskimos who accompanied him to Wrangell Island had left the island aboard the Russian Soviet transport Red October of their own free will removes the possibility of a Washington Government incident so far as the Washington Government is concerned.

First reports from Alaska indicated that Wells and his party had been taken prisoners. While the Washington Government is not concerned with the question of what flag flies over the island, it might have become involved over the forcible detention by Soviet authorities of American citizens. In view of the circumstances there is no disposition here to follow up the incident in a diplomatic or in any other way.

The island is believed by some to have value as an air base, but neither American nor British appears to covet the title to it. The Wells party was planted there by Stefansson to claim sovereignty. Russia now seems to be the only power which wants the island.

Navy Dirigible Sailing on Northern Route From Fort Worth Back to Lakehurst.

LITTLE ROCK AND PADUCAH ON WAY

Men Eager for Rest and Sleep; Commander Says
ZR-3 Likely Will Make Same Trip.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 24.—With the most favorable weather prospects promised since the beginning of the 9000-mile transcontinental round trip of the naval dirigible Shenandoah, the ship cast off for Lakehurst, N. J., its home port, at 10:38 a. m. today. The craft, which is in command of Lieutenant-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, headed due east and passed over Dallas at 11:31.

The ship will follow the northern route back to Lakehurst. The most important communities along the proposed route follow: Dallas, Greenville and River View, Tex.; Bokhoma, Moon and America, in the southeastern corner of Oklahoma; Larkburg, Hot Springs, Ark.; the southeastern tip of Missouri; Paducah, Ky.; Dayton, O.; Cumberland, Md., and crossing the Appalachian Mountains through the famous water gap, thence over York, Pa., and into Lakehurst, its home port.

With splendid weather prospects, Lieutenant-Commander Lansdowne is hoping to make a record flight back home.

ZR-3 May Make the Trip. During the morning Lieut. Lansdowne declared that the ZR-3, a comparatively few hours when the sister ship, would in all probability fly to the Pacific Coast by way of Fort Worth on one of its test flights, as the flights will have to be made and the crews at the several landing posts have become accustomed to the work of mooring a ship by the arrival and departure of the Shenandoah.

"First thing on the program when we get home will be sleep, and lots of it, for all hands," Lieut. Lansdowne declared. "This trip has been a hard strain on the officers and crew, but each man has stood it wonderfully. All of them are tired and weary, and a good rest is what we all need."

The crew showed the strain of their 17-day voyage thus far as they reported for duty after breakfast. Sleepless eyes, drooping shoulders, faltering steps and tired faces told the story of a constant "four-hours-on, four-off" schedule since the ship left her home hangar at J. J. Hahn, ship's cook, is an example of the strain on the men.

For 17 days he had slept only a comparatively few hours when he landed mounted to his kitchen to keep hot coffee and food ready for the men at all hours.

Back at Fort Worth.

The last lap but one of the transcontinental round-trip flight of the Shenandoah was completed here this morning when the ship picked up the landing cable from the local mooring mast at 1:42 a. m. and placed itself in charge of the local crew.

The trip from San Diego, Cal., to Fort Worth was completed in approximately 36 hours and 30 minutes.

"A Sirius Mistake." About an hour before the arrival of the ship last night excitement was caused among the naval officers and spectators at the landing mast when a brilliant light was sighted in the Eastern sky. Immediately it was concluded that the dirigible was coming from that direction. The light seemed to change from white to red and then to green, which the spectators took to be the sailing lights of the dirigible.

After intent observation of approximately 30 minutes and the light did not become closer, the expectant crowd discovered that the light was Sirius, the brilliant star of the East. "Quite a Sirius mistake," one officer declared.

Code from a commercial station in Norway was picked up yesterday by Radio Gunner George W. Almour, while the Shenandoah was passing over Sierra Blanca.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 24.—188 Olga Craven, 19 years old, daughter of Capt. Thomas T. J., after a visit to the coast.

Two of the carrier pigeons were released by Capt. Craven as the airship passed over Dulzura, Cal., at 12:15 Wednesday afternoon. One of these birds reached the air station here at 2 p. m. of the same day, but the other did not arrive until 11 o'clock that night. Two other pigeons released last Wednesday afternoon arrived at North Island on Thursday, the first at 11 a. m. and the last at 6 p. m.

Brother Burns of the K. K. K. Affidavit Gets Extension at Dr. Nelson's Bank.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BOONVILLE, Mo., Oct. 24.—C. S. Burns, the tenant farmer who made an affidavit for the Republican State Committee, saying Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, Democratic nominee for Governor, like himself, had joined the Ku Klux Klan, came to Boonville today to see what the Boonville National bank would do about his mortgage.

The bank, of which Dr. Nelson is chairman of the Board of Directors, holds a deed of trust on Burns' household goods and farm machinery. An installment was due today, and Nelson announced, on his visit to the bank, that he could not pay the installment now, and did not know when he would be able to pay it.

Roy D. Williams, general counsel and a director of the bank, started Burns out of the bank. Then, in the hearing of newspaper reporters who were in the bank, he said to Burns:

"Charlie, I have talked with Dr. Nelson about this obligation of yours. He asked that the time be extended until you could make payment. He desires that we be lenient with you, in spite of the fact that you have done him some harm, perhaps by your recent statement. He feels no ill will, and wishes you to know it. So take your time, Charlie, and pay us when you can."

Burns seemed much relieved.

HEAVY FOG OF THE AUTUMN

The first heavy fog of the autumn season enveloped St. Louis this morning, necessitating caution in the handling of street traffic and in the moving of trains through the St. Louis terminal. It cleared about 9:30 a. m.

Virtually all incoming trains were late at Union Station. Today a few minutes to more than an hour, due largely to the necessity of moving slowly through the congested St. Louis and East Side terminals in order to avoid accidents.

The Weather Bureau did not consider the fog unusually dense for this time of the year. Meteorologist Hayes said it began early last night, increasing in density through the night. The cause was the very low wind movement, which was fairly general throughout the Middle West. In St. Louis, smoke contributed to the density of the fog.

The Municipal Bridge many automobiles were damaged in rear-end collisions which occurred when machines were stalled in the fog. Eighteen such cases were reported to the East St. Louis police.

LABORITE CANDIDATE IN GREENOCK HURT BY MOB

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The worst of the series of rowdy disturbances which have marked the British election campaign occurred last night at Greenock, where the Labor candidate, Councillor Stephen Kelly, while holding a street meeting, was attacked by a gang of roughs, kicked, struck on the head with a lead pipe and knocked unconscious.

After Kelly followed between Kelly's adherents and his attackers, who were apparently supporters of his rival candidate, a communist. The police rescued Kelly from the scene of the smash and took him to the hospital. The upsurge continued for some time. Kelly was seriously hurt and his speaking engagements have been canceled.

There were disturbances at several other meetings last night. The Laborite Minister for the Colonies, James Henry Thomas, in a speech at Derby, strongly denounced the rowdism, which he said was all due to the communists. The Laborites, he declared, stood for freedom of speech. If their case could not bear examination by fair argument, it was hopeless.

IN SALOON; WOMAN WITH HIM SOUGHT

Killing of John Mantkowski, 23, in Bar at 3036 Washington Is Laid to Jealousy.

BARTENDER IS ONLY
WITNESS YET FOUND

Says Chauffeur's Companion Fled After He Was Shot by One of Two Men Who Preceded Them.

Police are looking for a young woman, whose description they have obtained, upon a theory that jealousy may have been the motive for the murder of John Mantkowski, 23 years old, a chauffeur for the Red Top Taxicab Co., who was shot in the head and killed in a saloon at 3036 Washington boulevard at 10:20 o'clock last night.

The woman, it was learned today, accompanied Mantkowski to the saloon and fled through a rear door after the shooting.

The only witness to the affray yet found is Vincent Deaderick, 31 years old, a bartender at the saloon, bartender and part owner of the saloon, who said Mantkowski was killed by one of two men who entered the place a few minutes earlier from a taxicab, followed closely by the chauffeur and the woman. His statement involving the woman was made after all-night questioning, during which he clung to his first story that Mantkowski was shot by one of the men in an argument over a taxicab fare of $4.

Body Found in Alley.

Mantkowski, who is a son of former Patrolman Michael Mantkowski, lived with his parents at 4660 McCaffery place. His body, with a bullet hole in the left temple, was found in an alley about 75 feet east of the saloon by Police Lieutenants Aylward and Gunn, who arrived on the scene a few minutes after the shooting.

Deaderick at first said the body had been dragged there by the slayer and his companion. Today he admitted he helped one of the men place it there, after the other man and the woman had fled. A .38-caliber revolver, with one discharged cartridge, was found near by.

According to Deaderick's later statement, which he signed today, Mantkowski had his arm about the woman when the two entered the saloon preceded by the two men. He described her as a "nice looking girl," about 22 years old, five feet tall, weighing about 120 pounds, light complexioned and with light brown hair. She was dressed in a brown suit, he said, and wore a brown hat trimmed with lace. He said he would be able to identify her and also the two men, whom he admitted he knew by sight.

Admits First Story False.

After admitting that his first story, in which he gave a rambling account of a shooting over a taxi fare, was false, Deaderick described

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The lists of income tax assessments published by the morning newspapers here showed John D. Rockefeller Jr. to be the biggest income tax payer in the country.

SECRETARY WALLACE
IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Complications Follow Operation of Several Days Ago; Doctors in Consultation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Secretary Wallace of the Agricultural Department has suffered further complications from the operation he underwent last week for the removal of his appendix and gall bladder and his condition is regarded as serious.

Toxemia, resulting from an infection of the intestines, has set in and Dr. John M. T. Finney of Johns Hopkins University was called today for consultation.

While concern is felt by physicians over the condition of Secretary Wallace, Dr. Joel Boone, White House physician, one of those attending him, said hope to hold for his recovery.

President Coolidge made a trip to the Naval Hospital, but because of the turn for the worse in the condition of the Secretary he did not enter the sick room.

Secretary Wallace was operated on last week and for several days he proceeded toward recovery. A complication set in yesterday, however, and this was followed early today by a still more serious development. No visitors are allowed to see him.

DECREASE SHOWN

Treasury Ruling Applies Publicity Feature of Law to Individuals, Estates and Corporations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Department of Justice served notice today that pending a careful examination of the statutes and a final ruling, newspapers which publish income tax returns will do so at their own risk.

The department's announcement was made while Secretary Mellon and other ranking officials at the Treasury were withholding any definite opinion. Revenue Commissioner Blair, however, indicated that he regarded publication of the returns as a violation of the law.

Provision Against Printing. In a telegram last night to revenue collectors, Commissioner Blair asked them to call attention to the law that provision of the revised statutes "making it unlawful to print or publish any income tax returns." He said today, however, that he did not intend to use language to express any opinion as to whether publication would be in fact a violation of law, but only had desired to have all interested persons understand what the law says on the subject.

The Commissioner evaded all attempts to get a further construction of his telegram or a definite statement as to his own view. Meanwhile the office of the Internal Revenue Solicitor began a study of the law on its own accord.

Some of the officials concerned expressed the view privately that the question could be settled only by bringing a test case and throwing the whole problem into the courts.

Justice Department Statement. Upon inquiry by Secretary Mellon, this statement was issued by James M. Beck, Acting Attorney-General in the absence of Attorney-General Stone.

"Many inquiries have been received by the Department of Justice as to the publication in the press of the income tax records secured from the collectors of taxes under the 'public inspection' provisions of the law passed in May last. In view of the provisions of Section 3167 of the revised statutes, which, if unrepelled by the latter law, makes such provision a criminal offense."

"Officials of the department state that a careful study of the provisions will be made by the department and in due course a conclusion reached as to whether such publication is permissible under the law as now amended."

In the meantime, the responsibility for such publications must rest with those who in any way publish the details of individual incomes."

Immediately after making this statement, Beck went to the Treasury Department for consultation with Commissioner Blair, who is in direct charge of the collection of income taxes, and other interested Treasury officials.

Secretary Mellon during the day, in the course of a statement replying to an editorial attack upon him by the New York World for making public the returns at this time, took the view that the law contemplated inspection of the returns but not for publication.

"Presumably Congress in reenacting specifically in the same act the prohibition against printing or publishing a part of a return," said Secretary Mellon, "intended to have both provisions effective—inspection where reason for it existed and not newspaper publication solely to satisfy idle public curiosity."

Revenue Collector Says Publication Is Violation of Law.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Frank K. Powers, collector of Internal Revenue, said today that publication of income tax returns was a violation of the law.

FENG, CHRISTIAN GENERAL, REVOLTS AND SEIZES PEKIN

Successful Military Coup Puts Him in Command of Capital With All Offices in His Hands.

PROCLAIMS THAT HE IS FOR PEACE

"War That Nobody Understands" Must Cease, He Says—He Baptized All His Troops Before Battle.

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, Oct. 24.—President Tsao Kuo issued a proclamation this morning ordering the immediate cessation of hostilities and dismissing Wu Pei-fu, commander of the Pekin military forces, from his present post.

Both Chihli and Mukden forces were ordered by the President to remain at their present positions. The post of commander in chief of the expeditionary forces, held by Wu Pei-fu, was abolished and Wang Cheng Ting, civil Governor of Chihli, and Gen. Peng Yu-Hsiang, Christian General now in control of the central authority, were instructed to take charge of the troops at Shanhaiwan.

In dismissing Wu Pei-fu, the President appointed him "Chief Commissioner for the Development of Koko-Nor" (The Koko-Nor district is in Northeast Tibet, near the large salt lake of that name).

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, Oct. 24.—Feng Yu-Hsiang, "the Christian General," was in control of the machinery of the Central Government of China today, after a spectacular surprise military move early yesterday, when his army captured here from the north and took possession of the administration offices of the regime under the banner of which he was supposed to be fighting.

Feng now has 40,000 troops in Pekin. The move was carried out under the leadership of Gen. Feng in conjunction with other elements opposed to the war program of Gen. Wu Pei-fu. It was reported at the beginning of the defensive campaign against the invading forces of Gen. Chang Tso-lin that "the Christian General" disappeared from Gen. Fu's war measures.

Apparently Gen. Feng carried out orders from Gen. Fu to proceed to Jehol at the beginning of the campaign against the Manchurian invasion. He baptized his troops with great ceremony before leaving Pekin.

It now appears that the "Christian General" never proceeded beyond a town 10 miles north of here on the road to Jehol, sent some of his troops north while holding the third brigade at Kupeikow. At times he returned to Pekin incognito, it was rumored.

At any event, Gen. Feng conferred with his colleagues on Wednesday evening and this morning Pekin was placarded with the announcement of his intention to stop the war.

He placards the city. The announcement called upon all compatriots to join with the forces of Gen. Feng in re-establishing peace, assuring all elements, especially foreigners, there would be no disorder anywhere.

Pekin streets were picketed by Feng's soldiers, wearing arm bands reading, "We are here to preserve peace and to protect lives in the service of our country."

After the Feng troops entered the city by agreement with elements hostile to the Central Government, including Gen. Sun Yueh, commander of the Pekin garrison, they surrounded the palace, seized telegraph and telephone lines and picketed the residences of various ministers in sympathy with Gen. Wu Pei-fu.

Gen. Feng announced that he intended to break the dictatorship maintained by Gen. Wu Pei-fu and to aid in establishing a new government, in which would be incorporated the various factions which are hostile to each other at present.

In a proclamation, which included a warning that "rumor mongers will be executed," Gen. Feng said, "the republic has been at war for 13 years. As a result, commerce is impossible, and the nation has

HE SEIZES PEKIN

GEN. FENG YU-HSIANG.

HE is known as "the Christian General." His recent departure from Pekin when his army went forth to meet the Manchurians was signalized with wholesale baptism of all his men and asking of a blessing on the new weapons which had just been distributed to them.

been subjected to great losses in a war which nobody understands. "This year was marked by drought and flood. Nine houses out of 10 are empty. Truly, we are to be pitied. I desire to stop this war and to make peace. Therefore, I have returned to Pekin," the proclamation continues.

"Heed My Words," Says Feng. "Responsible good men should come forward to negotiate peace. This is not a soldier's job, but whatever peace measures are decided upon I shall observe. All my compatriots will agree to this program and nobody should be afraid. Foreign lives and property will be protected. All should heed my words," the proclamation concluded.

The gates of the city were closed today and motor cars entering the legation quarters were scrutinized, evidently for the purpose of preventing those wanted for the participation in alleged misgovernment from moving into the legation quarter under cover.

The searching procedure was the same, as that adopted upon dissolution of the Anfu party regime in 1922.

A military representative of the new regime called upon the foreign diplomats at the legation quarter today and assured them that every effort would be made to open communications at the earliest possible moment. The diplomats went into conference immediately.

150 REFUND TAX CHECKS ARE AWAITING CLAIMANTS

Letters Returned to Collector of Internal Revenue Who Sent Back About $300,000.

Several months ago Collector of Internal Revenue Hellmich began the mailing of 150,000 checks, involving an aggregate of approximately $300,000 to residents of this district who had paid their income tax in full on or before March 15, last, and were entitled to the refund of 25 per cent voted by Congress.

Delivery of all but 150 of these checks has been effected, and the 150 checks have been returned to Hellmich's office, where they await claimants. Hellmich invites any person in this district, who paid his income tax in full, without the benefit of the 25 per cent reduction, to call at his office in the Federal Building, Eighth and Olive streets, and make application for the refund.

WHEELER HERE FOR COLISEUM SPEECH TONIGHT

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, independent candidate for Vice President, arrived here today to speak this evening at the Coliseum.

His arrival was delayed two hours by a dense fog that made movements of the trains in the yards slow and precarious. A reception committee, which had waited from 7:45 until 9:45 o'clock, finally met him and escorted him to Hotel Statler, where a late breakfast was served.

The strain of a campaign in 24 states and an itinerary covering 13,000 miles to date, apparently has not taken any toll of the candidate's physical powers. He greeted his Reception Committee of about 100 persons gayly and obligingly posed with Mrs. Wheeler while a battery of flashlights boomed at him.

In a brief statement to reporters he replied vigorously to the Department of Justice's accusation that he was "untruthful and reckless" in his recent statement that under the Republican administration law enforcement is a "sham and a mockery" and that there is "not even the pretense of honest law enforcement."

Discusses Law Enforcement. "Of course there have been prosecutions," he said. "But they don't get the big fellows. The big thing is the flagrant violation by the big bootleggers in the East. Any statement that the department might make would convince no one that the law is being enforced; that is, no one in any of the seaboard cities."

"The law is capable of enforcement if an attempt had been made to enforce it against the big distilleries of Pennsylvania, in which Secretary Mellon's banks were interested. But a maze of figures of convictions of the little fellows will not prove the department's case."

In his address at the Coliseum tonight, he will extend this line of argument. He will deal with Gen. Dawes and the Lorimer Bank, President Coolidge and the Massachusetts bank, and the now familiar transportation of pictures of the Fipro-Dempsey fight, where he will say that Jesse Smith, confidential friend of former Attorney-General Daugherty, collected large sums for extending this privilege. He will attack "the general policy of silence" which President Coolidge has maintained throughout the campaign.

Optimistic of Outcome. Senator Wheeler expressed the belief that the campaign of Senator La Follette had progressed to a point where the election of the ticket is now possible.

"I didn't think so when we started out," he said candidly. "But I can't see where Coolidge is going to do much west of the Mississippi River and I believe Senator La Follette will get a lot of votes in the Middle West and such Eastern states as Rhode Island and New Hampshire."

Senator Wheeler said that from his observation of conditions in Missouri he believed the race in this State to be between Senator La Follette and John W. Davis, Democratic nominee.

President Coolidge to third place here.

Senator Wheeler spoke last night in Sedalia and Wednesday night in Kansas City. He will speak in Chicago and Rockford, Ill., tomorrow and will then swing through Michigan and Ohio, and then on to the East, where he will conclude his campaign.

The Coliseum doors will open at 6 p. m. The second balcony seats, 320 in number, are free. The first balcony block of 3000 seats will sell for 25 cents, the lower floor of 2612 seats for 50 cents and some 250 box seats for 75 cents.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT HOLDS PUBLICATION OF TAX PAYMENTS ILLEGAL

Revenue for the Second District, announced today that publication of income tax returns was a violation of the law and that violators were subject to a penalty of $1000 fine or one year in prison or both. He said he could not state whether or not local newspapers which published partial lists would be prosecuted.

The Herald-Tribune refrained from printing the lists, it said, "in obedience to what appears to be the law." The World printed the list in an early edition, but later omitted it, saying the names and amounts were published at first in good faith. In its last edition, however, the World published the list.

When the newspaper first appeared and asked for permission to copy the lists, surprise was expressed by Bowers. Headquarters at Washington was consulted and when apparent confirmation had obtained, names and amounts were given freely.

Later, when the ruling of the

PUBLICITY PROVISION OF REVENUE LAW AND PUBLICATION RESTRICTION

THE provision of the revenue act of 1924, concerning publicity to be given amounts of income taxes paid, follows: "Section 257 (B)—The Commissioner shall, as soon as practicable in each year, cause to be prepared and made available to public inspection, in such manner as he may determine, in the office of the Collector in each internal revenue district and in such other places as he may determine, lists containing the name and the postoffice address of each person making an income tax return in such district, together with the amount of the income tax paid by such person."

The Treasury Department at Washington issued the following statement: "In connection with the opening in the Collector's office of each district of the list showing the amount of income tax paid by each person, in accordance with the provisions of section 257 (B) of the revenue act of 1924, the Treasury desires to call the attention of all persons to the provisions of Section 3167 of the revenue statutes which provides in part:

"...and it shall be unlawful for any person to print or publish in any manner whatever not provided by law any income return or part thereof, on source of income, profits, losses or expenditures appearing in any income return; and offense against the foregoing provision shall be a misdemeanor and be punished by a fine not exceeding $1000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court."

Treasury Department regarding publication was announced, officials admitted they were not certain of the procedure. In some instances collectors refused to allow newspaper reporters to copy the lists. Vehement protests were lodged by prominent men here over the publication. Eugene H. Outterbridge, chairman of the port authority said it was an outrage.

Bowers made public a telegram he received this morning from David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, which read as follows:

"With reference to mimeograph 324, does not authorize preparation of lists of names of persons who pay income taxes to be made public. To permit persons to prepare duplicate lists of income taxpayers would seriously obstruct efficient management of your office."

In his address at the Coliseum tonight, he will extend this line of argument. He will deal with Gen. Dawes and the Lorimer Bank, President Coolidge and the Massachusetts bank, and the now familiar transportation of pictures of the Fipro-Dempsey fight, where he will say that Jesse Smith, confidential friend of former Attorney-General Daugherty, collected large sums for extending this privilege. He will attack "the general policy of silence" which President Coolidge has maintained throughout the campaign.

Bowers pointed out that lists would be given only to those who could show good cause for obtaining them and that no list would be given out to curious people who merely wanted to ascertain how much their neighbors were making, and how much income tax they had paid.

Mellon Refers Publication Dispute To Attorney-General

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—While lawyers disagreed and publishers waited for advice, the Treasury remained silent today on the question of how far newspapers can go under the new tax law in publishing income tax returns.

In conformity with the law, orders have been issued to Internal Revenue Collectors to open to inspection the records of their offices showing how much each taxpayer contributed to the National Treasury on last year's income.

The Internal Revenue Bureau construed the publicity feature of the revenue act of 1924, written into the legislation as a concession to the progressives in Congress, as applying to all income returns made after Jan. 1, 1924. Consequently the last returns are available to all interested.

Sweep of Law. In what is regarded as an extremely important interpretation of the law, the Revenue Bureau has under the term "person" all individuals, trusts or estates, partnerships and corporations. This means that the income tax payments of the big corporations are laid open to inspection by the public.

Tax payments, now stripped of the confidence with which they have been held by the Government, include all made subsequent to Jan. 1, whether filed under the revenue act of 1924 or prior income laws.

In 1920 the receipts from income and excess profits taxes were $1,956,926,000. In 1921 they were $2,228,137,673. In 1922 they were $2,056,917,495. In 1923 they were $1,639,177,498. The estimated figure for the fiscal year ending June 30 last was $1,841,759,000.

"The records, which are open to the public, are the official assessments," Commissioner Blair announced. "They show a complete history of each person's transactions with the Government in regard to his income tax matters. The name and postoffice address appear on the lists as well as the amount of tax paid on all original and additional assessments, also penalty and interest payments."

"It is the desire of the internal revenue service to afford every facility to persons seeking the information to which they are entitled, and the bureau is prepared to co-operate with the public to the fullest possible extent. The assessments all possibility of errors for all the collector's bookkeeping transactions, and any additional information that might be compiled would have to be taken from these lists. The opening of the official assessment lists to the public eliminates all possibility of errors that might be made in describing the information, and there can be no question whatsoever as to the authenticity of the information given to the public."

INFORMATION GIVEN HERE TO BE LIMITED

Several persons went to the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, in the Federal Building, this morning, carrying lists of individuals or business firms, whose income tax records they wished to look up under the new provision of law, now in effect, which opens the record of income tax payments to public inspection.

Collector Hellmich and his clerks explained to some of these persons that the information service to be furnished was a limited one, and that no long list would be furnished to anyone. Questions about individual payments will be answered, so far as the number of clerks available, and the office demand for the records, will permit.

In a telegram received from Commissioner Blair at Washington it was stated that the publication of information as to any tax return was prohibited, under penalty of a $1000 fine or one year's imprisonment, or both.

As the matter now stands, any individual may go to the Collector's office and ask for information as to the income tax payment made by any other individual, since Jan. 1, last, and the record will be looked up and the amount paid will be made known, but no other information will be given.

Gary Says Tax Publication Will Increase Charity Appeals.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, said today that what impressed him chiefly in the publication of income tax payments was that many men whose incomes were supposed to be very large were paying less taxes than whose whose incomes were presumed to be small.

Expression of opposition to publication of the income tax returns, Gary said one result would be to subject men of large incomes to increased appeals for charity and other purposes.

ONTARIO STAYS DRY BY 30,000

Vote From Rural Precincts Overturn Majority Wets Rolled Up in Cities.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—Revised figures in the Ontario liquor plebiscite up to 11 a. m. this morning gave a majority of 30,167 for the temperance act. The figures in the "dry" column continue to mount as returns are received from the rural sections.

The revised figures from 5863 of the 7332 subdivisions were:

For the temperance act 477,324. For Government control 447,147. Virtually all of the subdivisions yet to be heard from are in rural districts and it is generally conceded that the dry majority will continue to mount to higher figures as the returns are completed.

The women's votes, especially in the rural districts, constituted the principal deciding factor in the balloting in favor of the temperance act. Their votes reversed the lead of the wets in virtually all of the larger towns and cities.

Moderation leaders, who led the fight to have the temperance act repealed and substituted for it a system of liquor distribution under Government license and control, indicated they would next undertake to achieve some measure of local option. Under local option, they said, could the citizens of towns and cities escape being ruled by the rural communities.

When early returns had been received last night the wets were ahead by a wide margin. At one time their lead reached a majority of 70,000. As straggling returns from the rural districts came in, however, the wet majority was gradually cut down and by midnight the tide had turned in favor of the dries.

The plebiscite was the first in Ontario since 1919, when a similar referendum showed a majority of 407,000 in favor of the dry law. The act was passed in 1916 as a war measure, and is similar to the Eighteenth Amendment in that it allows the sale of liquor only upon physicians' prescriptions for medicinal purposes. Women's organizations campaigned actively for the retention of the act.

Last-minute efforts to save the convicted men resulted in the calling of an emergency sitting of the Cabinet, and yesterday the death sentences of Davis and Valentino were commuted to life imprisonment.

Only two of the condemned were present when Clarence, knitted, testimony showed, were Morel and Serafini, who had been in the plot of the robbery, it was shown.

Nieri, a seventh man, was also present when Clarence, who was killed, was shot. He said he saw Valentino shoot King's assassin.

tomobile crashed into a telegraph pole and was wrecked. Seven of the robbers fled on foot, but the eighth, Harry Stone, internationally known as a narcotic smuggler, was killed. In the ruins of the machine was found $40,000 of the bank's money.

Within 24 hours, police arrested six men and two women and announced that $6000 found on the suspects had been identified as part of the bank loot.

On June 23 six of the suspects were found guilty of murder. They were Leo Davis, Tony Frank, Louis Morel, Mike Valentino, Giuseppe Serafini and Frank Gambino.

Then followed a series of appeals, which were of no avail except to grant a stay of execution to Davis until Nov. 6. With the other five sentenced to hang, Morel, alleged to be the leader of the band, in a letter to Gambino's wife, confessed his share in the holdup and absolved Gambino, Valentino and Frank. In an earlier confession he had absolved Davis.

BRYAN URGES ELECTION OF DAVIS AT POLL

Tells Sullivan (Ind.) Crowd, Congress Has to Decide, Business May Suffer.

SULLIVAN, Ind., Oct. 24.—Elect John W. Davis at the box to prevent "widespread business and industrial complications," which would result through the choice being put in the House of Representatives, the message brought to Bryan today by Gov. Bryan Nebraska, in opening his campaign in this State.

"You must elect Davis at ballot box and not permit the House to go into the House," Bryan declared. "If the statement of the party candidate for Vice President is correct—that they (Republicans) had accomplished what started out to do—that is, President Coolidge—at means Davis either will be elected or the polls or the election will be thrown into the House as there is no stability of the election of the party ticket at the polls of count of their not being able to give them the necessary votes."

"If the election is thrown into the House it would cause spread of business, industrial and might result in delays and complications. The vice presidential nomination of the 'Tend of the vote' this time is toward Davis and the only safe course for the people to pursue would be to elect him at the polls," he said, which course, he thought, "voters will see the importance of adopting and which I will have the good judgment to take."

Early last night he learned that his father, John H. Doll, a widower, and her chum, Mildred, 16 years old, were dead. Police believe Doll killed the girl in a moment of anger, then took his own life.

"Just before I read the story of the tragedy in the newspapers today, I had been thinking it might be better to go back and face my father," Miss Doll sobbed last night, after she had been found in a bed here. "I thought it might be better to go back to care for my little brother, Clarence. Since my mother died eight years ago, I have cared for him and kept house for my father. But will be left alone without him. Now I must go back."

Note Written to Her Chum. The note Lucille left behind her in Leavenworth with Mildred read: "You did not realize when you left this morning that it was goodbye for some time. I am going away with Col. Charles Royce, not because I love him, but because I want to go to him for my freedom. We have been married some time. I am a 4 and has respected me. I am sorry I cannot return his love, but I am unable to him and live with him and do

"EXTRAS" FOR SEWER BASIS OF CHARGES

Indefinite Allegations Regarding Changes Are Heard by Committee.

City officials are to explain progress of work on the first section of the River des Peres sewer and the necessity of changing specifications of the contract to the Citizens' Supervisory Bond issue Committee next week, in view of indefinite charges that the revisions would cost the city possibly $150,000 for extra work.

The charges were called to the committee's attention yesterday by W. Frank Carter, its chairman, who said they were related to him by one man, whose name he did not wish to state, and another man who was a stranger.

Specifications Amended. About two months ago the specifications of this contract for making a closed sewer out of a section of River des Peres were amended to provide for a concrete wall to hold up the river banks where heavy rains during the summer had affected the soil. The banks were to have been shored. President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service said the rains made it impossible to retain the banks without the concrete. He declared that extra cost under the changes would not approach even $100,000.

Carter quoted his first informant as saying the contractor had taken the job at a low figure and expected to recoup losses by charging a high rate on extras under the amended specifications. The second informant, Carter said, told him the additional cost would be $150,000.

Bid Was $322,000. The contractor is the Higgins-Wall-Dyer Contracting Co., which bid $322,000, or $50,000 less than the nearest competitor, and $20,000 below the city's estimate. This firm was notified by the city last week that its progress with the work was unsatisfactory, activity having been suspended more than a week in good weather. Following this, work was resumed.

Health Department representatives will inspect a large stagnant pool in River des Peres, near the Fyler avenue viaduct, and near where the sewer work is going on, to determine how extremely unpleasant odors may be eliminated. This order resulted from a visit Mayor Kiel paid to the neighborhood this morning, when the stench assailed his nose. He returned to city hall and ordered action. Lime may be poured in the pool to subdue it.

The Supervisory Committee received a statement from Glendy B. Arnold, counsel for the Chamber of Commerce, warning it that construction of the municipal auditorium or new courthouse on land to be condemned for the Memorial Plaza proper would be illegal, in his opinion. The statement was referred to the City Counselor.

The Memorial Plaza item of the bond issue provided for acquisition of certain blocks adjacent to City Hall for a plaza in which a soldiers' and sailors' memorial building is to be erected. The proposition mentioned no other buildings and Arnold's opinion is based on that. Among the parcels of land to be acquired are two-thirds of the double block bounded by Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Market streets and Clark avenue, and the western strip of the block bounded by Twelfth boulevard and Market, Eleventh and Chestnut streets. It is planned to build the auditorium on the Fourteenth street parcel and the courthouse on land already owned by the city, not included in the plaza item, adjacent to the Twelfth boulevard strip.

PINE-LAWTON CUTOFF, NEW

TRAFFIC RELIEF, IS OPENED
Connects West Pine Boulevard With Pine and Lawton Boulevard, at Grand.

Pine-Lawton cutoff, a new traffic relief, was opened last night. It was constructed under the street improvement item of the bond issue.

The cutoff connects West Pine boulevard with Pine and Lawton boulevards, at Grand boulevard, its two branches being the arms of a Y of which West Pine is the stem. There is also a new highway, joining the ends of the arms and joining Pine and Lawton, paralleling Grand. There are three triangular plots of ground to be parked. A number of old houses were razed to make way for this.

DR. ELIOT URGES MARRIAGE

"Most Important Thing in Life," He Tells Women.

By the Associated Press. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 24.—Marriage is the most important thing in life. President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard University, declared in a talk before 400 members of Harvard Dances here yesterday. A part of the British-American population of the United States is failing to realize the importance of marriage and this, he said, is bringing about a gradual race suicide.

The desire for feminine independence, he said, is a delusion entertained only by the extreme minority. Dr. Eliot said he had investigated conditions and found that classes of Harvard graduates and graduates of leading women's colleges who have been out of college for several decades, have left fewer descendants than their original number.

CAPPER STRESSES ECONOMY OF COOLIDGE ADMINISTRATION

Kansas Senator Appeals for Republican Ticket to Iowa Audience.

By the Associated Press.
BRITTON, Ia., Oct. 24.—Declaring that the record of economy and debt-paying of the Harding-Coolidge administration "is the greatest ever made made any nation since history began," United States Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, in an address here today urged the election of Coolidge and Dawes so that this record may be continued.

"Because the people of the country have confidence that the existing prosperous conditions will continue under the direction of President Coolidge," Capper said, "and because of the feeling that a change at this time would endanger these conditions, I am sure the Republican administration should be, and will be, given a rousing endorsement in November."

The Senator designated as the complement of the administration of the past four years, reduction of governmental expenses, budget balancing, lower taxes and the cutting of the interest-bearing public debt. He said the Government's operating expense had been reduced $2,000,000,000; the bonded debt had been cut down by $2,750,000,000 and taxes have been reduced by more than 25 per cent, and added:

"A great part of the credit for this record belongs to President Coolidge, notwithstanding he has been in office only a little more than one year, because, from the moment he assumed office of President he has not permitted the subject of economy to be forgotten. He has hammered and hammered on it and has inspired the country to demand it."

Illinois Fruit Shipments Gain.
CARBONDALE, Ill., Oct. 24.—Fruit and vegetables shipped from 17 points on the St. Louis division of the Illinois Central Railroad this season increased $7.5 per cent over the shipments of last year. Shipments this season totaled 1744 carloads, as compared with 1611 last year. Dongola set the unusual record of 11 cars of cucumbers in one day. Peaches led in the shipment of fruit with 648 cars.

INCOMES OF THREE OF GOULD FAMILY HELD UP

Action Taken Out of Respect to Marriage Clause in Father's Will.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Incomes of three members of the Gould family were held up out of respect to the marriage clause in the will of the father, Jay Gould, according to information obtained from Edwin Gould, who testified yesterday in the hearing of the $2,000,000 accounting suit before Referee O'Gorman.

A codicil to the will declared that if any of the children married, without his consent during his lifetime, or after his death without the consent of a majority of the trustees, they would forfeit one-half their share of the estate.

Edwin Gould testified the trustees had impounded the income of George, whose estate is the principal objector to the present accounting, although he did not think that the action was taken on account of the marriage clause. Half of Howard Gould's income was withheld, he said. It also developed that the Bankers' Trust Co. had held up the income of Mrs. Helen Gould Shepard under the clause and her general liability as trustee. There will never be any question about Edwin's marriage, his counsel stated in answer to questions.

The witness was asked regarding the marriage of his sister, Anne, to Prince Heli de Sagan, now the Duke of Talleyrand, and said he thought the trustees had consented to it, and he also "thought" that he attended the wedding abroad.

Gould admitted that $7,500,000 of the estate's funds had been put into the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. to aid John D. Rockefeller in his efforts to rehabilitate the concern. Some of the estate's best bonds and securities had to be sold to make the purchase, he admitted. All the estate has to show for it now are the bonds of the Colorado Industrial Co. and the common stock of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co., attorneys brought out in the questioning.

DAVIS ALMOST OVERTAKES LA FOLLETTE IN DIGEST POLL

Democrat Now the Leader in 12 States in Compilation of 2,300,484 Ballots.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Davis has almost overtaken La Follette. In this week's returns of the Literary Digest's nationwide presidential poll. Besides increasing his popular vote, the Democratic candidate has gained ascendancy in Kentucky by the week's tabulations, which gives him leadership in 12 states. Coolidge has 1,251,315 votes; Davis, 487,732, and La Follette, 494,404 of the 2,300,484 ballots now recorded.

Davis has brought down La Follette's lead over him from 48,455 last week to $24 this week, a gain of over 40,000. President Coolidge has also increased his percentage of the popular vote a fraction. Senator La Follette's share has declined over 1 per cent.

California and West Virginia continue in the doubtful column.

ARGENTINE CORN CHEAPER

IN TACOMA THAN IOWA'S

Freight and Duty on Imported Grain $12.15 a Ton, $2.05 Less Than Freight in America.

By the Associated Press.
TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 24.—A shipment of 3000 tons of corn from Argentina, received here recently, revealed that corn from the South American republic could be laid down here cheaper than corn from Iowa.

The British tramp freighter Ashworth-brought the corn around the Horn, and the rate charged was $8.75 a ton for the 8000-mile sea voyage. The duty paid was $1.40 a ton, making the total cost, in addition to the price paid in Argentina, $12.15 a ton. The rate on corn from Iowa is 71 cents a hundred pounds, or $14.20 a ton.

The South American corn was delivered to two milling companies here. The price paid in Argentina for the consignment was not disclosed.

POLISH DEBT AGREEMENT

Conclusion of Refunding Arrangement Near, Mellon Says.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Formal conclusion of an agreement with the Polish Government for refunding that nation's obligation to the United States, amounting, with interest, to about $149,000,000, Secretary Mellon, chairman of the Foreign Debt Funding Commission, announced today, awaits only the approval of all members of the commission. The pact, modeled after the agreement with Great Britain, is expected to draw no objection from any source.

With the signing of the Polish refunding settlement, four Governments will have entered into arrangements with the United States by which they will be slowly, but surely, retiring the obligations they contracted here during the war, while a part, Cuba, has paid off its debt entirely. In addition to the British Government, Lithuania, Finland and Hungary have settled their debts with long-term funding agreements.

MAN, 67, HURT BY AN AUTOMOBILE SATURDAY, DIES

James B. Abbott Was Either Struck or Walked Into Side of Machine Driven by William Knott.

James B. Abbott, 67 years old, of 1216A Armstrong avenue, died at City Hospital yesterday afternoon of a fractured skull suffered in front of 1825 Chouteau avenue Saturday evening, when he was either struck or walked into the side of an automobile.

Witnesses said Abbott was crossing from the north to south side of the street, in about the middle of the block, when he was knocked to the street by a machine going west. In answer to the cries of bystanders, William Knott, 22, of 925 Rutger street, driving west, stopped his car and returned to the scene. Knott said he did not see Abbott, nor did he feel a jar, and if his car struck Abbott, Abbott must have walked into the rear side of the car near the end.

Man Hurt When Train Demolishes Auto at Crossing.

John Sullivan, 20, of 7200 North Broadway, was thrown clear of his Ford coupe, suffering an injured back and possible internal injuries, when his machine was demolished by a northbound Wabash freight train at Goodfellow avenue and the Wabash Railroad tracks—$500 north—at 5 p. m. yesterday.

At 1 p. m. Mrs. Ada Tremaine, 42, of Overland, St. Louis County, was thrown against the windshield of her car, driven by her son, Edward, when it was struck by another machine in front of 1211-Ho-diamont avenue. She suffered concussion of the brain and was taken to her home.

Saddle Worthington, 12, 929 Canaan avenue, suffered lacerations of the scalp while riding with her mother, Mrs. Maude Worthington, at 4:20 p. m., and Kingshighway place and Kingshighway drive, when their automobile was struck by another. Last Monday Mrs. Worthington reported to the police that two men had tied her in the basement of her home, on that morning, and had the house, getting $196.95. She was later released by a woman neighbor, she said.

THREE BOYS KILLED WHEN CAR HITS SCHOOL BUS

Seventeen Others Injured Near Lorain, O.; Father of Dead Child Was Driving.

LORAIN, O., Oct. 24.—Three 7-year-old boys were instantly killed and 17 other children were injured, several seriously, yesterday, when an interurban car crashed into a school bus about eight miles east of here. Approximately 35 first and second grade pupils were in the bus when it was struck and overturned in a six-foot ditch.

The dead are Albert Owens, William Rath and Frank A. White. They, with the injured, were brought here in passing automobiles and Lorain ambulances.

The bus was taking the children to their homes in the vicinity of Sheffield Lake. Their injuries vary from lacerations to fractured bones. The father of the Owens child was driving the school bus. Passersby said the weather was perfectly clear and that the interurban could be seen for a long distance.

$5500 IN FINES ASSESSED

FOR CATTLE LAW VIOLATIONS

Wiggins Ferry Co., Terminal and Illinois Central Roads Convicted in 16 Cases in East St. Louis.

The Wiggins Ferry Co., Terminal Railroad and Illinois Central Railroad were assessed fines totaling $5500 in Federal Court in East St. Louis yesterday before Federal Judge English in 16 cases comprising 56 counts, brought against them by United States District Attorney Potter on charges of violating the cattle quarantine act, the 28-hour law regarding cattle and the safety appliance act.

Violations were alleged to have taken place on various dates from February to December, 1933. Pleas of not guilty were entered. In one case the Terminal Railroad was fined $100 on each of 19 counts for violation of the safety appliance act. The Illinois Central Railroad was defendant in but two of the cases and was fined $100 on each of eight counts for violation of the cattle quarantine act.

COMMUNITY FUND SERVICE

SHOWN IN FILM AT MEETING

Semi-Annual Gathering Is Featured by Pictorial Report of Committee in Charge.

The semi-annual meeting of the Community Fund, this noon, featured a pictorial report of a committee in lieu of the usual verbal report. The fund's motion picture, "Out of the Shadows," was projected to illustrate the types of service rendered by the 50 agencies of the organization.

Thomas N. Dysart, chairman of the 1935 Campaign Executive Committee, explained the detail of the campaign organization, and the picture was discussed by Joseph Mogler, head of the theater and motion picture section. It is predicted by Harry B. Wallace, chairman, who presided at the meeting, that the film will impress the public with the work of the group more than anything heretofore.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

MRS. DOHENY FINDS FALL'S SIGNATURE

Produces Long Missing Name on $100,000 Note; Husband and Son Refuse to Testify.

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 24.—The story by Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, of how he gave $100,000 in cash to Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, as a personal loan, just as the head of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company told it to the Senate investigating committee last January, was repeated in the Federal court here today. It was told in the Government suit to cancel Fik Hills naval reserve oil leases and contract to Doheny's company, worth $100,000,000, which the Government charges were granted in a conspiracy to defraud.

Owen J. Roberts of the Government counsel, read the transcript of this Doheny testimony. This followed the Government victory of yesterday when Judge Paul J. McCormick overruled objections by Doheny's counsel, after Doheny and his son had refused to testify on grounds of maintaining constitutional rights, and safeguarding use of testimony in trial of criminal indictments returned against them by the Federal grand jury at Washington.

The transcript of Doheny's testimony before the Senate Committee revealed details of the passing of the $100,000 in cash to Fall at Washington after it had been brought from New York to Washington by Doheny's son, Edward L. Doheny Jr., in a little satchel or "overnight bag."

Fall's Signature Produced.

"Here it is." With these words Mrs. Edward L. Doheny yesterday extended a bit of paper bearing the signature of Albert B. Fall. Mrs. Doheny was on the witness stand. The signature which she extended, under the seemingly casual questioning of Chief Counsel Hogan of the defense, was the "missing" one of the former Secretary of the Interior—the one which, it had been said so often, was given upon a note for $100,000 by the former Cabinet officer to Doheny. Thus the trail of the "little black bag" scented in New York in 1921, followed to Washington, and picked up again in Los Angeles Wednesday, was at an end.

"Thanks, Mrs. Doheny," said Hogan, accepting the signature. "So much for the Government charge that the $100,000 was a bribery sop to Fall from your husband."

One of the Government's principal contentions in this suit is that the Doheny companies obtained these Kern County oil reserves largely by means of a "friendly loan" by Doheny to Fall. Until Mrs. Doheny extended the missing signature the prosecution had contended that the note, because of its mutilation from removal of the signature, was uncollectable, therefore virtually recording a present of $100,000 from the oil magnate to Fall.

Shortly before Mrs. Doheny produced the signature, former United States Senator Pomerene had produced the note, minus its signature. The chief counsel for the Government had kept it within sight of a number of New Mexican ranchers and bankers who had fled to the stand to say that Fall had banked funds and purchased ranching property after he received the $100,000.

Soon after the handing over of the money to Fall, Mrs. Doheny testified, she and Doheny returned to Los Angeles from the East for the Christmas holidays. Just before leaving the East, she further testified, her husband remarked to her:

"I've made a loan of $100,000 to Fall. Now, if on the way home we get in a train wreck and get killed, our executors could press him for payment, and then he'd be worse off than he is now. In case the note should be found intact upon our bodies. So I'll just tear off this signature and give it to you. You keep the signature and I will keep the note. Then, if there's a wreck and we are killed, and our bodies found, I'd have the note and you'd have the signature."

Hunt for the Signature.

Following her recital of this purported arrangement by Doheny to make things easy for Fall, his old friend of prospecting days, Mrs. Doheny, continuing, said she had placed the severed signature in a safety deposit box in the Security Trust & Savings Bank here and then had forgotten where she had put it.

In January, last, she added, her husband asked her for the signature and she was unable to tell him what she had done with it. Then, she said, she searched through safety deposit vaults in the East and also among her effects in three cities but to no avail.

On April 30, she continued, she happened to think of the safety deposit box here and then recalled what had become of the note. Accompanied by one of her husband's

DIVORCES GRANTED ON FIRST 'BARGAIN DAY' OF TERM

Courts of Domestic Relations heard 65 Cases on Default Docket.

The first "bargain day" of the term in the two Courts of Domestic Relations was held yesterday when a default docket of 65 cases was heard. The average time devoted to each case by Judges Hogan and Owsing was less than five minutes. Fifty-seven divorces were granted, mainly on allegations of desertion and indignities of desertion and indignities of desertion, while the remaining eight were either dismissed or continued for various reasons.

Mrs. Hallean Seymour, 23 years old, of 4109 Lafayette avenue, a telephone operator, operating a hospital from Grant Seymour, was granted a divorce from her husband in Joliet, Ill., prison. She married him on Jan. 14, 1923, and left him the same day when he told her his only profession was forging checks. Subsequently he was given a two-year sentence for forgery at Rockford.

Mrs. Lulu Harper, 40, asserted she bought an automobile for her honeymoon tour, and that her husband, J. C. Harper, put her out of the car on a California road and never off, never to return. She said they were married in Missouri, July 19, 1923, and that she spent $2000 on Harper and his 14-year-old son before he deserted her. She was granted a decree and her former name, Ruckman.

Three Albanian immigrants appeared before Judge Owsing, each seeking to divorce a wife who had refused to join him in America. Each charged general indignities. Judge Owsing continued the cases, stating that entries of appearance signed by the wives be submitted in court.

HISTORIC STILL GILDED AND PLACED ON EXHIBITION

Device at Least 70 Years Old Was Taken in Raid in Wilderness Near Anna, Ill.

A large still, as big around as a bathtub and four feet high, with a capacity estimated at 150 gallons, has been gilded and placed on exhibition in the office of Group Chief George H. Scruggs in the Federal Building, East St. Louis, because of its history.

The still, according to the prohibition officers, is at least 70 years old and during the Civil War was operated by the Cook Distillery Co., a registered distillery located in the Silica Hollow District, 14 miles southwest of Anna, Ill. It was abandoned years ago, but resurrected and put to work by bootleggers and taken to a raid by prohibition officers May 24, last.

Members of the raiding party described the location of the still as a wilderness in the Silica Hollow District two miles from any road and inaccessible except on foot. It was dragged to the road with a rope and hauled to East St. Louis.

No one was found at the site of the still at the time of the raid, but in July last, according to the prohibition agents, Oscar Duty of Wolf Lake was shot to death, supposedly in a bootleggers' war. Duty, who was suspected of having opened the still now in Scruggs' office, was accused by other bootleggers of having divulged information in the retaliation for the "tip" on his own still and murdered, according to the bootleggers' code.

SUSPECT IN BETHALTO, ILL., BANK ROBBERY HELD

A man who gave his name as Raymond Pollard is in custody at Fairmont City, Ill., as a suspect in the Bethalto State Bank robbery, Wednesday, and East St. Louis police believe they have found the car used in the holdup.

Pollard was arrested shortly after the bank robbery, speeding in the direction of East St. Louis. A search of his car revealed two $5 bills beneath the seat cushions, and $20 in nickels and quarters wrapped in bank folders.

At the Fairmont City police station Pollard first gave his name as Raymond Kirk, but after several hours of questioning said he was Pollard, and according to the police, that he was engaged in running. He involved a saloon keeper in Granite City whom he said gave him the money found in his car, and a man named "Hollis," on Vernon place in University City, whom he says furnished the car and was a partner in the bootlegging enterprise.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Bert Perrell, East St. Louis, Saturday discovered an abandoned Studebaker touring car in the brush near the Caseyville road, about one mile east of Washington Park. The car has a nickel plated radiator, which tallies with the description given by witnesses, of the robbers' car. The car was found with the machine gun, been punched out, presumably for the rifles of the robbers. The initials "R. F. M." were on the door and the Illinois license is 941542.

DIVORCES GRANTED ON FIRST "BARGAIN DAY" OF TERM

Two Courts of Domestic Relations Hears 65 Cases on Default Docket.

The first "bargain day" of the term in the two Courts of Domestic Relations was held yesterday when a default docket of 65 cases was heard. The average time devoted to each case by Judge Hogan and Oasing was less than five minutes. Fifty-seven divorces were granted, mainly on allegations of desertion and indignities, while the remaining eight cases were either dismissed or continued for various reasons.

Mrs. Hallett Seymour, 23 years old, of 4109 Lafayette avenue, a hospital telephone operator, was divorced from Grant Seymour, 31, now in Joliet, Ill., prison. She declared she married him on Jan. 14, 1933, and left him the same day when he told her his only profession was forging checks. Subsequently he was given a two-year sentence for forgery at Rockford, Ill.

Mrs. Lulu Harper, 40, asserted she bought an automobile for her honeymoon tour, and that her husband, J. C. Harper, put her out of the car on a California road and drove off, never to return. She said they were married in Missouri, July 19, 1923, and that she spent $2000 on Harper and his 14-year-old son before he deserted her. She was granted a decree and her former name, Ruckman.

Three Albanian immigrants appeared before Judge Oasing, each seeking to divorce a wife who had refused to join him in America. Each charged general indignities. Judge Oasing continued the cases, insisting that entries of appearance signed by the wives be submitted in court.

HISTORIC STILL GILDED AND PLACED ON EXHIBITION
Device at Least 70 Years Old Was Taken in Raid in Wilderness

Near Anna, Ill.
A large still, as big around as a bathtub and four feet high, with a capacity estimated at 150 gallons, has been gilded and placed on exhibition in the office of Group Chief George H. Scruggs in the Federal Building, East St. Louis, because of its history.

The still, according to the prohibition officers, is at least 70 years old and during the Civil War was operated by the Cook Distillery Co., a registered distillery located in the Silica Hollow District, 14 miles southwest of Anna, Ill. It was abandoned years ago, but resurrected and put to work by bootleggers and taken in a raid by prohibition officers May 14 last.

Members of the raiding party described the location of the still as a wilderness in the Silica Hollow district two miles from any road and inaccessible except on foot. It was dragged to the road with a rope and hauled to East St. Louis.

No one was found at the site of the still at the time of the raid, but in July last, according to the prohibition agents, Oscar Duty of Wolf Lake was shot to death, supposedly in a bootleggers' war. Duty, who was suspected of having operated the still now in Scruggs' office, was accused by other bootleggers of having divulged information in the retaliation for the "tip" on his own still and murdered, according to the bootleggers' code.

SUSPECT IN BETHALTO, ILL., BANK ROBBERY HELD

A man who gave his name as Raymond Pollard is in custody at Fairmont City, Ill., as a suspect in the Bethalto State Bank robbery, Wednesday, and East St. Louis police believe they have found the car used in the holdup.

Pollard was arrested shortly after the bank robbery, speeding in the direction of East St. Louis. A search of his car revealed two $5 bills beneath the seat cushions, and $20 in nickels and quarters wrapped in bank folders.

At the Fairmont City police station Pollard first gave his name as Raymond Kirk, but after several hours of questioning said he was Pollard, and, according to the police, that he was engaged in running. He involved a saloon keeper in Granite City whom he said gave him the money found in his car, and a man named "Holla," a Vernon place in University City, whom he says furnished the car and was a partner in the bootlegging enterprise.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Bert Ferrell, East St. Louis, Saturday discovered an abandoned Studebaker touring car in the brush near the Caseyville road, about one mile east of Washington Park. The car has a nickel plated radiator, which tallies with the description given by witnesses, of the robbers' car. The curtains of the machine had been punched out, presumably for the rifles of the robbers. The initials "R. F. M." were on the door and the Illinois license is 951543.

ST. LOUIS GIRL DANCER TAKES POISON IN ATLANTA

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 24.—Police here today were investigating the poisoning of Mrs. Marie Martin, 33-year-old dancer, of St. Louis, who stated that she swallowed poison tablets by mistake yesterday. A hotel bellboy found her lying on the floor of her room, hysterical and groaning. Quick work by hospital attaches saved her life.

Investigation disclosed a note sent to Harry Mardello, her dance partner, who is ill at another hotel one block away from where Mrs. Martin was staying. In substance, the note read: "Harry Mardello is a clean, honest, straightforward gentleman. I am killing myself because of my love for him. Because he does not love me is not his fault. This is to give him a clean bill and a clean record." The note was addressed "to the public" and signed "Marie Martin." It was found tucked under Mardello's pillow when reporters went to his room to question him. Mardello requested that he be taken to the hospital to see Mrs. Martin, despite his illness.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my criticism will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

La Follette's Physical Fitness

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
HAVE not been able to understand by what process of rational reasoning a man not in the plutocrat class can elect the Republican party in this election. A new light has dawned, however. Your correspondent, XYZ, furnishes the missing link in the criticism of Senator La Follette. He lays great stress on the personal characteristics of Senator La Follette. He complains of senility; true Republican, no mention of monopoly, corruption, slush fund, etc.

If traveling over the country every day and making speeches of two hours every night exposing Republican corruption which this senile Senator, almost single-handedly uncovered against the violent opposition of a hard-boiled, monopoly-controlled Government, is evidence of senility, I say, Lord, give us some more senile Senators, even more senile if anything.

Your correspondent states that Senator La Follette permitted himself to be deflected by petty interruptions. In this regard I will say as an auditor that there were no interruptions. He was in the gallery several hoodlums who continued a persistent and aggravating booing from the time the Senator began speaking until they were thrown out by persons in the audience. Their organized effort, it may be observed, was a very suspicious circumstance. Interruptions ceased when these four or five hoodlums were thrown out.

Again he states, "The Republican party must answer for many crimes." He is absolutely right here. But many of them we might not now know about had it not been for the senile Senator referred to, and that is the big fly in the ointment.

I quote again: "Asking auditors to donate $500, $100, $50 or $10 to the La Follette campaign fund was obviously a mistake. When a man has $10 or more to donate to a campaign fund he becomes ipso facto, a corrupt Republican." This is not true. The following is a corrupt Republican: A Wall street plutocrat who donates $50,000 to the Republican campaign fund, as of Perkins, Punkville, $1000 repeated 50 times, and this towards the end of the campaign.

Offensive as the term "mongoose" is in this instance, that is exactly what we need in Washington; somebody to demolish the old, corrupt political parties. Senator La Follette is the man who can do it.

A man who can condone the many crimes of this administration in Washington, by voting for it, is the victim of a physical contagion, following the theory put forth that graft is all right.

"Deadly Corners."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WILL you please use your good offices to insure a "Go-Stop" sign at the entrance to the entrance of Bellefontaine Cemetery, also at Florissant and Union; also at St. Louis and Grand; also at the beginning and end of Grand boulevard bridge—the south end and north end?

I drive all day and I know those to be deadly corners. IRENE SMITH.

Good Reasons for Davis Vote

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
FOUR years ago I voted for Harding. As I had been a suffragist for many years, I thought the Republicans had done more to bring about suffrage for women than had the Democrats. At that time, four years ago, I thought I was a dyed-in-the-wool Republican. But now there are many important issues to settle. It is true that "truth crushed to earth shall rise again," and will continue to rise again until the question or issue is settled right.

I shall vote for John Davis because I believe him to be a man in the highest sense of that word. He will fight for what is right. He stands four square for equal rights for all and special privileges for none. This is true democracy. The present tariff is a cheat and a swindle on the farmer and a fraud on labor. Davis, his party and his platform, are pledged to tariff revision downward, not upward. We judge a man by his past performance. No talent of scandal touches him. For these and many other reasons I class Davis with "Honest Abe." If he is elected he will not sit, Sphinxlike, with his lips tightly closed, while traitors to their country are permitted to sit in high official positions and amass millions of dollars for themselves.

I am just a plain woman, but still, at the age of 50 years, I retain a lively interest in all things pertaining to good government. The Republicans are making an effort to hush up the oil and other scandals of their administration. Though they may scrub and polish, Daugherty, Denby and Fall, yet the scent of the oil will hang over them all.

MRS. D. M. COWAN.

ROADS OR RUIN.

Sam A. Baker, the Republican candidate for Governor, has been urging his audiences the last few days to support Proposal No. 5, which is the only way to complete the road program. He has been telling the people that the road project is not political. That, of course, is correct. Moreover, it should not have been necessary for Mr. Baker or for any other candidate for office on any ticket to assert that the road project is not political. And it would not have been except for the unscrupulous partisanship of Gov. Hyde, who tried to involve the road project in politics by accusing the Democratic candidate for Governor, Dr. Nelson, with being opposed to the present program and intimating that if Nelson were elected the road project would be imperiled.

The Post-Dispatch is glad to see Mr. Baker presenting this subject in a straightforward, honest light. Proposal No. 5 is not an administration measure. Least of all is it a Hyde measure. Gov. Hyde had nothing to do with it. It is the plan of the State Highway Commission. The members of that commission—two of whom are Republicans and two Democrats—have explained that this plan was adopted as the only solution after considering the situation from every angle. The commissioners are able business men and good citizens. It is as business men and good citizens that they are directing this vital work of road construction.

Proposal No. 5, as is well known, provides for a gasoline tax, an increase in motor licenses and empowers the Highway Commission to issue State road bonds at the rate of $15,000,000 a year in order to hasten the completion of the highway system. The commissioners, in a clear and comprehensive statement, have explained why this additional revenue is necessary.

When the $50,000,000 bond issue was authorized in 1920 a highway system of 3500 miles was contemplated. But that mileage was more than doubled by the act of the 1921 Legislature, known as the centennial road law, and other requirements as to simultaneous construction in all the counties were incorporated. The project thus mapped out and legally commanded was ambitious and magnificent, but the Legislature overlooked the fact that sufficient funds to carry it through were not provided. The State bonds, Federal aid and the revenue from the McCullough-Morgan law altogether were not, and are not, adequate to this program. More funds must be provided. Hence Proposal No. 5.

It should be kept in mind, too, that our road enterprise is not a failure. We now have 1390 miles of graded, bridged and hard-surfaced roads. We have 1690 miles of graded and bridged roads ready for hard-surfacing. We have 382 miles under contract for hard-surfacing and 386 miles under contract for grading and bridging. This represents an investment of $40,000,000, of which $15,000,000 came from bond issue proceeds. Contracts let up to Oct. 1 total $35,000,000.

But the Highway Commission has used up all its money. All available funds up to 1926 have been contracted. Unless Proposal No. 5 is ratified the Highway Commission must, in effect, go out of business. Of course, it will supervise the construction contracted for, but it cannot plan for future work. It will cease to be a going concern, so to speak. Its status will be much like that of a receivership winding up the affairs of an insolvent. And when 1926 arrives, with the revenues then available, the State, in order to resume the business of road building, will have to reorganize its Highway Department and take up anew the difficult task of contracting construction, revive its relations with material and machinery dealers—in a word, go through the laborious and costly process of getting back into the business of road building. Just what all this will mean in loss of time, loss of money by way of forfeited Federal aid and general deterioration cannot very well be computed. But it will be disastrous.

That is the situation. Finally, in ratifying Proposal No. 5 the people of Missouri will not be voting excessive taxes on themselves. As has frequently been pointed out, three-fourths of the states already have gasoline tax and the average state motor license throughout the country is higher than the Missouri license will be when increased as proposed. Moreover, this gasoline tax can be repealed and the motor license reduced when the program is completed. Again, the saving to car owners in repairs, upkeep and operation will more than offset the tax.

The Post-Dispatch believes that the gasoline tax and increased motor license are temporary. For there can be no question that Missouri will have a magnificent highway system when the program is completed. We will have 12 cross-state roads east and west and 11 cross-state roads north and south. We will have 700 miles of good roads, traversing every county in the State. With this program completed the sun will have set forever on our mud era. Missouri will be just about at the head of the column of good-road states.

Every man and woman in Missouri ought to vote for No. 5.

KU KLUX ATTACK ON SCHOOLS.

Michigan voters will be called upon at the coming election to accept or reject a constitutional amendment, acceptance of which would mean the closing of all private schools for children up to the age of 16 years. The Detroit News is making a valiant fight against this appeal to religious prejudice, pointing out that all the schools, public and private, have practically the same standard and are under State supervision. The effect of the amendment, if carried, would be that the taxpayers of Detroit would have to provide for 60,000 children now housed and taught in private schools. It would mean an enormous expenditure for new buildings, the existing public schools being overcrowded. That point of view makes the proposition of interest to every taxpayer.

How such an amendment carried in Oregon can only be explained by conceding that that Far Western State had but few private schools that were affected by it. The question is now before the Supreme Court for decision as to its constitutionality. If the Michigan amendment should carry, the Ku Klux element behind it would no doubt make similar movements in other states.

In the guise of zeal for the public schools the fanatics who foster such legislation would not only impose an enormous extra burden upon the taxpayers, but would practically confiscate the property and equipment now utilized by the private schools, and cause the dismissal of all teachers in such schools. It is an attack not only upon parochial schools, but upon country day schools, private boarding schools, denominational schools and academies, and hundreds of similar institutions throughout the country. And it is one of the pet projects of the "invisible empire," as a part of its widespread plot to destroy religious liberty and get control of the Government everywhere.

POLITICS IN THE TREASURY?

There is nothing in the revenue bill which required Secretary Mellon to open up the income lists yesterday. The law says that these lists shall be made available to public inspection "as soon as practicable in each year." Secretary Mellon could have selected Dec. 1 or any other day before Dec. 31 quite as well as a date 12 days before election.

Now, either this date was selected without thinking of the political consequences or it was selected deliberately for political effect. The Post-Dispatch does not believe that Secretary Mellon is not aware that this is the final stage of a hot campaign. The Post-Dispatch is compelled to believe, therefore, that Secretary Mellon has deliberately thrown the administration of the Treasury into partisan politics.

Is not the opening of these lists at this time a political move? Whether its purpose is to frighten business men about La Follette or to help elect a Mellon-plan Congress does not matter. Is it not the fact that the Treasury has been used for partisan purposes? That millions of people are put to gross inconvenience for partisan purposes? That class fears and class hatreds are deliberately stirred up for partisan purposes?

How can this conclusion be escaped? Secretary Mellon opened the lists without any warning. He opened them not on a date specified by law but on a date which happened to mark the beginning of the final phase of the campaign. Were he opposed to the publicity of income-tax returns, it would have been quite simple for him to announce that he would open the lists on Dec. 31, unless the Congress which meets in December repealed this provision.

The business community and the income-tax payers can thank the administration for all the consequences of this publicity. Secretary Mellon did not have to open the lists before Congress had a chance to reconsider.

Times have changed since Dr. Samuel Johnson named patriotism as the last refuge of a scoundrel. The defense in the oil lease suits indicates that it has become the first.

THE BUNK.

When young T. R. in his campaign for Governor of New York, enters a hall to give a speech the band plays "Over There." Of course, he does not ask for votes merely because he was in the war.

He leaps over a table and lands on the stage. He is not running for office as the son of his father, but one just cannot help being strenuous, you know. It runs in the family.

He waves a battered hat. He could afford a much better hat, but he wants to be one of the people, a real commonish fellow, you know.

A mother starts out with a crying baby. "Don't go," he booms and beams. "I'm used to that. It reminds me of home."

All of which add to the reasons why the messenger boy of Denby and Fall should be Governor of New York.

La Follette is interested in the economic union of labor and the farmer, to say nothing of the political union.

THE "MUDSLINGING" CHARGE.

Assistant Secretary of War Dwight Davis, in a St. Louis address, dismissed John W. Davis as a "mudslinger." If the Democratic candidate for President is a mudslinger then the Senate committee that exposed Fall and Denby was a mudslinger, the Government prosecutors and grand jury which indicted Fall are mudslingers, and the Harding-Coolidge Cabinet was 100 per cent pure instead of 70 per cent. Even the President has yielded, grudgingly, it is true, to the pressure of "mudslingers."

Mr. Dwight Davis' citation of the reduction of taxes as an accomplishment of the Coolidge administration is interesting. Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Mellon were opposed to the tax-reduction bill which was passed. They arrayed all their force and influence, backed by the propaganda of the big interests, in behalf of the Mellon tax plan, which would have been a boon to the few hundred whose incomes were in excess of $67,000 a year, but which contained lesser reductions for the man of small income.

The tax bill that became law was presented by the Democrats and passed with the aid of the progressive bloc. It was not a Republican victory but a Republican defeat.

COOLIDGE AND CORRUPTION.

Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams College, Republican and son of a former Republican President, in repudiating his party and declaring that he would vote for John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential candidate, not only condemns the Republican administration on account of misrule and corruption, but specifically condemns the inexcusable attitude of indifference on the part of the administration to the scandals which affected it. On this point he says:

It seems to me that there has been an inexcusable attitude of indifference on the part of the administration to the scandals which have affected it. Public office is indeed a public trust, and the party that proves itself indifferent ought no longer to be entrusted with the powers of government.

This indifference has been exhibited by every prominent party leader who is supporting the Coolidge-Davis ticket. The most conspicuous evidence of it was not only President Coolidge's reluctance to dismiss members of his Cabinet involved in the scandals, but his miserable excuse offered in his speech to the Associated Press at New York, April 22, when he said: "BUT THE WONDER IS NOT THAT THIS (CORRUPTION) IS SO MUCH AND SO MANY (CORRUPTIONISTS); RATHER THAT IT IS SO LITTLE AND SO FEW."

What can be expected of a party whose leaders condone corruption and incompetence, and at the same time condemn those who expose it?

THE LAST ARGUMENT OF POLITICAL CROOKS.

KIPPED KIPLING.

When our last ballot is voted,
And the boxes are stuffed quite full;
When the orators are voiceless,
And have shot their quota of bull;
They shall rest; and faith, they shall need Till the urge of political problems
Shall set them to work anew!

And what of the fellow who wins it?
He shall come from the potent chair;
He shall brag of his deeds in office,
With words like a trumpet's blare.
We shall find a kick from his election—
John W. Cal or old Bob;
He shall talk with a purpose to tell us
The success he has made of the job.

And ever the voter shall listen,
And ever the voter shall fall;
For the line of gutter shall mark us
Till the line of gutter shall fall;
And ever and aye we go voting,
From all our ideals afar;
We vote for the man and the moment,
To perpetuate things as they are.

THE PRESS BOY.

Sir: I was very much encouraged by what Mr. Antwine said yesterday about the press. I thought the performance given by the Republican press of Missouri during this week, when it published all over the State simultaneously the hideous calumny upon Dr. Nelson, was the worst exhibition of newspaper ethics I had ever witnessed.

I was glad to be reminded by Mr. Antwine that there is now, happily enough, an association among newspapers themselves to put this sort of thing down. I do not entirely share his evident unbelief in the sincerity of the organization. I think it will move, and that hastily. I firmly believe that the press has earnestly desired to purge itself of all unethical practice, and certainly it could not have wanted a more flagrant instance of it than this. I will wager that the wires are hot between officers of the association, and I will bet a dollar to a doughnut we get action.

MISSOURIAN.

ON MARK TWAIN'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

In a review of Mark Twain's autobiography in a recent Globe-Democrat, the reviewer says the words:

"So I may be courteous to men,
Faithful to friends,
True to my God, a fragrance in the path I tread," which Mark applied to some other man, were suitable for himself. Well—hardly, to any notable extent: It is not on record that Mark was very courteous to men—he knew them too well! He was, on the whole, faithful to his friends. If speaking the whole truth about them he regarded as such. As for his attitude to God, if the conventional God of orthodoxy he meant, Mark was a bad, bad, mad skeptic and a pessimist to boot. And, finally, as to the "fragrance" he exuded, Eddie Bok has it on record about the vile, foul-smelling, old cob pipe Mark carried wherever he went, and the peculiar kind of tobacco he used. Our Mark was the last person that wanted all these nice things said about him.

MACK.

What with demagogues and plutocrats, 'tis no small wonder that the whole country is agog.

COLLEGIATE PHILOSOPHY.

When it comes to swimming, the women certainly outstrip the men.
The old bachelor was the boy that always wanted the toys the neighbors' kids had.

The old maid wails the girl who kept her cat locked in the garret and prayed God to bring her kittens.

The main reason you don't see more good-looking women at church is because you don't go often enough.

Some people take to religion because they have tried everything else.

A matchmaking mother doesn't want much light.

A doctor a day keeps Ben Davis away.

A man gets a kick from a woman when she only raises her lips.

When a boy knows how clever a girl is, she isn't clever enough.

Love is a psychic gas, its aroma so soporiferous that the merest whiff makes the brute man idiotically susceptible to lady's trifling whims.

The noticeable effects are of short duration.

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

From the Boston Globe.

THE cupboard is bare of campaign contributions, and this appears to be the case in the case of all three presidential candidates. It is estimated that all three presidential committees have not spent more than $2,000,000 between them, which is a very small sum for a campaign of this kind. The feeling prevails among experts that the election will depend upon changes take place during the next weeks. Campaign managers are busy for dollars. There have been cases in which money bulked large. In 1912, shipments of bank notes to Indiana were supposed to have influenced the election. The "campaign of silence" was waged against Bryanism in 1900, and the campaign of silence was waged against Bryanism in 1900, and the campaign of silence was waged against Bryanism in 1900.

There is every indication that Brookhart will run far ahead of the progressives. The progressives may be able to carry the vote, but they do not have the money to do so. Continued From Page 29.

plished there is not only a large amount of criticism, but proposals to make at least two of the most revolutionary changes.

Public Ownership.

"It has always been the theory of our institutions that the people should own the Government and not that the Government should own the people. This policy cannot be maintained unless the people continue to own and control their own property. The most important property of the country is transportation and water power. It is not only very large in amount, but is of the greatest strategic value. It could be used in such a way as to assume virtual control of all other business of any importance. It is proposed that these properties should be brought under public ownership.

"Responsible public commissions have valued these at about $35,000,000,000. Such a cost would more than double all our public debts. Any deficit in earnings would have to be made up out of taxes. We did that during the war at a cost of $1,600,000,000. With the Government in possession of such a great engine, with 2,750,000 employees, spending $9,000,000,000 or $10,000,000,000 each year, holding virtually the power of life and death, what chance would the rest of the people of this country have?

"It would appear to be perfectly obvious that, if these properties are taken off the tax list by public ownership, the other property of the nation must pay their yearly tax of some $800,000,000. In the thinly settled agricultural regions this would make an increase of 30 or 40 per cent on local taxation. Measured by our experience, by efficiency of service, by rate of wages paid, we have everything to lose and nothing to gain by public ownership. It would be a most perilous undertaking, both to the welfare of business and the independence of the people.

The Supreme Court.

"Another principle in which the American people have always strongly believed, and which they have stoutly maintained, is a judicial as against a political determination of causes. When our Constitution was adopted it established the Supreme Court of the United States to be the very citadel of justice. Its members are appointed for life in order that they may be devoted entirely to the administration of justice according to law, and as independent and impartial as it is possible for men to be. One of their chief duties is to protect the rights of the individual.

"Our Government is anything but absolute. It is strictly limited. It has only those powers which are conferred upon it by the Constitution. That Constitution distinctly declares that the President and the Congress are prohibited from doing certain things; the central thought of which is that none shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. There is provision against unlawful searches and seizures in order that the people may be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, also against making any law respecting an establishment of religion or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, and including the right to trial by jury, with many other provisions for the protection of the individual from impositions which other Governments had constantly inflicted upon them. This is in accordance with our theory that the people are born with certain inalienable rights which no Government should have any power to take from them.

The Constitution.

"The same privileges that belong to the individual are likewise guaranteed to the minority and to the several states. We have made our Constitution the supreme law of the land and whenever the Congress, the President or a state Legislature or Governor violates it, anyone who is injured has the right to appeal to the Supreme Court and have such violation prevented. What better method could there be for preserving the rights of the people and of the states? It is not necessary to prove that the Supreme Court never made a mistake? But if the power is taken away from them it is necessary to prove that those who are to exercise it would be likely to make fewer mistakes.

"It is proposed to place this power, which it must be remembered is that of life and death, in the hands of the Congress. That would give to that body power to violate all the rights which I have just mentioned, the power to destroy the states, abolish the presidential office, close the courts and make the will of the Congress absolute. Is it supposed that in the exercise of this power they would be more impartial, more independent than the Judges of the Supreme Court?

"It seems to me that this would be a device more nearly calculated to take away the rights of the people and leave them subject to all the influences which might be exercised on the Congress by the power and wealth of vested interests on one day and the passing whim of popular passion on another day. The poor and the weak would be trampled under foot. Under such a condition of life, liberty and property, and the freedom of religion, speech and the press would have very little security. In time of national peril our Government would have no balance wheel. If this system should be adopted and put into effect the historian would close the chapter with the comment that the people had shown they were incapable of self-government and the American republic had proved a failure. If we are unable to maintain the guarantees of freedom in this land, where on earth can they be maintained? "Our present system is the only one that is adapted to the needs of a free republic, the only one which holds out any promise of providing the security and stability necessary alike for our economic development and the protection of the poor and the weak.

Up to Individual Effort.

"These are some of the methods by which I believe the economic welfare of the people of our country can be advanced. The Government can help to maintain peace, to promote economy, to provide a protective tariff, to assist the farmers, to leave the people in the possession of their own property, and to maintain the integrity of the courts. "But after all, success must depend on individual effort. It is our theory that the people make the government, not that the government makes the people. Unless there abide in them the spirit of industry and thrift, of sacrifice and self-denial, of courage and enterprise, and a belief in the reality of truth and justice, all the efforts of the government will be in vain.

"I believe in the existence of these virtues. I do not think the fathers of the land are going to barter away their property or their liberty. I do not think the mothers of the land are going to abandon the rich heritage that belongs to their children. The American people have faith in themselves. It is justified by their history. They have faith in their government. It is justified by its works. They know it is neither corrupt nor inefficient. They are not likely to be deceived by those who constantly assail our institutions. The intelligence, the courage, the faith of the people, will support America. Against that support no effort for destruction can prevail."

CHICAGO TRACTION PROBLEM AGAIN AN ACTIVE ISSUE

should be put into the bonds of the surface lines. If that had been done, the city would have a very large interest in the lines now. My present proposal would make it possible for the city to acquire an interest in the lines from now on its control growing as its equity increases.

"The cities of Cleveland and Toledo, in their successful experiments in the service-at-cost plan, have provided that, at certain intervals, if the city does not take over the property, the franchise shall be renewed. In Cleveland the interval is 10 years, and the franchise is then renewed for another 10-year period.

"In two years our franchisees run out. I would like to make a settlement, before that time comes, that would be in the interest of the people of Chicago. Then I would be willing to quit. "For Collected from 'L' Lines. The 'L' lines, which charge a 10-cent cash fare and sell tickets three for 25 cents, as well as family passes at $1.25 a week, pay about $200,000 a year to the city usually in car license fees, and a 20 per cent charge on net revenue of the downtown loop only. The money paid by the 'L' goes into general city revenue, and not into the traction fund.

The Chicago traction situation, in some ways more intricate than that of St. Louis, lacks, on the surface, one element of strife that has figured largely in St. Louis traction discussions of late. Here the traction lines are not openly fighting the motor buses.

The Mayor's message says that the buses are carrying 4 per cent of the city's traffic, the surface lines 76 per cent and the 'L' 20 per cent. Since the completion of the Michigan boulevard bridge the north and south buses have a highway which is largely free from surface tracks. But they enter the crowded loop district nevertheless, and the West Side buses run clear through the loop. Inevitably, they get in the way of street cars, which have many other obstructions to contend with.

People Want Buses. The Chicago traction officials probably do not like the buses any better than the St. Louis United Railways management does. But the people like and want the buses, and the city administration has been favorable to them, and the traction managers have accordingly thought it useless to complain.

However, the city has lately questioned the right of the buses to use the streets without special compensation, and the Chicago Motor Coach Co. has offered an agreement providing that the city shall receive 5 per cent of the gross revenue of the buses, which charge a 10-cent fare. Mayor Dever sent the bus proposal to the Council Wednesday, with his traction message.

Union Agents' Conviction Upheld. By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—The Appellate Court handed down a decision here yesterday affirming the conviction of conspiracy charges of Thomas Walsh, former business agent of the Sheet Metal Workers' Union, and Frank Hayes, Roy Shields and Patrick Kane, union business agents. The conspiracy charges against the union agents involved alleged extortion by means of lockouts and strikes during building trades controversies here three years ago. The convictions carried a sentence of one year in jail for each of the defendants.

DAVIS AGAINST SECRET ORDERS IN POLITICS

Says Such Participation Will Lead to Misuse of Societies by Selfish Men for Personal Ends.

ANSWERS HECKLER AT CLEVELAND

Declares Nation Needs More Toleration In and Out of Religion, Not More Suspicion.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 24.—John W. Davis ended his middle western campaign tour here last night with a speech distinguished for its burning eloquence in several passages, its note of lofty idealism at the end, and its biting exhortation of the Ku Klux Klan—an exhortation which he expanded to include "the intrusion into politics of any secret order whatever."

In denouncing the Klan, Davis spoke with a passionate intensity that wrung his audience of 15,000 in a spell of the closest attention. Applause thundered through the hall again and again throughout the statement of his creed.

The speech was delivered in the hall where President Coolidge was nominated by the Republicans and where Senator La Follette was endorsed by the Progressive conference.

As at Chicago, the Klan issue was brought up by a heckler. Davis was in the middle of a discussion of the Washington Arms conference when the interruption came.

"Mr. Davis, please," spoke up the heckler. "What is your stand on the Klan question?"

A small tumult arose. There were several cries of "throw him out."

Davis, however, immediately launched into his reply. It followed, in the beginning, the lines of his remarks on the same subject at Chicago.

"I am not aware," he said, "that question has any intimate connection with battleships. But I am constrained to think that if the gentleman was a reader of the newspapers he would have no doubt about my stand on that question."

He was interrupted by laughter and applause.

His Stand Plain.
He continued in solemn tones, with the manner of a man weighing each word and wishing to drive it home with full force.

"I cannot believe there is any man or woman in the United States interested in this election who does not know that I have taken my stand in language too plain to be misunderstood, in favor of the fundamental guarantees of freedom in religious faith and practice in the United States—applause volleyed through the house—and against any threat from whatever quarter to diminish the civic or the social or the political rights of any man because of his choice to adopt the religion that he learned at his mother's knee."

Again there was a tumult of approval. When it subsided, Davis took up the theme in even graver tones. Both his face and his words had an unwonted grimness. The audience paid him the highest tribute that can be paid an orator—that of hanging almost in awe, on each measured word.

"And whenever the day shall come," he said, "that I am unwilling to lift either hand or voice in defense of that great principle, I trust my arm will fall palsied at my side, and my tongue will cleave to the roof of my mouth."

Davis has never been better as an orator during the whole campaign. Like the snapping of a taut string, applause broke the tension in the audience.

"What about Henry Ford's stand?" called out a voice. The crowd laughed. Davis ignored the interruption.

Throwing, if possible, an even greater seriousness into his voice, he began the elaboration of his theme. Applause followed almost every sentence.

Secret Orders in Politics.
"Now, I think I have answered the gentleman's question," he said, "but though it has nothing on earth to do with the question I am discussing, there is something in that connection that it is greatly on my heart to say to the American people, and it may be I shall find no better moment than the present to express it."

"I wish to say it with the utmost kindness to those who are within, as well as those who are without, the membership of the Ku Klux Klan. I do not believe, and, in my judgment, history will bear me out in the statement, that any lasting good has ever been accomplished or that any lasting good ever can

SECRET ORDERS

be accomplished in a popular government by the intrusion into politics of any secret order whatever. "And I say so because it is the long history of such things—and I am speaking now in terms of historical centuries—that no matter with what lofty purpose they are initiated or what high principles are professed, soon or late, and more often soon than late, they fall under the dominion of selfish men who use them for personal aggrandizement. And, meantime, they sow suspicion and discord by their mere intrusion between man and man, neighbor and neighbor, friend and friend, and inevitably divert public attention from the great questions of governmental policy and administration that should alone guide the people in the election.

"These views of mine, my friends, are not lately conceived nor lightly held. I am a member of two secret orders, and I derive personal companionship and satisfaction from my membership in both, and that I may not speak in cryptic language, I refer to the Elks and the Masons. But, notwithstanding my esteem for those two orders, and I am proud of my membership in both, if the day should ever come when, contrary to the laws of their being and the principles they profess, they should seek to enter the political field or dictate in any way the selection of men for public office, I would feel it my duty as a man and citizen to sever my connection with them instantly.

More Tolerance Needed.
"It is true that their intrusion would destroy themselves, but it would at the same time destroy the ties of affection and respect and confidence that their members are entitled to enjoy with those who are not members of those orders. What we need in this country, instead of greater suspicion and greater discord, is more of the spirit of the Nazarene Himself, more tolerance for the views of other men in religion and out of it, and less half assertion about the defense of our own.

"Has the time gone by when American citizens can no longer look each other in the face and in the immortal language of Lincoln's first inaugural cannot say to each other: 'We are not enemies but friends. We must not be enemies. The mystic chords of memory stretch from every patriot grave and battlefield in all the land will yet swell the chorus of the union, touched as they will be by the anger of our better natures.'

"And no matter from what quarter it comes, let us never forget this, that intolerance of any sort cannot be beaten back by intolerance—it never has been—and that no man can defend his own convictions by decrying or belittling the convictions of his fellows.

"Now, so much, my friends, and I ask your apology for interjecting it, but it has been greatly on my heart to give expression to these views and I thank you for affording me by your patient attention the opportunity to do so."

Introduced by Baker.
Davis was introduced by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, whose tribute to the candidate evoked tumultuous applause. From an expression of high esteem for Baker, Davis launched into one of the longest and most comprehensive speeches he has delivered. At 9:15, after the radio broadcasting of the speech had been stopped in order to give President Coolidge his turn in the air, Davis stepped to the platform and, having talked so long and indicated that he was about to stop.

From all over the place came cries of "No, no," and "Go on." Responding to the evident good will he continued his address for 15 minutes longer.

In his conclusion was an appeal to America to recapture something of the spiritual exaltation that characterized the nation during the war, coupled with an eloquent statement of his concept of true Americanism.

"There was a day," he said, using a simile he has employed several times, "there was a day—indeed I am now willing to confess that 'a day' has passed—thank God, I live to see it—when, not only at home but across the sea, to be an American, like a Roman of old, was greater than to be a King."

"I would have the day return again, and persist, and to come bearing no question of the definition of the term American, no exclusive appropriation of that word; no claim of greater majesty for it when applied to one citizen than to another.

"For, my friends, we are a great composite people in this country. All the races of mankind have come with their hands laden with the gifts of inheritance and faculty God had given them, and each contributing his share to the majestic device we call America today.

"First across the sea, historically came the English and the Scotch and the Irish and Welsh, and the Hollander behind his dykes in little Holland, and the Frenchman, and the Spaniard; then the Germans and the Italians, the people of Central and Western and Southern Europe, and of Northern Europe as well, and each in turn brought some faculty, some fresh impulse, some gift to contribute to the nation they had adopted for themselves and for their children.

Test of Americanism.
"And I have never been of those who believed that the test of any man's Americanism was that he should absolutely divorce the ties of affection and of memory that run inevitably between him and the land that gave to him or to his forefathers birth. It is not necessary in matrimony that the entire devotion a man feels towards the wife of his bosom should extinguish the fragrant memories of his mother's love. What are we all but immigrants, unless it be the scattered remnants of the aborigines who still exist under the wardship of the nation's Government?

"Is not the test of Americanism something higher than the meredate of arrival or the duration of residence—the legal term, of course, being imposed for obvious reasons. Is it not a matter of the soul and of the spirit, and are not those only Americans who, regardless of the tongue they learned in infancy or the land from which they came, have gladly embraced American institutions and have sworn their allegiance to the great principles of human equality, personal liberty and popular sovereignty that have made us what we are?

"And our duty, my friends, as Americans, regardless of our party faith or partisan allegiance, is to hold above them all the welfare and security of our country and the maintenance of the great doctrines which we exhibit to all the world, and which we invite all mankind to imitate and to follow.

"Ah, and I rejoice, too, that in our day there has arisen a voice in America to give them language, that there has come out from those shores a voice that was heard around the world and read wherever the printed page might run by men of every race and creed and color and clime and tongue, and that it was given in our day to a great American to call all mankind to worship with us in the temple of human liberty and the self-determination of peoples.

"Let our duty, my friends, that American ideals have been voiced in our day and time by the voice of Woodrow Wilson."

Bryan Not Vulnerable.
Davis again took notice of the recent statement by Secretary of War Weeks that the real contest for the presidency is between Coolidge and Bryan.

"I am not surprised," he said, "that they should regard that as a formidable contest. They know they cannot point to any vulnerable spot in the official or the private record of the present Governor of Nebraska."

As he has done several times, he eulogized the services of Bryan as Governor of Nebraska and concluded by recommending Bryan to the Senate, if it should be called upon to choose between the two, as far worthier of consideration than the puffy vocabulary of Gen. Dawes."

Then he went on with a speech in which he said in terms and between the lines that he himself expected to be chosen President in the electoral college.

"The time has come in American politics," he asserted, "for a radical change both in the direction in which we are tending, in the policies we are pursuing, and in the individuals by whom they are to be carried out."

Reviewing the record of the Republican party, he told how it had been able to organize the Senate in 1919 with a majority of one that one "being out on bail." This reference was to Senator Newberry. He recalled that the Republicans, then in control of both the House and Senate, ignored the Wilson program of reconstruction, boldly proclaiming in the language of Representative Fordney, that they were voting in that Congress to put President Wilson "in a hole."

Administration Scandals.
He passed in review the scandals of the Harding-Coolidge administration, and aroused applause with his summons to the rank and file of the Republican party to avoid the taint of responsibility by casting a ballot of censure.

Again he attacked the Mellon tax plan and the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill. He asked whether the latter had brought prosperity to the country, and, answering his own question, added: "Ask the farmers of the far West who have suffered an economic disaster unparalleled in this country. And the employees of New England who, although the textile rate were raised 150 per cent, are receiving 25 per cent less in wages than they received in 1920. Ask, if you will, the stockholders in those industries themselves who realize now that there is a point of price-raising beyond which profit cannot go, even to those who raise the prices, for the consuming public will refuse to bear the load."

"Is there any defender in this country of that measure?" I know of none save one—and that the nominee of the Republican party for the office of President. And is that the measure that we are to approve on Tuesday week? I said

I know of but one defender. I exaggerate. Some recent correspondence illuminates the subject. "Have you read Mr. Grundy's letter to the Pennsylvania manufacturers, in which he says: 'Pennsylvania, because you have enjoyed much, you must contribute liberally.' Which is but a modern paraphrase of that good old scriptural rule: 'Freely ye have received, ye freely give.'"

"That is the vice which, as we Democrats insist and have long insisted, lies at the bottom of the whole system under which every about to make us prosperous once tariff bill, save one, since the Civil War has been written. The only bill since that was whose schedules were not framed for the benefit of those who had won political favor was the Underwood-Simmons bill written under Woodrow Wilson."

No Threat to Business.
In lighter vein he referred to the patience of the Democratic party in the face of all the criticism it had endured through the 134 years of its existence.

"Why," he said, "we have outdone Job 10 times over, with all of his disasters. And the Lord seems about to make us prosperous once more."

Davis ridiculed the contention that the Democratic party "threatens business." It proposed, he said, a revision of the tariff, "such a revision as will injure no legitimate business in all the land."

MAN SALUTE CANNOT SCARE HIM, COL. ROOSEVELT SAYS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Oct. 24.—In Ku Klux Klan Delaware County, in the Shawangunk Mountains, a crowd of 2000 turned out with American flags and enthusiasm to hear Col. Theodore Roosevelt speak beside the railroad tracks at Walton yesterday.

He had hardly commenced when a boom, more like a big gun than a blast, resounded from the hills overlooking the Walton Railroad station. A buzz of recognition ran through the crowd—"the klan salute." No one seemed to question it among the natives.

"Of course, it was a klan salute," they said when asked about it. "Quarry up there hasn't done any blasting in weeks. We thought it meant."

When the Colonel was told the klan had fired off some dynamite to greet him, he said:

"I know they hate me like poison. I wonder if they thought it would scare me."

Made ye olde-tyme way & enjoy'd ye nation over since this centurie began

"DOCTORS" NO LONGER SELL DANCE TICKETS

Complaints Are Made Against Methods of Karchmer's Salesmen.

Jacob K. Karchmer is back in the want ad columns again. Last May he was appealing to his friends to rally 'round him just before he was expelled from the American Legion. This week he published the following "personal":

ANNOUNCEMENT—Any lady who loves the United States is eligible for membership in the Woman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the G. A. R. No restriction of race or color, only qualifications necessary, now in your opportunity to join this historic and patriotic order. Membership drive ends with grand ball at Hotel Statler, Nov. 22. Apply in person at Room 304, Pullerton Bldg., or phone Olive 3218.

Complaints From Purchasers.

In connection with the sale of tickets at $1 each for the grand ball, the Better Business Bureau has received complaints of alleged misrepresentation by Karchmer's staff of ticket salesmen. Several business men reported answering their office telephones and hearing something like this:

"This is Dr. Karchmer speaking. I'm taking a few minutes away from my patients this afternoon to help out a worthy cause." Information about the grand ball and the dollar tickets would follow. The business man, thinking he was being solicited by a physician, rather than a professional ticket seller, might buy.

Karchmer, whose office is at Room 304, sells patented can openers for a living, and promotes dances as a sideline, he explained to reporters yesterday. For the grand ball he had four or five men selling the tickets over the telephone and in person. One happened to be a physician who wasn't practicing and two others were medical students who flattered themselves with the title of doctor. But Karchmer was certain there had been no misrepresentation. To avoid the appearance of it, he even replaced the "doctors" with laymen. No more would anyone hear "This is Dr. Karchmer speaking."

Nature of the Promotion.

The drive referred to in the advertisement is for 200 charter members for the new Richard Miller Corps of the W. R. C. The enrollment fee is $2, and about 56 members have been obtained so far, Karchmer said.

"Not quite" 2000 tickets at $1 have been sold for the grand ball, Karchmer said, but he hopes to sell more than 2000 before Nov. 22. He would not divulge the percentage of commissions paid his salesmen on ticket sales.

"Everybody's doing it," he declared. "You investigate almost any dance and you'll find a professional got it up. But, even though the professional gets his commission, the organization sponsoring the dance gets far more money than it would otherwise, because more tickets are sold."

In making public the complaints, the Better Business Bureau emphasized that no criticism of the Woman's Relief Corps was intended. This charitable and social organization dates back to 1885, and has about 2800 members in Missouri, eight corps being in St. Louis. It ministers to war veterans and decorates graves of the dead.

will deprive no laboring man of the opportunity for a single day of toil, but will not forget that the consumer must have his day in court as well, and that you do not promote the prosperity of the land by giving to monopoly and to privilege the uncontrolled power to write its own law.

"What is it that brings about instability in the tariff in this country? It is the uncontrolled and un-intelligent breed of men who, when they have power to take an advantage, do not know enough to take it with moderation. That is the source of instability. And are we to be told that inequities are to be forgiven, that unjust laws must remain in force because, forsooth, those who enjoy the advantage from them prefer not to be disturbed?"

Basis of Foreign Policy.

"Is there anything in the foreign policy of the Democratic party that threatens business? What do we need in this country, so far as foreign affairs are concerned? All our foreign policy to date has centered around two ideas. Peace for ourselves and all mankind—peace so that the seas that lap our shores might be filled with cargoes of cargo to and from the countries of the world, untroubled and untroubled by a single cannon shot from shore to shore. Peace that those who toil and labor might enjoy the fruit, undiminished, of their industry, their enterprise, their invention, without wasting it upon the battlefield or in international conflict, but that every man, under his own vine, might sing the merry songs of peace to all his neighbors."

"And the other thing we have aspired to, and legitimately so, is a fair chance in the undisturbed markets of the world—the open door—and that we might have our part in the mutual service, which after all, is but another name for commerce itself, for what is commerce, my friend? It is not mostly the figures in the dusty ledger of some bookkeeper. You will not read its story if you run up and down the pages of a petty cash account. What is it but the mutual service rendered by unknown men to unknown men around the world?

That commerce it has been our great ambition to protect. Is it an unworthy ambition to see opened again to the farmers of the United States the great consuming market of Europe? Is it an unworthy ambition that the merchant marine upon which we spent such countless millions, shall have cargoes to carry? Is it an unworthy ambition that in and out of our American commerce there shall flow the stimulating lifeblood that comes from its expansion around the globe?

These are the ambitions that the Democracy cherishes for the business men of America. Is there any threat in that?"

Mayo's Successor Chosen.

By the Associated Press.

SKYSCRAPER HOSPITALS FAVORED FOR BIG CITIES

Patients Above Tenth Floor Escape Noise, Odors and Piles That Infest Streets.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Healing the sick in St. Luke's Hospital here will go on under conditions equalled only in the country or in the mountains, although the hospital is located in one of the most congested business districts of the city and on the busiest boulevard.

Because it is a skyscraper hospital towering 19 stories, the tallest in the world, patients treated in rooms above the tenth floor will escape the odors, noise and files which inhabit the lower stratum of air. Thus the convalescent will find himself in an atmosphere as favorable as the resort retreat.

"Pressure of increased real estate values forces us to build skyscraper hospitals if we are to stay in locations where we will be of most service to the community," said Louis R. Curtis, vice president and general manager of the hospital.

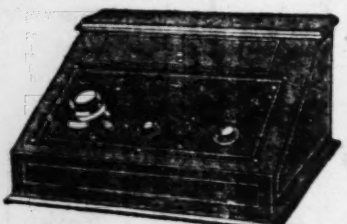

Moreover, this type of building is vastly more economical to build and to operate, per bed, than the old-style hospital. The movement to build skyscraper hospitals in the center of life of great cities, rather than the conventional low hospital many miles out, is the answer."

OPPOSES HART'S NAME ON LIBERAL TICKET

Hawes Files Writ Seeking to Prevent Opponents Name on Two Ballots.

By Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24.—Legal action was instituted in Supreme Court today by Harry Hawes, Democratic candidate for re-election as Congressman from the Eleventh (St. Louis) District, to prevent the name of his Republican opponent, Michael Hart, from appearing on the ballot of the Liberal party of Missouri, as congressional candidate. An application for a writ of mandamus against the St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners was filed by Wayne Ely, St. Louis attorney, representing Hawes.

Hart is the Republican nominee from the Eleventh District. Recently the Eleventh District Committee of Liberal party filed an affidavit with the secretary of State nominating Hart for Congress on the Liberal ticket, to fill a vacancy on the ticket. "This would place Hart's name on both ballots and he would be credited with votes cast for him on both tickets. The writ sought, if granted, would prevent the board from placing Hart's name on the Liberal ticket."

It is contended in the application for a writ of mandamus that no nominations for Congressmen had been made by the Liberal party and that under the law vacancies for congressional candidates could occur only through death or resignation of a candidate nominated in the primary. It also was asserted that the Eleventh District committee which filed Hart's name was not regularly organized, because no district convention of the party had been held.

A protest was filed yesterday with the Board of Election Commissioners against Hart's name going on the Liberal ballot, but the objection was overruled by the board because the secretary of State already had certified Hart's name to the board both as a Republican and Liberal nominee. The protest was filed by Ely in the name of Emmett Golden, a Democratic precinct worker; Mrs. Thomas Swinney, Republican, who said she voted for Hart in the Republican primary, and John R. Prendiville, Republican.

Hawes Criticizes Hart for Being on Two Ballots.

Congressman Hawes is assailing Hart, in his speeches, for what he terms an attempt to "ride two horses going in different directions."

In speeches yesterday and last night, Hawes declared that "the same man could not honestly support Coolidge and La Follette." He asked whether his opponent intended, if elected, to "betray" the Republican party or the La Follette party.

Hawes also directed his questions to Nat Goldstein, chairman of the Eleventh District Republican Congressional Committee, and to Chairman L. J. Becker of the Republican City Committee, who is a member of the Eleventh District Committee. He asked whether they were parties to the placing of Hart's name on the two tickets, and asks whether they are "knowingly assisting" in adding another member to the group of Republicans in Congress who cannot be trusted to uphold Republican measures.

ST. LOUISANS CONTRIBUTE $50,000 TO G. O. P. FUND

Solicitor Does Not Count on Getting $100,000 Quota Allocated for City by National Committee.

St. Louisans are not responding with expected liberality to the Republican national campaign fund. A. L. Shapleigh, in charge of the solicitation, said today he did not count upon obtaining the $100,000 which has been fixed as the quota or expectancy for St. Louis.

Asked for information about the St. Louis fund today, Shapleigh said: "The most that I can say about it is that it is hard to get. The largest contribution has been published. There are no other large ones. Solicitation is personal. I have called on four or five men to assist me. They are supplied with names of persons who should be sufficiently interested to contribute. Most of the contributions are comparatively small. I can say that the total will be $50,000, but there is no reason to expect that it will reach $100,000."

Several checks had come in the morning mail, Shapleigh ran them over to show the drift of the contributions. They ranged from $25 to $100.

The largest contribution, to which he referred, was that of Harry F. Knight, securities broker, who was stated in the Senate campaign fund inquiry to have given $10,000.

Shoots Two, Carries Off Wife.

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 24.—Angered, it is said, because his bride of less than two weeks returned to the home of her parents, Frank James, farmhand, went to the home last night, fired a load of buckshot each into his father-in-law, J. P. Mahan, and brother-in-law, Hugh Mahan, seized his wife and vanished into the darkness. Both men are badly wounded and were rushed to a hospital here. James and the girl, who is 20 years old, were married after the match had been opposed by the bride's family.

SWEDISH RAILROADS DROP FIRST CLASS COMPARTMENTS

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 24.—Railway companies in Sweden have decided to abolish first-class traveling accommodations and offer only second and third class to the public. The Government owns most of the railroads in Sweden, and as early as 1900 began to eliminate the first-class accommodations, as there was very little difference between first and second class arrangements.

Several years ago second and third-class sleepers were provided on Government lines, and now the few operating private companies have offered similar facilities with the announcement they also are abandoning first class.

11,000 on Unauthorized Strike.

By the Associated Press.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 24.—Eleven thousand employees of the Pennsylvania Coal Co. in the Pittston district and at Underwood, Pa., went on strike today. The walkout was called last night by the General Grievance Committee, in defiance of the union leaders. The miners declared that their leaders and company officers had delayed too long in the adjustment of grievances.

10,756,588 Gallons of Wine.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 24.—This year's vintage of wines in South Australia is the largest ever produced. It amounts to 10,756,588 gallons, an increase of 30 per cent over last year's production.

"GRAND NEPHEW" OF FRANKLIN

"Long John" Says He's the "Black Sheep" of Family.

By the Associated Press.

SATLEY, Nev., Oct. 24.—Back in the middle ages "Franklin" meant freeholder and John Henry Franklin, known to residents of this section as "Long John" and reputed grand nephew of Benjamin Franklin, is running true to form. He is a freeholder of a tentative dam site near here and in the summer months lives in a log cabin there residing in Satley during the winter.

"Long John" is 68 years old, tall and with hair and beard, tinged with gray. He is a bachelor and takes great pride in baking pies and cake. He describes himself as the "black sheep" of an illustrious family and has little faith in the writings of Benjamin Franklin in regard to liquor.

FORMER "JOINTS" NEAR HERRIN, ILL., BURNED

Five Places Destroyed in Williamson County—Injunctions Were About to Expire.

By the Associated Press.

HERRIN, Ill., Oct. 24.—An arson squad destroying only former "hottel" places is working in Williamson County, reports coming into military headquarters indicate. Fires have been reported three nights this week and five former "joints" have been mysteriously burned.

The places were all closed following raids by the Ku Klux Klan last December and were locked up under Federal injunctions which would have expired in the near future. One of the places contained a large dance floor, bar, restaurant and several lodging rooms. Constant fear of a clash between Klan and anti-Klan factions prevails and an open outbreak is prevented only by the presence of an entire company of national guardsmen. Six Klansmen filed bond in Marion late yesterday on warrants charging assault with attempt to kill two anti-Klansmen in a fight last Tuesday in the Herrin city hall.

FORMER "JOINTS" NEAR HERRIN, ILL., BURNED

Five Places Destroyed in Williamson County—Injunctions Were About to Expire.

HERRIN, Ill., Oct. 24.—An arson squad destroying only former "hoedown" places is working in Williamson County, reports coming into military headquarters here. Fires have been reported three nights this week and five former "joints" have been mysteriously burned.

The places were all closed following raids by the Ku Klux Klan last December and were locked up under Federal injunctions which would have expired in the near future. One of the places contained a large dance floor, bar, restaurant and several lodging rooms.

Constant fear of a clash between Klan and anti-klan factions prevails and an open outbreak is prevented by the presence of an entire company of national guardsmen. Six klansmen filed bond in Marion yesterday on warrants charging assault with attempt to kill two anti-klanmen in a fight last Tuesday in the Herrin city hall.

DAVIS GOES TO NEW YORK FOR WHIRLWIND WINDUP

Pleased With Enthusiasm Aroused in West and Believes He Will Win in Electoral College.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ON BOARD JOHN W. DAVIS SPECIAL TRAIN, ENROUTE TO NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—His personal campaign in the West completed, John W. Davis today is headed eastward, to finish the campaign with a week of whirlwind speechmaking in and around the city of New York. Davis has been told that he has a good chance to carry New York. He will improve that chance to the utmost of his ability as a campaigner.

Davis returns to New York with a feeling of high confidence in the outcome of the election. He believes that he will win—and win by a "knockout" in the electoral college rather than by a "decision on points" in Congress.

Talking to the correspondent today, he expressed himself as well pleased with the results of his second Western trip, during which he addressed large audiences in six States, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio.

He believes that Missouri is thoroughly safe for the Democrats and that the same is true of all the other so-called border States. He has high hopes of Indiana. He derives encouragement from the prediction of George Brennan, the Chicago leader, that Illinois will go Democratic. Conditions are not so promising in Ohio, though some of the Davis party professed to see in the enthusiastic Cleveland gathering a sign that the tide is running in Davis' favor.

Davis laughed at a published forecast of Republican victory in Maryland. He counts that State as sewed up for the Democrats.

Not the least of Davis' achievements in the West was the harmonizing of local factional differences. He proved himself a peace-maker of the first rank. In Tennessee he brought together leaders who had been at outs for years and set them to work in harness for the State and the national ticket.

Physically, as well as mentally, the candidate is in fine shape for the closing round of the battle.

"Three weeks ago," he said, "I was tired. I could feel myself sagging. But I've got my second wind now, and could go on for 30 days."

LOW PRICE BUTTER PREDICTED BY CREAMERYMEN FOR WINTER

Speakers Before Association Here Say There Are 150,000,000 Pounds in Storage.

Low-priced butter throughout the coming winter was predicted by speakers before the Missouri Creamerymen's Improvement Association at the Marquette Hotel yesterday. A cool and rainy summer, they pointed out, reduced ice cream consumption with resulting excess of butter production, so that 150,000,000 pounds of butter are now in the storage warehouses of America and the price is 10 cents a pound less than that of last year.

An advertising campaign to cost $500,000 and be nationwide in character was discussed as a means of reducing surplus stocks.

State Dairy Commissioner E. G. Bennett spoke to the 30 creamery representatives attending on "The Improvement of Missouri Cream." Will A. Foster of the National Dairy Council addressed them on "The Story of the Foods We Eat." George McClatchey of Kansas City is president and William H. E. Reid, associate professor of dairying at the University of Missouri, secretary of the organization.

HERRINGTON'S SLAYER SANE, COUNTY PHYSICIAN DECIDES

Robert Tate Is Normal After Being Placed in Isolated Cell Alone.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.

MARION, Ill., Oct. 24.—Robert Tate, confessed poisoner of Jodie Herrington, that he might marry Herrington's widow, is not insane according to County Physician D. H. Harris. Dr. Harris, hearing that Tate was acting queerly following his attempt to commit suicide with a piece of spring wire from his bed, made a mental investigation of the prisoner and believing him sane ordered everything removed from his small cell and put him in a tier of cells by himself.

The insanity disappeared at once and Tate now plays cards with the other prisoners and is normal. His trial, together with that of his wife, who was Herrington's widow, will come up in February.

FOUR SAILORS ON SCHOONER ADRIFT IN ARCTIC ICE

Ship Is Fourth Vessel This Season to Be Thus Caught—Had First Stranded.

By the Associated Press.
SEASIDE, Alaska, Oct. 24.—The gasoline schooner, Silver Wave, of Nome, with four men aboard her, has been carried off by the ice of the Arctic Ocean, it was learned today.

The Silver Wave, fourth vessel to be seized this season in the grasp of ice in the Alaskan Arctic, was caught in Kotzebue Sound, 180 miles north of Bering Strait, whether she was hurrying for safety on her last trip before winter.

The Silver Wave first stranded, according to reports reaching here, Her cargo and passengers were taken off near the end of a long peninsula running into Kotzebue Sound, while Capt. Pegness, master and owner, and the engineer were ashore, the Silver Wave was seen moving out to the ocean.

Slush ice prevented the master and engineer from reaching the vessel and kept the four men, the members of the crew, who remained aboard, from coming ashore.

HONEYMOON IN LEPER COLONY.
FATE OF PHILIPPINE COUPLE

Wedding Breakfast Precedes Departure of Two Lepers in Hope They Can Be Cured.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
MANILA, Oct. 19.—The marriage of two lepers was celebrated recently at a nuptial mass at San Lazaro, the contagious hospital in Manila, after which the couple were sent to Cullion Island, where 5500 lepers are confined and where they hope to be cured.

The romance started in San Lazaro and the courtship was carried on chiefly by mail, the superintendent of the hospital believing this the most dignified manner for the young native lovers to exchange messages.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was given the couple by their friends in the hospital, and a few hours later they departed for the leper colony.

MAN INJURED TRYING TO HOP FREIGHT TRAIN DIES

Painter Succumbs to Fractured Spine After Operation in Granite

Injuries suffered when he tried to hop a moving freight train in the railroad yards at Granite City Wednesday, caused the death today of John Orr, 31 years old, a painter of Detroit, at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City. He died shortly after surgeons had performed an operation to remedy a fracture of the spine.

Orr had been in St. Louis and was "bumming" his way back to Detroit. He attempted to board the moving train at the C. & E. I. freight platform, but lost his footing and was dragged about 50 feet between the platform and the car. Relatives in Detroit have been notified and the body will be sent there for burial.

Martin H. Nickoleisen, 17 years old, of 224 East Virginia avenue, St. Louis County, and August Spinner, 22, of 2311 Indiana avenue, night office clerks, were stunned across the room from the radiator when a blast of steam wrenched it from the wall. The cause of the accident, and the amount of damage done have not been determined.

The dance she

THE man was an attractive fellow and a good dancer. But she didn't want to dance with him again.

By a clever excuse, she slipped away and "sat it out" on the balcony.

You, yourself, rarely know when you have halitosis (unpleasant breath). That's the insidious thing about it. And even your closest friends won't tell you.

Sometimes, of course, halitosis comes from some deep-seated organic disorder that requires professional advice. But usually—and fortunately—halitosis is only a local condition that yields to the regular use of Listerine as a mouth wash and gargle. It is an interesting thing that this well-known antiseptic that has been in use for years for surgical dressings, possesses these unusual properties as a breath deodorant.

Test the remarkable deodorizing effects of Listerine this way: Rub a little onion on your fingers. Then apply Listerine and note how quickly the onion odor disappears.

This safe and long-trusted antiseptic has dozens of different uses; note the little circular that comes with every bottle. Your druggist tells Listerine in the original brown package only—never in bulk. There are three sizes: three ounce, seven ounce and fourteen ounce. Buy the large size for economy.—Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, Saint Louis, U. S. A.

PRISON FOREMAN IS ACCUSED OF DRUG SMUGGLING

Andrew Schaller Arrested at Jefferson City by Federal Agents After Inquiry.

DENIES GUILT AFTER QUESTIONING

Released on $5000 Bond for Hearing Nov. 7
Warden's Complaint
Brought Federal Aid.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24.—A Federal investigation of the smuggling of drugs into the Missouri penitentiary was revealed last night when Federal operatives arrested Andrew Schaller, a foreman in the prison, and held him on a charge of dealing in narcotics. Federal agents today said the investigation still was in progress and additional developments were expected.

Schaller was arraigned today before United States Commissioner Promme and his preliminary hearing set for Nov. 7. He was released on $5000 bond, signed by Arthur E. Blazer, chairman of the Republican County Committee, and several Jefferson City business men.

Evidence against Schaller was not disclosed, pending further investigation within the prison, but Harry L. Donnelly of Kansas City, Assistant United States District Attorney, today said at least two charges of violating the narcotic laws would be filed against Schaller today.

Woman Sleuth Aide Arrest.
Schaller was arrested last night at a local hotel. Schaller was called there by a woman operative, it was said, and asked to take some drugs to a "convict friend." While the conference was in progress, other Federal agents appeared and placed Schaller under arrest after a lively struggle. Schaller denied the charges. It was said, after several hours of questioning by Federal agents and prison officials. He is employed as foreman of the junk shop inside the prison, and has been on the prison payroll about two years.

The Federal operatives said they came here from Kansas City recently at the request of Warden J. S. Crawford and began trying to trace the source of the drug supply being smuggled into the prison. The inquiry had been in progress for some time.

Warden Declines Comment.
Warden Crawford today declined to comment on the arrest or what had been uncovered in the investigation, declaring it was a Federal case and he had nothing to do with it.

Narcotics, particularly morphine, have been finding their way into the prison in considerable quantities. Quantities of drugs have been discovered in packages, magazines, fruit and other articles sent to convicts by friends outside the prison, but the principal supply has been getting in through some other and unknown method. Prison officials have suspected that the smuggling was being conducted by guards or foremen.

While some of the supply is cut off in the penitentiary offices by close examination of mail and all articles sent to convicts, the greater part of the drugs confiscated are taken from convicts in whose possession they are found. Inquiry as to the sources of supply for those convicts usually is fruitless.

During the previous administration of Warden Samuel Hill, who resigned in July, 1923, and who was succeeded by Crawford, it was stated that morphine and cocaine enough for 100,000 injections was confiscated in a single year by prison officials, and the traffic has since continued with varying success.

William Marbain, a grocer, 5818 Easton avenue, was fined $25 in the Court of Criminal Correction today because it was shown that his 11-year-old son, Max, had attended school only two days this year.

John D. Quinn, chief attendance officer of the Board of Education, testified that, on several occasions, he had sent transient officers to the boy's parents and that once he had the parents summoned to the Prosecuting Attorney's office.

Judge Calvin Miller told Marbain, who testified that he could do nothing with his son, that he should not only take the boy to school but that he should see that he remained there.

350 DENTAL VOLUMES GIVEN TO LIBRARY

First Collection of Its Kind Is Made Available to Public by St. Louis Society.

A dental library of 350 volumes, the first collection of its kind to be made available to the public in St. Louis, has been placed in the custody of the Public Library by the St. Louis Dental Society, and is now being catalogued for immediate issuance.

The collection, assembled during the last eight months through contributions from some 200 St. Louis dentists and six other persons not in the profession, comprises not only a comprehensive technical literature dealing with various phases of dentistry, but numerous works on medicine, surgery, chemistry, physiology and hygiene. Most notable of all its contents, perhaps, are its bound volumes of dental periodicals, some of which long have been suspended publication. Among these may be found the complete files from 1883 to 1883 of the Missouri Dental Journal, said among dentists to have been the most distinguished magazine of the profession in the field. As a living publication it ceased to exist many years ago.

First Instance in Country.
This is said to be the first instance in the country of a professional library of such dimensions being placed in the hands of the public through a public library. According to Dr. Edward E. Haverstick, president of the Dental Society, the decision to handle it in this manner was made as a result of the Public Library's offer to administer the collection as a service to the public and because of that institution's facilities for keeping the books without the overhead cost that maintenance of a separate library would entail. The books will remain the property of the Dental Society, but will not be kept together as a separate collection. They will be catalogued and shelved according to subjects and distributed among the various departments according to the public's needs. Each volume, however, will be identified separately as a Dental Society book by a book plate bearing the name of the donor. Dr. Haverstick said that further donations are expected to increase the collection to several thousand volumes within a few years. A donation of $50 was received from the St. Louis Society of Dental Science Monday. Other gifts of books are arriving at the library daily.

Dedication Held.

A formal dedication of the collection was held at a dinner given by the Dental Society at Hotel Chase Oct. 13, the program including talks by Dr. A. E. Bostwick, Librarian of the St. Louis Public Library, and Dr. Arthur D. Black, dean of the Dental School of Northwestern University. In his address on "The Librarian as a Surgeon of the Mind," Dr. Bostwick explained the function that the public librarian fills in diagnosing the educational ills of readers and prescribing the proper remedies. It is important, he said, that these "surgeons" know their instruments, which are books, but more important than they know their patients. Dr. Black pointed to the arrangement as a great opportunity for the dental profession in St. Louis and praised the Public Library's action as an example of commendable public service.

NEGRO FINED $25 FOR SENDING LOVE NOTE TO WHITE GIRL

Requests Her to Meet Him on Corner But Engagement Is Kept by Policeman.

John Jackson, who also gave his name as Willie Jones, a young negro, of 3142 Pine street, was fined $25 in Police Court today for sending a note to a young white woman, employed at the same tobacco factory at which Jackson works, requesting the girl to meet him and telling her he loved her.

Jackson was called by telephone, at the number given in his note, by a policeman. She arranged to meet him at Cardinal avenue and Pine street last Tuesday evening. The young woman, who received this note, went to the corner, and when Jackson came to her he was arrested by policeman waiting for him. He denied in court that he was the right man.

NON-IMMIGRANT PASSPORTS FOR CHINESE STUDENTS

Correspondence of the Associated Press. PEKING, Sept. 29.—The Minister of Education has rescinded his recent instruction to the provincial authorities that the sending of students to America be discouraged, in order to avoid "a special intellectual influence" growing up in China as a result. In his new instruction the Minister says: "A letter has been received from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs stating that the American State Department has instructed its consuls in China to issue nonimmigrant passports to students going to America for the purpose of study in those institutions recognized by the United States Government. Thus, since the obstacle has been removed, consuls should be held as usual without suspension."

"BEWARE!" —warns The Danger Line

By MARKING a plain, white line in the middle of the road, State Highway Commissions have warned of danger and prevented thousands of accidents. Just as dental authorities have helped safeguard health by calling attention to The Danger Line on our teeth.

For it is at The Danger Line—those tiny V-shaped crevices where teeth meet gums—that food particles collect and ferment, forming acids which lead to tooth decay and conditions favorable to Pyorrhea. These acids must be safely, thoroughly and regularly neutralized or serious illness may be the direct result.

Today dental authorities recommend one safe, thorough way to prevent trouble at The Danger Line on your teeth—use Squibb's Dental Cream made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. It instantly neutralizes acids which might attack the teeth and gums. It relieves sensitiveness, soothes and strengthens tender gums and reduces the hazard of Pyorrhea. It cleans thoroughly and brings out the beauty of your teeth. Buy Squibb's Dental Cream today. Make The Danger Line safe.

HEAPS OF SAWDUST ARE PROBLEM IN NORTHWEST

Simultaneous Combustion Frequently Develops in Piles of Waste.

Seattle, Wash. — Immense heaps of sawdust here and there the Northwest mark the passing of a thriving industry that two to three decades ago built towns and villages. Once in a while these exposed piles of waste develop simultaneous combustion deep down the interior and are then known as volcanoes. Following a year's rest "Vesuvius," Leach Beach sawdust volcano, became active this week and drove residents of the district from their homes with its clouds of heavy smoke. City firemen subdued the smudge by a generous soaking of the crater.

At Port Angeles a sawdust pile has simmered and smoked for 20 years, now and then bursting forth in flame and huge black clouds of smoke.

At Everett, a pile of mill refuse, covering an area of 10 acres, is a source of constant danger because it has been burning within for years.
To remove it would require a large amount of money and to burn

it at once would be impracticable.
The heap would smolder for weeks, making the city and nearby towns
almost uninhabitable.
To remove such sawdust piles as are hindering the expansion of the industrial part of Seattle, the City Council is now considering a plan whereby hydraulic machinery can be utilized to loosen and wash away the refuse into the Elliot Bay arm of Puget Sound.

To date no use has been found for the old sawdust, the few factories requiring this material demanding clean refuse direct from the mills.

4 Men in 7 Bald at 40

Yet 91% Needlessly, by Tests—
Our experience shows falling hair most always due to infected Sebum. Now overcome.

We Guarantee
IN WRITING
New Hair in 90 Days
Falling Hair Stopped
or Costs Nothing—unless we grow hair.

This is a direct offer to grow hair on your head. An offer backed by our written guarantee, given by your own Drug or Department Store. If we fail, it costs you nothing.

We have recently made amazing discoveries. We have proven that while 4 men in 7 are either bald, or partly bald, at 40, only about 9 men in a hundred need ever be bald.

Hair roots seldom die from nat-

We have proved this by regrow-ing hair on 91 heads in 100.

Highest authorities approve this new way. Great dermatolo-gists now employ similar methods
—many charge as much as $300 for similar basic treatment.

Baldness is a symptom of a disease. Note this fact and mark it. It is most frequently a symptom of infection of the Sebum—
the scalp oil.

Infected Sebum Sebum is an oil. It forms at the follicles of the hair. Its purpose is to lubricate the hair.

But it often becomes infected.
It clogs on the scalp; clogs the follicles and plugs them. Germs by the millions then start to feed upon the hair. Semi-baldness comes first; then with neglect comes total baldness.

Remove that infection and your hair will generally grow. We back this statement with a money-back guarantee. Hence it is folly for any man with falling hair not to make the test.

Now We Remove It
Our treatment is based on a new principle. It penetrates to the follicles of the hair. It relieves infection—removes the infected Sebum. It stops falling hair. It revives the dormant hair roots, generally makes new hair grow.
Remember, it is guaranteed.

Warrant Given by

ARGENTINES REJECT TEACHING OF ORLANDO

Visit of Former Italian Premier to University of Buenos Aires Cause of Protest.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 22.—The recent visit to Argentina of Vittorio
E. Orlando, former Italian Prime Minister, to give a course of lectures in the law department of the University of Buenos Aires, did not pass without a protest by some Argentine educators. These gentlemen regarded Signor Orlando as a propagandist for the policy of instillling loyalty to Italy among the children of Italian immigrants at the expense of their loyalty to the country of their birth.

One member of the law faculty, Dr. Juan C. Rebera, refused to attend the lectures, as did also Dr.
Alfredo L. Palacios, dean of the faculty of juridical and social sciences of the University of La Plata.

Oppose Dual Nationality.
They expressed themselves in correspondence which was distributed to the students and professors of all educational institutions, as opposed "to the maintenance of a theory which tends to create a double nationality for those who, having been born in Argentina, are,
feel themselves, and wish to be Argentines."

Remarks by Signor Orlando on his arrival here were quoted in the correspondence as showing that he considered allegiance to Italy as the duty of those born of Italian blood in foreign lands.

Cast It Italian Policy.
The professors also cited a manifesto published by prominent Italian residents in connection with the visit of Prince Humbert of Argentina, in which the Prince was referred to as "the future sovereign of our sons." This, they described, as the fruit of the Italian policy to organize Italians in foreign lands.

This policy, remarked Dr. Rebera,
"does not merely oppose the immigrant taking root in the country; it openly resists the orientation of the sentiments of his children. It publicly propagates the doctrine of 'Jus sanguinis,' by which the son retains the nationality of his father, a doctrine which Argentine law and Argentine thought must refuse as destructive."

IVORY CARVING INDUSTRY IS THRIVING IN ALASKA
Natives Kept Busy in Far North Making Various Articles Out of Walrus Tusks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NOME, Alaska.—The busiest place in the Far North is King Island in Bering Sea, where almost the entire population of natives is engaged in ivory carving for a curio hungry world.

The ivory used in the crude workshops comes from the walrus, now very numerous in the Northern waters and free to native hunters. Some tusks of semi-fossilized mammals found on the mainland are often utilized in the ivory trade.

From every clime there is a demand for carved ivory beads, cribbage boards, napkin rings, crochet books, paper openers, cigarette holders, toys, curios and mah jong game sets.

Beads are the quickest made and bring the King Island natives the best prices, averaging about 15 cents to 20 cents per bead.

The King Island natives have just marketed their year's output, coming here in large skin bidarkas, each boat holding an entire family from mother-in-law down to the youngest great-grandchild. For a week or 10 days the ivory carvers bargained and bartered with Sea-tle and Tacoma traders for good prices—and in the main obtained them. Their wares are so unique and charming as to command full value.

The ivory workers have abandoned the crude huts of past generations and live in board houses like Americans. In severe weather they heaped over the dwellings snow to add warmth. The summer months are devoted to hunting walrus for raw material to be cut into merchandise during the long nights of autumn and winter. This summer walrus were more numerous than for a decade due to the southern trend of the ice floes.

CENTURIES-OLD CUSTOM ENDS
FOR LACK OF $25 A YEAR
Correspondence of the Associated Press.
LONDON, Oct. 22.—Another age-old English custom of the Dorset countryside has passed, and the "Blandford bell," which has tolled twice a day without break for centuries, will be heard no more.

Blandford, a tiny village in the heart of the Thomas Hardy country, is rich in ancient tradition, and one of the oldest customs was the daily ringing of a time bell in the church tower at 1:00 o'clock in the day and again in the evening.

The custom goes back to a period when clocks were scarce and the humble natives, who measured time by the sun's course or were apprised of the hour by the ringing of a public bell.

A month ago a new rector came to the village. He had no objection to the ancient custom, but church funds are not what they used to be, and the bell ringer gets $25 a year. The rector argued that, if the town wanted to continue the practice, the cost should come out of public funds. The town council debated the question long and anxiously recently, and by a majority of one decided that Blandford bell should not ring. If the taxpayer had to foot the bill.

NEW GOLD FIELDS REPORTED IN INTERIOR OF TRANSVAAL

British Engineers on Way; Developed Region Set Record for Production in July.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A large increase in the gold production of the Transvaal is interesting several English companies, who are organizing prospecting expeditions into the little explored regions of the district. The reports of the advance agents of the companies indicate that the gold producing areas of the Transvaal are by no means limited to the sections now being exploited, but really extend far into the interior, and it is probable that gold may be found in the waste lands to the north. The companies are sending engineers to South Africa immediately with orders to make investigations.

The total output of gold for the Transvaal for July amounted to $29,347 fine ounces, the largest ever produced, and it is only the second time in the history of Transvaal gold mining that the monthly production has been more than $20,000 ounces. The value of the output for July was $3,867,263.

The value of the gold produced for the first six months of the present year was $22,500,000, a record.

MRS. HERBERT ASQUITH, wife of the former Premier of Great Britain and widely known for her own qualities of endurance on the lecture platform and her style of writing has taken up a new hobby and is riding it as hard and vigorously as any of the old ones. The hobby is motoring and she insists on following up the latest thing in cars with the latest thing in motor bonnets which form a fitting frame for her speed demon type of countenance as she sits poised at the wheel. She is taking an active part in the campaign, speaking nearly every night and wearing her new motor hat to the meetings to which she drives. Her hat is giving her compatriots much amusement.

ALBANIANS AND RUSSIANS
IN DIPLOMATIC ALLIANCE

Negotiations Concluded in Rome Believed of Great Benefit to Turkey Also.

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Publishing Co., New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Oct. 24.—Russian moves toward a new understanding with Turkey have been followed by the Balkans with the little State of Albania. As a result, Balkan representatives in Rome and even Italian officials are taking a keen interest in Russia's activities. Russia is said to be taking the side of Turkey in Angora's squabble with Great Britain over the Mesopotamian frontier, with the great Mosul oil fields as the prize.

The Balkans never feel safe when Turkey seems at all aggressive, and now they fear joint action by Angora and Moscow. For this the Albanian alliance would be important.

Albania, though small, is enabled by her position to harass the neighbors, and the other Balkan states feel her alliance with Russia is an alliance with Turkey as well.

The new Russian accord was concluded at the soviet embassy in Rome, when Premier Fannoff of Albania exchanged recognition notes with Ambassador Yurienoff of Russia. Moscow immediately sent diplomatic documents and a representative to the Albanian capital, Tirana.

If the Balkan fears that this means Albanian aid for Turkey in time of need are well founded, the situation now insures Turkey against Balkan attack, for European territory should she be busy elsewhere.

3,500,000,000 MARKS FOR GERMANY'S YEARLY DRINK BILL

President of League for Prohibition Says Damage to People Costs Twice That Sum.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

BUECKENBURG, Germany, Oct. 5.—"Every nation has its special devil, and the German people has the drinking devil," said Dr. F. O. Melle of Frankfurt, at a congress of the German League for Prohibition held here recently. Only the influence of true Christianity can save the German nation from this devil, in the opinion of Dr. Melle.

The detrimental effect of alcohol on the German people was illustrated by figures given by Dr. Strecker, president of the league, who pointed out that 3,500,000,000 marks are consumed annually in Germany by drinking. Altogether the damage done by alcohol to the people may be figured at $6,000,000,000 marks, according to Dr. Strecker who added: "Clever Americans knew what they could achieve by prohibition; sober and dry nations will be the future leaders of civilization."

George Michaelis, one time Chancellor, referred to the connection of alcoholism with sexual excesses, contending that the church could contribute greatly to the wiping out of alcoholism, which is mainly a matter of education.

"The Protestant church of Germany has failed utterly so far, inasmuch as it did not make the alcohol question an issue of its own," said Herr von Wicht, a parson from Bielefeld. He added that new hopes in this direction might be harbored since the separation of church and state.

HUGHES CONDEMNS
ARMAMENT, CO

Charges Democratic Nominee Belittle Navy Treaty, Which in the Senate Acclai

the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 24.—In a campaign speech here last night, Mr. Hughes, one of the critics of the administration, said his department was not "secret commitments" but "negotiated abroad; de-ferred there had been no trend toward a foreign policy based on imperialism; asserted that those who attempt to belittle the work of the administration only belittle themselves; insisted that the League of Nations was not a campaign issue, but a permanent feature of the administration to take every practicable step for world co-operation. Touching briefly on domestic issues, Hughes said that neither the Democratic party nor the League of Nations expected to win on the 4th, and that there were many instances of a combination to throw the election into Congress. He re-ferred to the Democratic organ-ization had gone to pieces in both East and the West, and said the La Follette group was "trying to run away" from Government ownership and other issues of its own creation.

"I would promote Peace and Stability," Hughes said, "with respect to the conduct of foreign affairs," he continued, "our opponents have sought every possible ground of attack, but their mistakes and misrepresentations have deprived their efforts of effect."

It had been charged recklessly and falsely by the third party that Hughes had made secret commitments with any country. It has been charged that our policies in this hemisphere are imperialistic. The contrary is readily shown by our withdrawal from Santo Domingo and our constant endeavors as illustrated by the conference held in Washington of the Central American republics to promote their peace and stability. We are not making a protectorate or over-lordship, but desire to see our sister republics secure independence and constitutional government.

"It is charged that this Government is engaged in negotiating concessions for our citizens. This is untrue. We maintain the principle of the open door, or equality of commercial opportunity, to the end that our citizens shall not suffer unjust discriminations, but all have the fair opportunity to which they are entitled. With this opportunity they make their own contracts on their own terms. Let also be remembered that the free of American arms is never offered for the fulfillment of foreign loans or agreements. Our relations with Mexico, happily established, are most cordial. The elements, sometimes ignorant and sometimes apparently malicious, as to our relations with Latin-America have brought condemnation upon those who cite relations with the Latin-American republics have never been on so good a footing as today.

"Condemns Davis' Utterances.
"Equally futile has been the attempt to depreciate our endeavors which we have made with gratifying success for the promotion of peace. What do our opponents of the Democratic party think they will gain by belittling the Washington conference on limitation of armament?" Mr. Davis at the out-saw fit to speak of the conference as "of doubtful value," and with ill-judged observations, he referred slightly to the naval treaty.

HUGHES CONDEMNS DAVIS' ATTACK ON WASHINGTON ARMAMENT CONFERENCE

Charges Democratic Nominee Attempted to Belittle Navy Treaty, Which Party Leaders in the Senate Acclaimed.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 24.—In a speech here last night, Mr. Hughes, Secretary of State, attacked the Democratic nominee for President, Mr. Davis, and his associates in the Senate, for their attempt to belittle the work of the Washington armament conference. Hughes said that the Democratic party had been negotiating abroad; that there had been no trend toward a foreign policy based on imperialism; that those who sought to belittle the work of the conference only belittled themselves. He said that the League of Nations was not a campaign issue; that it was a permanent institution; that it was a step toward world co-operation. Hughes said that neither the Democratic party nor the Independent party now expected to win on Oct. 4, and that there were many reasons of a combination to throw the election to Congress. He said that the Democratic party had gone to pieces in both the East and the West, and said that the La Follette group was "trying to run away" from Government. Hughes said that the Democratic party had no secret commitments to any country. It has been asserted that our policies in this hemisphere are imperialistic. The Democratic party is ready shown by our withdrawal from Santo Domingo and our constant endeavors, as illustrated by the conference held in Washington of the Central American republics, to promote their peace and stability. We are not seeking a protectorate or over-lordship, but desire to see our sister republics secure independence and constitutional government. It is charged that this Government is engaged in negotiating secret agreements for the partition of the open door, or equality of commercial opportunity, to the detriment of our citizens. This is a fair opportunity to the people, through a referendum to that effect. The Democratic candidate has accepted the platform and he is bound by it. In view of the circumstances of its adoption, he has no moral right to ask for votes on any other basis.

"The Democratic platform calls for a referendum. What sort of one? What is the question to be referred? Does it state the terms of joining the league? Not at all. The question is: Shall the United States become a member of the league upon such reservations and amendments to the covenant as the President and Senate may agree upon? Does Mr. Davis say what reservations he would favor? Does he discuss his platform? He tries to perform the impossible feat of standing on it and running away from it at the same time."

"It would seem proper to take account of the fact that the league is not an issue in this campaign. This is 1924, not 1920. It is apparent that, as this Government is not a member of the league, we cannot act as though it were. Of course, this does not satisfy the zealous advocates of the league. Thus it is emphasized that this Government did not attend the conference held at Barcelona, under the auspices of the league, in the early spring of 1921, on communications and transit. It is interesting to note that the invitation to attend this conference was received by the Democratic administration. The first invitation was sent to this Government in September, 1920. The answer was given Jan. 3, 1921, by Norman H. Davis, Acting Secretary of State, in an instruction to John W. Davis, then American Ambassador at London."

This instruction said: "You will state that, inasmuch as the United States is not a member of the League of Nations, this Government does not deem it practicable to appoint a representative to attend the conference."

"It is not necessary for me to speak of the Permanent Court of International Justice, for my recommendation to President Harding is well known, as well as the public statements I have made in support of his recommendation to the Senate. President Coolidge has stated his position unequivocally and it has been endorsed by the Republican platform."

"The assertion has been made that we refused an invitation to attend the recent 'conference' at Geneva, where the questions of disarmament and peace were discussed. This is a misleading statement. The so-called 'conference' was simply the regular annual meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations and, of course, not being a member of the league, this Government was not invited to attend it. What we were invited to attend was a meeting of a committee to the purpose of dealing with the convention on traffic in arms. The proposed convention on traffic in arms has nothing directly to do with disarmament. As we had disclosed our position on all points it was not at all necessary that we should attend the further meeting, but quite sufficient that we should say, as we did, that we were disposed to favor joining in an international conference. "We are participating in the work of the committee to secure restrictions on production of opium and coca leaves, and the manufacture and distribution of narcotic drugs, in the effort to suppress traffic in women and children, in the studies of anthrax and standardization of anti-toxic serums. "Also ill-considered and unjustified are the observations of our opponents in relation to mandates. As associates in the war, we had an equal right with respect to the disposition and administration of these territories. Our right and interest could not be dealt with without our consent, and that consent under our form of government could only be made by treaty approved by the Senate. We have proceeded with the negotiation of these treaties. The delay has not been caused by us nor has it affected the administration of the mandated territories which has gone on. "Our influence in the cause of peace is constantly exerted and it is none the less effectively exerted because we do not embroil ourselves in European political interests. In connection with the result of effort to promote economic recovery in Europe, it was possible to achieve success only because the American policy of securing an independent expert consideration of the subject of reparations was followed. We now face, I believe, a new era abroad, with opportunity for economic recuperation, and the outlook is for prosperous times at home. Every uncertainty that exists can be removed by the election of President Coolidge."

THE campaign to lift the debt of the Sisters of St. Mary and endow St. Mary's Hospital is drawing to a close. You now have an opportunity to participate in the charitable work the Sisters have been doing in St. Louis for the last 52 years. The Sisters have incurred a heavy debt to build institutions to care for the afflicted and the destitute. They are appealing to you to aid in relieving them of their financial burden.

You can do your duty toward this humanitarian service by taking out a five-year endowment insurance policy for a liberal amount payable to the Sisters. The campaign committee, composed of ecclesiastical authorities and business laymen, have adopted the endowment insurance plan because it is a business like method of raising the fund.

A Policy for Charity

FIVE-YEAR endowment policies are being issued in amounts of $250 or more to persons between the ages of 10 and 70 years. These policies are payable to the Sisters of St. Mary. Sound business reasons prompted the committee to adopt this Insurance Plan, some of them being:

- 1—There is absolutely no expense to the Sisters of St. Mary for collecting this fund. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has placed its entire St. Louis organization of more than 400 trained men at the command of the Sisters to establish this endowment fund.
- 2—The necessity for the Sisters to create an organization to handle the administration of this fund over a period of five years has also been eliminated by this Insurance Plan. The insurance company, with its well organized administrative staff, is handling all the collections over the five-year period and also keeping the fund intact so that the money will be paid to the Sisters in a lump sum. Arrangements are made to furnish the Sisters of St. Mary with a monthly accounting of the fund.
- 3—Under this gradual-payment plan the fund is protected against the death of any of the contributors. In case of death the full amount of the policy is paid to the Sisters and no further payments are collected on the policy.
- 4—A subscription to the St. Mary's Endowment Fund on the Insurance Plan, in case of your death, relieves your estate of any liability. The insurance company assumes this risk.

The Sisters have for years patiently and uncomplainingly been doing a worthy work in nursing the sick and relieving the distress of the helpless. They have kept faith with the public. They ask no earthly reward. With your aid they can do more. Help the Sisters NOW, when help is needed most.

Your Policy today may restore hope and life to some afflicted child.

WARRIOR LINE REORGANIZATION INCREASES PROFIT

Net Income of Inland Waterways for August Jumps $965 Despite Loss of Goltra Barges.

COST LESS TO HAUL GREATER TONNAGE

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-23 Wyatt Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Increased efficiency resulting from the reorganization of the management of the Mississippi-Warrior Government-owned barges has enabled the newly created Inland Waterways Corporation to show a monthly increase in net income, in spite of the loss of the Goltra barges, according to Brig. Gen. T. C. Ashburn, chairman of the corporation's board.

The Inland Waterways Corporation, of which James E. Smith of St. Louis is ranking member of the board of advisors, was established by the passage of the Denison bill last May, and was intended to give more flexibility to waterway transportation management. The corporation came formally into being Aug. 8, when Secretary Weeks appointed the advisory board, which approved the management plan of Gen. Ashburn. August is, therefore, considered the first month of operation under the new plan. In comparison with the preceding July, the corporation was able to show an increase of nearly $1000 in net income, although the gross revenues were approximately $100 less.

Net Income Increase $965.41.
In July the Government-owned barges carried 76,387 tons of freight at a total expense of $25,497. Revenue amounted to $25,155.13, so the net income was $23,658.13. In August, the freight was 76,800 tons, with a total expense of $24,283. Revenues were $24,806.54, and the net income $24,623.54. The net income increase over July was $965.41, and the increase in freight was 6213 tons. These figures also show that, while the tonnage increased almost 9 per cent, the operating expenses were $1214 less. The $148.59 loss in revenues, in spite of the increased tonnage, is accounted for by the fact that the August shipments were principally grain, for which the charge is approximately 11 cents a hundredweight, while in July the tonnage consisted of other commodities, for which higher charges are made. Grain moves at approximately $2.20 a ton, while the ton average for all commodities transported by the barges is $2.90.

The corporation lost the Goltra barges in July. Gen. Ashburn declared today that, if these had been available in August, the increases even might have been greater, for in addition to losing the barges, the corporation had to hire the towboat Charles F. Richardson in August to run between St. Louis and Cairo. This he said, cost the corporation $4500, which had to be charged to operating expenses. As a result of these gains, Gen. Ashburn said, the corporation has been able to pay all of its debts except those to Government departments and cities along the river, and since the corporation has been able to finance itself in a way to pay for all purchases, it is getting a 10 per cent discount which was not possible under the old method of waiting for congressional appropriations. He estimated the discount savings at $3500 a month.

$70,000 Saving to Shippers.
Gen. Ashburn said that figuring on the 25 per cent differential the savings to farmers and shippers would be about $70,000 for August. This figure, he said, was conservative, as other waterways experts, including Congressman Cleveland A. Newton of the Tenth Missouri District, figured a 50 per cent saving, basing their estimates on the hypothesis that rail rates along the river were 50 per cent lower than rates in other parts of the country.

Increases in net income should continue to grow, Gen. Ashburn said, because the corporation is now getting on-operation from other Government departments and the railroads. Recently the Shipping Board turned over to the Waterways Corporation three concrete oil tankers which were tied up, unused, at Pensacola and Mobile, each with a capacity of 40,000 to 50,000 barrels. It is Ashburn's plan to purchase large supplies of fuel oil for the towboats when prices are low. "In this way we expect to save 20 cents a barrel, which will amount to considerable saving when it is recalled that the boats use approximately 40,000 barrels a month," he explained. His plans to station one tanker at Mobile and two at New Orleans.

Figures have not yet been compiled for September, but Gen. Ashburn said he expected that, this year, the September tonnage would at least equal that of August. Herebefore, September has shown losses instead of profits.

FOLLETTE IN REPLY TO CRITICS OF HIS POLICIES

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, Washington Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 23. —Replying to the oft-repeated charge that his policies are "destructive," Senator La Follette last night cited his critics to the State of Wisconsin, which, under his leadership, has become, he said, the most prosperous State in the Union. "If to hate corruption is destructive, if to protect children and wage-earners is destructive, if to make rich corporations pay their share of taxes is destructive, then the progressive movement is destructive," he said.

"And in that sense it will continue to be destructive. For I am convinced you that, under my administration as President, there will be a house cleaning at Washington that will purge the national Government not only of bribery and corruption, but of the privileged power of monopoly as well."

"Look at Wisconsin," he exclaimed. "There she stands—a living demonstration of the constructive character of the progressive movement. There the progressive have been in absolute control for more than a quarter of a century, and Wisconsin is the most prosperous State in the Union."

Wisconsin Without Bombed Debt. "Only three of the 48 states have bonded indebtedness," Wisconsin said. "Wisconsin paid her bonds, and she has paid her share of highway construction, and not a single bond has been issued. The cost of State government there is $12.95 per person a year. In Michigan it is $24.87, in Minnesota, a neighboring State, $27.64. The cost of all State governments went up after the war because in Wisconsin, from 1915 to 1922 it increased 13 per cent; in Illinois, 148 per cent; in Ohio, 210 per cent, and in Michigan, 235 per cent."

The reactionaries tell you that the regulatory laws passed by the progressives in Wisconsin kept out industries. Let us see the figures. In the five years from 1914 to 1919, the value of manufactured products in Wisconsin increased 145 per cent, in Pennsylvania 155 per cent, in New York 132 per cent, in Massachusetts, where Mr. Coolidge was governor, 144 per cent."

"I am going to put some facts into this campaign," the Senator shouted, "and I am going to take some of the lies out of it too. They tell you we have ruined business in Wisconsin. The percentage of commercial failures in Wisconsin is less than half of what it is in the country at large. In 28 years only 10 banks and trust companies failed in Wisconsin. During the same period 198 failed in Illinois, including the Lorimer bank which Gen. Deneen helped to get a charter by receiving the bank examiner's 76 failed in Iowa and 48 in Michigan. The total number of banks in all the states is pretty nearly the same."

"The progressive movement has constructive program, and anybody who takes the trouble to read the Cleveland platform can understand it. That is more than either of the two old parties have."

Calling the roll on corruption disclosed at the last session of Congress he exclaimed: "And when Mr. Calvin Coolidge ever said a word in condemnation of the wickedness in his Cabinet?"

"What would you say here if a member of the city council should slip his hands into the public treasury and then with these sticky, working hands write out his resignation, and your mayor should say, 'Good-bye, old fellow, sorry to lose you?'"

The audience of 5000, jammed into every inch of standing room, roared at the comparison. "Public ownership of the Government," is the first plank in the progressive platform, he declared, and added forcibly: "That cannot be achieved so long as the White House, Congress and the courts are filled with railway attorneys, bankers and beneficiaries of special privileges."

"It was the progressives who made the long fight to end the shame of child labor in this country. They won that fight in Congress only to have victory turned into defeat through a five-to-four decision by the Supreme Court."

The Progressives placed the employers' liability laws upon the statute books, which saved millions of workers from the poor houses, and millions of wives and children from dependence on charity. The Progressives put through the amendment which made income taxes possible, after the Supreme Court by another five to four decision had denied Congress that right.

"It was the Progressives, you remember, who bared the ugly bribery and corruption which had infected the nation in the last 12 months. Not a vote was raised in the White House, nor by the reactionary groups in Congress, against the disposal of our oil reserves or even against the bribery of a Cabinet minister.

After the Progressives who exposed Democracy and Dumbo out of the Cabinet.

FOLLETTE IN REPLY TO CRITICS OF HIS POLICIES

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, Washington Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 24.—Replying to the oft-repeated charge that his policies are "destructive," Senator La Follette last night cited his critics to the State of Wisconsin, which, under laws enacted and passed while he was governor, has become, he said, the most prosperous State in the Union.

He dwelt also upon the record of the progressive group in Congress, "not to hate corruption in government, if to protect children and wage-earners is destructive, if to make rich corporations pay their share of taxes is destructive, then the progressive movement is destructive," he said.

"And in that sense it will continue to be destructive. For I promise you that, under my administration as President, there will be a house cleaning at Washington. I will purge the national Government not only of bribery and corruption, but of the privileged power of monopoly as well."

"Look at Wisconsin," he exclaimed. "There she stands—a living demonstration of the constructive character of the progressive movement. There, the progressives have been in absolute control for more than a quarter of a century, and Wisconsin is the most prosperous State in the Union."

"Only three of the 48 states have bonded indebtedness. Wisconsin is one of them. Wisconsin paid her war veterans a generous bonus and she has paid her share of highway construction, and not a single bond has been issued. The cost of State government there is $12.92 per person a year. In Michigan it is $24.07, in Minnesota, a neighboring State, $17.08. The cost of all State governments went up after the war began. In Wisconsin, from 1915 to 1922 it increased 102 per cent; in Illinois, 148 per cent; in Ohio, 210 per cent, and in Michigan, 225 per cent."

"The reactionaries tell you that the regulatory laws passed by the progressives in Wisconsin kept out industries. Let us see the figures. In the five years from 1914 to 1919, the value of manufactured products in Wisconsin increased 165 per cent, in Pennsylvania 158 per cent, in New York 132 per cent, in Massachusetts, where Mr. Coolidge was governor, 144 per cent."

"I am going to put some facts into this campaign," the Senator shouted, "and I am going to take some of the lies out of it, too. They tell you we hampered business in Wisconsin. "What would you say here if a member of the city council should put his hands into the public treasury, and then with those sticky, greasy hands write out his resignation, and your mayor should say, 'Good-bye, old fellow, sorry to lose you?'"

The audience of 5000, jammed into every inch of standing room, roared at the comparison.

"Public ownership of the Government" is the first plank in the progressive platform, he declared, and added forcibly: "That cannot be achieved so long as the White House, Congress and the courts are filled with railway attorneys, bankers, and beneficiaries of special privileges."

"It was the progressives who made the long fight to end the plague of child labor in this country. They won that fight. Congress only to have victory turned into defeat through a five-to-four decision by the Supreme Court."

"The progressives placed the employers' liability laws upon the statute books, which saved millions of workers from the poor house, and millions of wives and children from dependence on charity."

"The progressives put through the amendment which made income tax possible, after the Supreme Court, by another five to four decision, had denied Congress that right."

"It was the progressives, you remember, who bared the organs of bribery and corruption which had disgraced the nation in the last 12 months. Not a voice was raised in the White House, nor by the reactionary groups in Congress, against the disposal of our oil resources or even against the bribery Cabinet minister."

"It was the progressives who exposed Daugherty and Denby out of the Cabinet."

"It was the progressives who carried through the amendment providing for the direct election of United States Senators, and put an end to the scandal of bribery in State Legislatures. That amendment is responsible for the pressure today in the Senate and House of that growing group of men who have successfully challenged the old gang in Congress."

He promised, if elected, to clean up the Department of Justice, to "end the plunder of our oil resources and our coal and timber lands," to develop a Government water-power system, such as Canada has, for giving the people light, heat and power at cost.

Today, he said, 360 cities and towns in the Province of Ontario are supplied with current from Niagara Falls. He quoted Sir Adam Beck as declaring that the people of Ontario had saved $100,000,000 in electric bills, and yet a surplus of $1,000,000 was set aside last year out of the earnings of the Ontario public power system. The rate charged there ranges from 1.1 cents per kilowatt hour to 2.5 cents, as compared with rates of 7 to 10 cents in American cities where the electrical systems are privately owned.

"We pay nine here," shouted a listener.

"You're fools to do it," La Follette retorted.

Reiterating his declaration that Government ownership must be the ultimate solution of the railroad problem, he said it must be carefully worked out in advance, to keep the Government from being "loaded with junk" and to take the railroads out of politics.

At present, he continued, the Railroad Labor Board's decisions against the companies are flouted and defied, while its decisions against the employees are enforced through the courts by the Department of Justice.

He again outlined his position on limiting the power of the Supreme Court to veto legislation, and in favor of the election of Federal Judges by the people. He repeated his demand for publicity of income tax returns, repeal of the manufacturers' schedule of the tariff, repeal of the Esch-Cummins law, the abolition of child labor, the reform of the Federal Reserve Board, the Farm Loan Board, and the Tariff Commission, abolition of gambling in grain and other necessities.

The Progressive plan has been worked out, he asserted, by men long seasoned in affairs of government, and by some of the best political thinkers of America. He was referring to the economists whose recommendations are embodied in the La Follette platform.

"I would put men at productive labor and keep them at work," he went on. "It would provide the farmer with adequate credit, cheap transportation, and adequate marketing facilities. It would free manufacturers from extortionate freight rates. It would protect legitimate business against gamblers and speculators. It would protect the wage worker. It would end Daugherty injunctions.

"When our enemies say that this election is between constructive men and destructive men, they speak the truth. It is between those who would bring in prosperity by guaranteeing equal opportunities and free competition, and those who would destroy prosperity, as they have in the last four years, by extending special privileges to monopoly."

Senator La Follette speaks tonight at Syracuse, N. Y.

GERMAN HOTELS HAD POOR TOURIST SEASON

Transportation and High Prices
Said to Have Kept Guests Away.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
HAMBURG, Oct. 5.—European tourist agencies, hotelkeepers, railway and steamship officials are now busy trying to make an estimate of next year's possible tourist business from the United States.

The season now coming to a close has been a record-breaker, especially for England, France and Italy. Switzerland had a good year, and Austria and Czechoslovakia did well. Belgium and Holland also prospered and, together with Switzerland, won the approval of visitors through their waiving of passport regulations and general courtesy to travelers.

Germany had a poor year, and German hotelkeepers are much disappointed that the visitors from America who flocked to the Wembley Exposition and the Olympic Games did not extend their trip into Germany. This was due in part to the upset condition of the transportation systems of Germany, and also to high prices, the municipal taxes imposed on foreign guests, and the difficulties which foreigners underwent last year at the hands of German police officials, when an effort was made to free the country of "objectionable foreigners."

Hotel Prices Too High.
Americans who have visited Germany this year have been mostly persons of German extraction, and business men. News of the high prices undoubtedly sent many people to Italy or Southern France who might otherwise have come to Germany.

On the whole, Americans who visited Europe this season probably did not have as comfortable a time as they anticipated. London hotels were crowded throughout the season, and their prices were so high that even wealthy tourists found much fault. The same was true of Paris. The Olympic Games and the conventions of lawyers and advertising men in London filled both Paris and London to overflowing with Americans. Many of the visitors were disgruntled, and declared most emphatically that they would give Europe a wide berth for some time to come, and travel in their own country.

Crowded With Germans.
Americans who visited Italy and southern France, especially in the spring and early summer, found hotels and pensions crowded with German visitors. This created bad feeling, as a movement for German relief was on in the United States at the time, and many Americans were puzzled by the apparent prosperity of Germans living in comfort abroad, when many of their fellow countrymen were reported to be in dire want.

Travel in Germany should be more normal next year, provided there be no hitch in the execution of the Dawes plan. High prices in Germany, especially in the larger cities, still handicap the tourist business, and there is no indication of a change in this respect. Berlin has finally eliminated the tax which was imposed on the rooms occupied by foreign guests, but visitors complain that the local hotels still charge above world prices.

On the whole, while Europe had a bonanza tourist season this year, it is doubtful whether next year will be as good. Many of the visitors went home with the feeling that London and Paris did not take proper precautions to insure the comfort of their visitors, and protect them against extortionate prices.

TWO MORE IDENTIFIED AS BANK ROBBER SUSPECTS

All but One of Band of Six That Held Up Columbia Bank Now Accounted For.

All but one of a band of six robbers, who escaped with $12,637 in the holdup of the First National Bank of Columbia, Ill., Sept. 3 last, have been accounted for with the identification yesterday by employees of the bank of Jesse Stoneking and Joseph Neuby, both of East St. Louis, as participants in the robbery.

Stoneking and Neuby were arrested Oct. 15 by Special Deputy Sheriff Joseph Schrader at 303 South Eighth street, East St. Louis. One thousand dollars in new bills were found in the house and in a safe deposit box to which Neuby held the key. Both men deny implication in the Columbia robbery. Stoneking, however, admitted that he is wanted at Peoria, Ill., for wounding a policeman on Sept. 22. Other members of the band, arrested through the efforts of Schrader, who was retained by a Bankers' Association after robbers had obtained a total of $200,000 from Southern Illinois banks in a series of daring raids over a period of five months, are Arthur Hornberger and Albert Walters of Madison, Ill., and Cy Brinkley of East St. Louis. Although identified by persons in the Columbia Bank at the time of the robbery, they also deny knowledge of the crime. Schrader, a former East St. Louis detective, operates a private detective agency in East St. Louis. The five prisoners have been unable to furnish bond, and are held at Belleville.

Emery Out of Hospital.
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 24.—With one arm still in a bandage, John G. Emery, former national commander of the American Legion, returned to his real estate office today from a hospital where he was taken Wednesday after he was shot by C. E. Simpson, 44-year-old husband of one of Col. whose wife, Ollvana, has filed suit Emery's stenographers. Simpson, for divorce, is held on $20,000 bail.

DAWES REFERS TO POLITICAL PINHEADS

Contrasts Committeemen's Views on Expediency With High Principles of Women.

By the Associated Press.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 24.—Declaring the West was aroused and the women of the country generally were alert, Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for the vice presidency, speaking here last night, urged voters of the Eastern States "to awake to a recognition of the vicious attack being made on the American Constitution."

Dawes urged the voters of the Eastern States "to do your duty in this fight, for they'll do their duty in the great Northwest, where they realize that there is an issue at stake."

"There is one class of citizens that is awake to the great issue, and that is the American women," he declared. "She realizes this issue—the attack on the Constitution by a mobilization of extreme radicalism—comes close to the home."

"The pinheads on the political committees have been advising me to preach one thing in one section of the country, and another thing in another section, not to speak in Colorado on irrigation as an economic factor in the settlement of agricultural questions for fear of losing votes and not to discuss this and that thing here and not something else somewhere else. Not so with the women in this campaign. They are not putting votes above principles."

NEW ASSAULTS DEMOCRATS
Says There Was Notorious Grafting Under Wilson.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24.—Postmaster-General New, speaking on presidential campaign issues at Euclid Village, near here, last night declared that under the Wilson administration "there was no method by which the grafter could skin the Government that was not resorted to."

New pointed out that John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President, had "made the most of the delinquencies alleged against ex-Secretary Fall," and added: "The people were never so scandalously defrauded as they were during the last four years of the last Democratic administration, of which Mr. Davis was at that time an officer. It was not only the most scandalous orgy of graft and extortion, but it was notorious."

EXCLUSION LAW ASSAILED
M. E. Bishop of Japan Calls It "Act of Bully."

By the Associated Press.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 24.—The Japanese exclusion act was termed "the act of a bully—a swashbuckler," by Bishop Herbert Welch of Japan, addressing the annual session of the Executive Committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, here last night.

"It reminds me of a pack of boys on a powder factory playing with matches," the Bishop said. "No body believes a nation should open its doors, but America should at least act like a gentleman. When signs are posted in California, 'Japs get out,' the Japanese photograph them and send them home."

DRY AGENT SUES FOR $250,000

Charges Chicago Manufacturer Alienated Affections of His Wife.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—John Peoples, a prohibition agent, yesterday filed suit for $250,000 damages against Herman P. Prosser, wealthy manufacturer, alleging alienation of the affections of Peoples' wife. They were rivals before the wedding, the bill said, and charged that the defendant kept up his wooing after the marriage and finally induced Mrs. Peoples to leave her husband.

Peoples recently filed a suit for divorce, charging desertion, and Mrs. Peoples countered with a cross bill, charging cruelty.

New Replies to G. O. Nations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Gilbert O. Nations, American party candidate for the presidency yesterday made public a letter from Postmaster-General New in which New placed responsibility for delay in petitions for the American party in Maryland on a clerk in the Washington Postoffice. The American Party was unable to obtain a place on the Maryland ballot because of insufficient petitions. Later, he said, it was found petitions were held in the Postoffice for shortage of postage and that notice was not sent out to this effect until it was too late. New said investigation had disclosed that the clerk had failed to examine the letters held; had improperly stamped them to indicate that postage shortage notice had been sent out, but there was no evidence of malice. He promised disciplinary action.

Man Shot in Hand.

Clarence Elliott, 40 years old, of 3125 Easton avenue, was taken to city hospital from his home yesterday to be treated for a bullet wound in the left hand after police had been informed a man had been shot at that address. Elliott said that on Tuesday he was rummaging in the attic among some old papers when he found an old revolver and was examining it when it accidentally discharged. He was treated by his family doctor, he said.

CUTICURA HEALS LARGE PIMPLES

On Daughter's Forehead and Chin. Red and Festered. Very Disfiguring.

"My daughter was bothered with pimples on her forehead and chin. They were large and red and sometimes festered. The irritation caused her to scratch them, and the pimples were very disfiguring. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped her so I purchased a box of Cuticura Soap and a cake of Cuticura Ointment which completely healed her." (Signed) Mrs. Waldo Clark, 509 Blaine St., Caldwell, Idaho.

These fragrant emollients are all you need for all toilet purposes. Soap to cleanse and purify. Ointment to soothe and heal. Talcum to powder and sweeten.

COLONY IN LOWER CALIFORNIA

Mexican Newspaper Reports 20,000 Japanese Going There.

By the Associated Press.

CALIFORNIA, Oct. 24.—Investigation by Department of Justice agents is under way as a result of reports that four Japanese who crossed the international boundary line into Mexico reported to the Japanese general staff and Japanese financiers and industrial experts, planning to finance and direct a large colonization project in Lower California.

A Mexican newspaper says the project involves transportation of 20,000 Japanese to Lower California and settlement and construction of cotton mills on lands irrigated from the Colorado River in Mexico.

TAX ON POLITICAL MEETING

ADMISSIONS UNDECIDED

Internal Revenue Collector's Inquiry Put Up to Washington Official for Ruling.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Internal Revenue officials have received and are considering formal inquiries from two collectors of Internal Revenue whether a Federal admission tax should be levied on political meetings to which an admission is charged.

The question arose Wednesday night in Peoria, Ill., where a Deputy Collector declared that 10 per cent tax on all admissions by the Federal Government should be applied to receipts from a meeting held in behalf of the candidates of La Follette and Wheeler. C. A. MacDermott, the Deputy Collector, however, passed the question along to the collector of Internal Revenue at Chicago who has now put it up to the Treasury.

Deputy Commissioner Estes of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, in charge of such tax collections, said that he had no formal correspondence with the collector at Chicago. He did, however, cite exemptions to the admission taxes contained in the law and these exemptions make no mention of political meetings to which an admission is charged.

TUMULTY QUOTES WILSON IN

REPLY TO WALKER CHARGE

President's Letter Cited to Disprove Accusation Secretary Used Office to Aid Catholics.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—In connection with his exchange of statements with Gov. Walker of Georgia, resulting from alleged charges by Walker before a Ku Klux Klan gathering, that Joseph P. Tumulty, as Secretary to President Wilson, had sought to use his office in the interest of the Catholic Church, Tumulty made public here last night a letter written by Mr. Wilson from the White House under date of Jan. 19, 1914. The letter, Tumulty said, was in reply to a communication charging that his Secretary was withholding part of the President's correspondence from him "on account of religious predilections."

"I beg leave to assure you," Mr. Wilson said, "that the impression that any part of my correspondence is withheld from me in any circumstances by my secretary on account of religious predilections on his part is absurd and utterly false."

Here's the Latest—Cod Liver Oil in Tasteless Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder For Skinny, Weak, Run-Down
People—Full of Vitamins

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fatty-lasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sug-ared tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamin food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of magnesia.

Thin, run-down, anemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained 15 pounds in 5 weeks, according to her own doctor—another 10 pounds in 3 weeks. A very sickly child, aged 9, 12 pounds in 7 months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge
& Dolph Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co., or any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders.
Only sixty cents for 60 tablets.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet, and beware of imitations."

MAN FALLS 15 FLOORS' TO DEATH IN SHAFT

Elevator Employee Instantly Killed While Dismantling Lift in Chemical Building.

An elevator construction employee, at work yesterday afternoon in the pent-house above the seventeenth floor of the Chemical Building, Eighth and Olive streets, was instantly killed while endeavoring to lower a partly dismantled elevator.

His body became entangled in the hoisting apparatus, being dragged through two narrow wooden partitions and hurled into the open shaft. The falling body struck the elevator, which had become blocked at the fifth floor, dislodged it, the mass falling to the second floor, where it wedged when the body became tangled in the blocking tackle.

The worker, John G. Schultheis, 24 years old, of 2810 South Jefferson avenue, was one of a crew engaged in replacing the old elevator with modern, high-speed cages. He was working alone in the penthouse, and the exact origin of the accident could not be determined by officials of the Otis Elevator Co., in charge of the work, who made an investigation.

It is presumed, however, that Schultheis was about to "pay out"
the rope cable, which had replaced the steel cables, connecting with the partly dismantled elevator, which had been lowered to between the sixth and fifth floors.

The rope was looped over a drum.
It is presumed the weight below suddenly settled, sufficient to give a short, violent tug to the rope about the drum. This apparently became dislodged, entangling the body of the workman and drawing him into the shaft.

Schultheis was regarded by his employers as an expert, particularly experienced in the character of work he was doing. He was unmarried and lived with his parents.

LEAGUE COMMISSION TO STUDY MANDATE REPORTS

Japanese Representative Questioned About Pacific Islands—Germans Interested.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Oct. 24.—Questions put to M. Sugimura, representative of the Japanese Government, concerning the administration by Japan of the Pacific Ocean Islands under mandate to Japan, were a feature of the opening session yesterday of the permanent League of Nations mandate commission.

The commission will spend the next ten days in Geneva examining the reports presented by various Governments which have under their mandate former German colonies and former Turkish territories like Palestine and Syria.

The Marquis Theodoli, Italy, president of the mandate commission, in a statement emphasized the commission's determination to obtain equitable and fair management of mandated lands. He declined to discuss the terms of the Versailles treaty when a German correspondent raised the point that unless the mandate system was extended to all world colonies the German people might get the impression that the mandate system was merely a disguised form of out-and-out annexation. The Marquis said that the mandate system gave only a limited form of sovereignty to the controlling countries, and that the commission earnestly hoped that the good suits achieved would be copied by the countries in their administration of territories and colonies.

The general question of mandates has become especially interesting from the Geneva standpoint, because of the belief that Germany, when she enters the League of Nations, will ask for the restoration of one or more of her colonies in the form of a mandate.

MRS. HEYWORTH IDENTIFIES RING

Part of Robbery Loot Found on One of Four Suspects Held.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A diamond ring found on one of four men arrested Tuesday has been identified by Mrs. Helen Heyworth, fiancee of "Dapper Don" Collins, as one stolen from her apartment early Monday. The identification was made when detectives located
Mrs. Heyworth, who disappeared after reporting the robbery. The ring, found in the pocket of Louis Plaskin, is valued at $500. After identifying the ring, Mrs. Hey-worth told police that she would make every effort to appear in court Saturday to attempt to identify the four men.

Police explained that her disappearance after the robbery at her apartment, in which she was held up with her wealthy companion, Alfred Hannan, was due to the fact that she has been under the care of a physician for nervous disorders.

ANSWERS PLEA OF STANDARD OIL IN OUSTER SUIT

Attorney-General Barrett

Objects to Taking of Testimony Now on New Points Raised.

ONLY HAVE BEARING ON PENALTY, HE SAYS

He Wants Supreme Court to First Pass on Validity of "Cracking Contracts" Involved in Case.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24.—Attorney-General Barrett today filed the State's reply in the ouster proceedings instituted against the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana denying numerous allegations in the answer recently filed by the Standard company. He asks the court to first pass upon the validity of Standard contracts involved in the suit before taking action on new points raised by the Standard of Indiana.

In a motion filed by Barrett last month asking the Supreme Court to set aside its suspension of an ouster order issued against the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana in 1909, the Attorney-General made charges that the Standard had violated its "parola" on contracts which the State charged had the effect of excluding certain companies from selling gasoline in the Standard of Indiana territory.

These contracts were made by the Standard with a score of other companies licensed to use the Standard's patented process for "cracking" petroleum in the manufacture of gasoline and carried a clause that the licensee could not sell gasoline so manufactured in the Standard of Indiana territory.

Plea of Company in Case. In its answer the Standard company asserted that the contracts were legal and within the patent rights it owned and asserted the territorial restriction has not been enforced. The answer stated the Standard had fully complied with the Missouri antitrust laws since the original ouster was suspended, and declared the licensing of its patents to other companies had benefited the industry and the public.

Barrett asserts that the contracts between the Standard and other larger oil companies had "kept millions of gallons of gasoline out of Missouri trade; that the plain words of the contracts show this exclusion to be both the purpose and the effect, and that since the Missouri statute forbids any contract which even tends to lessen or restrict competition, there could be no possible defense for direct and wholesale restrictions of competition except in the plea that they are justified under the patent law."

It was further averred by Barrett that the defense on the ground of patent rights was not sound "as the patent laws have been repeatedly held by the United States Supreme Court not to justify combinations in restraint of trade and that the patent laws are not even applicable in the present situation."

State's View of Contracts. The State's reply contained that the effect of the contracts was to restrict gasoline, itself an unpatented product rather than merely to restrict the use of the patented processes owned or controlled by the Standard through agreements with other companies for pooling of patent rights.

Barrett denied the assertion of the Standard that "cracked gasoline" was not gasoline. The Attorney-General declared that the "cracked gasoline" was indistinguishable with other gasoline at the refineries and sold together and charged that restraint of one constituted restraint of the entire gasoline trade.

Barrett recalled that in the recent gasoline price inquiry the Standard Company officers admitted the contracts had been executed.

"Since the question of patent rights is purely one of law," Barrett stated, "there is no need for a decision to be delayed by the taking of testimony."

New Points Answered. The plea of the Standard to the effect that it entered into the contracts in good faith, that the restrictions were reasonable and that they have not been enforced and other such points go only to the question of the degree of punishment which shall be inflicted and not to the question of guilt, Barrett holds.

The question of fact injected into the case by the Standard would require months if not years of litigation, he asserts.

Since the contracts speak for themselves and the allegations of fact are merely by way of mitigation, the Court should pass upon the question of guilt at once and then, if it desires, hear testimony solely upon the question of what punishment is to be imposed, he contends.

You May Have

Pretty teeth already—and yet not know it

Make this unique test. Remove the dingy film that's clouding your teeth. Beneath it, you will find, to your own surprise, those white and glistening teeth that you envy in others.

STRANGELY enough, thousands of people who go through life wishing and hoping for glistening teeth already have them, without ever realizing that they do.

This is the reason given: Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film. A film which absorbs discolorations and hides the natural color of your teeth.

Remove it and your teeth take on a new beauty. Maybe you have really beautiful teeth without realizing it.

Film is charged too with most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

So, besides loss of tooth beauty, film is a serious danger to healthy teeth. You must remove and combat it. It is ever present, ever forming.

Old-time dentifrices were unable to combat it successfully. And tooth troubles were a serious problem.

Now modern science has discovered a new way. A new-type tooth paste called Pepsodent that acts to curdle film, then harmlessly to remove it. No soap or chalk, no harsh grit dangerous to enamel.

Mail the coupon for a 10-day tube free. Or, buy a full size tube at any drugstore today. See what beauty lies beneath the film on your teeth.

COZY DOLAN TELLS STORY OF HIS GRILLING BY LANDIS

"So Surprised I Didn't Realize What Judge Was Driving At," He Declares

Former Giant Coach, at Suggestion of His Lawyer, Recounts Details of Three Bribe Case Hearings as Result of Which He Was Suspended.

By George W. Daley, a
Of the New York World Staff.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Cozy Dolan, former coach of the Giants, may have said, "I don't remember," to Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, when accused by Jimmy O'Connell of complicity in the offer of a bribe of $500 to Heinie Sand, shortstop of the Phillies, in his examination three days after the game in which the bribe was alleged to have been offered; but he remembers now.

Before a room full of newspaper men in the office of William J. Fallon, the lawyer who has been retained by Cozy to sue the Commissioner for slander and to recover his share of the world's series money, Dolan yesterday strongly denied any part in a scheme with O'Connell or any other member of the Giants to bribe any Philadelphia player and told a straight, connected story of his examination by the baseball commissioner on Sept. 30, Oct. 1 and Oct. 8.

The appearance of Dolan was the result of the failure of his lawyer to produce the stenographic report of the coach's testimony before Landis. He could not do that, for Landis has the only copies. Fallon offered to have Dolan testify, asserting that if he did not convince the reporters of his innocence, he (Fallon) would not take the case.

Dolan Tells Straight Story.
The result was a good draw, for Dolan's story was a straightforward denial and only the testimony itself before Commissioner Landis can settle the question.

Cozy was emphatic and explicit in his denials yesterday. He made a good witness for himself. He told of having been summoned before the supreme power in baseball without knowing "what it was all about" and having a lot of questions fired at him of which he did not get the drift.

"Finally," said Cozy, "he had a shorthand man who had been taking down everything I said, read me a long statement by O'Connell in which I was accused. Then he advanced toward me, shaking his finger, and said:

"Did you have any such conversation as that?"

"I said, 'Judge, I don't remember anything like that,' and I meant that I didn't know anything about it."

"He asked me several other questions. I was so surprised that I didn't realize what he was driving at. I did say I don't remember to some, but I meant in each case that I didn't know anything about the business. Finally he told me, 'I could go. I don't know that the names of other Giants had been mentioned by O'Connell. I saw O'Connell. He was in the room all the while we were talking. So was President Heydler.'"

Stonham and McGraw Present.

Dolan said he worked around the New York club house and at the offices all that day straightening out world's series ticket matters for the players, and the next day (Wednesday, Oct. 19) was told to come to see Landis again by Mr. Stonham, president of the club. He went to the Waldorf and found Landis, Stonham and John J. McGraw together.

ALLEN HALL DEFEATS DEARDORFF IN FIRST BLOCK OF TITLE MATCH

Allen Hall, local amateur three-cushion billiard champion, defeated Gene Deardorff in the first block of a title match at Peterson's last night. The score was 50 to 35. The second block will be played this evening.

Both Hall and Deardorff were in bad stroke and as a result the match went 77 innings. Hall's best run was a 5 and Deardorff ran 4.

The following scores were made in Peterson's instruction billiard tournament yesterday: Class A—Zamora, 150; Thomas, 100; high scores to date: Matthey, 140; West, 130; Macklin, 120. Class B—Gibbons, 140; Davinroy, 120; Carey, 200; Hoffman, 80; Wilson, 140. Class C—Pannell, 120; Strickland, 20; Sanditz, 90; Hale, 60. Class D—Harnett, 90. Class E—Holmes, 40.

seems hasty. The schools could play off the games in midweek or mornings, and while they would not take in so much money as on Saturdays, they could pay expenses and keep the boys active and the school pupils interested.

There's a Way, if There's a Will.

THE cinders and other objectionable features on Cleveland campus could be partially removed at small expense. Or the games could be played in the public parks.

It certainly does not seem right to deprive the players of the physical tuning up and the student body of the uplift in school interest that result from a championship football season.

If the teams sincerely desire to go through with their schedule it surely will be possible to arrange a place to play.

That is, unless the football season reduces to a mere matter of the amount of money taken in at the gate.

NO FIELD FOR HIGH SCHOOLS, OPENING GAMES POSTPONED

Failure of the Board To Provide Park Holds Up League Championship

Schedule May Have to Be Abandoned Entirely, as Cleveland Campus, Apparently the Only Available Site, Has Been Barred by Team Coaches as Unsuitable.

By Dent McSkimming.

There is little likelihood that the High School League will conduct its usual championship football schedule this fall. Lack of a suitable playing field has forced the league to postpone its opening one week and has further been agreed that unless a proper park be obtained before November 1 the league schedule will be abandoned.

This action was taken at a meeting of the League Council, coaches and principals of the five public high schools at Yeatman High last night.

Cleveland High campus is not only unsuitable but dangerous to players, in the opinion of the coaches. President John C. Tobin of the Board of Education had ordered seats placed on the Cleveland field and had intimated that the league games would be played at that place.

The action of those in charge of the matter of providing a field, in dropping the league on Handlan's Park at Grand and Laclede and failing to obtain another suitable place to play was bitterly criticized. It was pointed out that the Board of Education dropped its lease last June and that in the interim no new field was obtained and no improvement made on the Cleveland campus.

Sportsman's Park Not Available.

It is known that the Board recently attempted to obtain the use of Sportsman's Park and met with a refusal by Phil Ball, head of the Dodder Realty Co., which owns the park. Ball's attitude should have been ascertained last June, it was said.

H. McMahon, head of the Athletic Board of St. Louis University said today that he could not permit the High School League to play its weekly double-headers at the field at Grand and Laclede because it would be impossible to put the field in shape to play the games in the afternoon also, especially in bad weather. He said, however, that he had received no request from the interscholastic league or the Board of Education for the use of the field, either on Saturday mornings or in midweek.

Francis Field, the Washington University campus, might be used for Saturday morning games but Principia Academy has a game

Stanton Injured, May Not Be Able To Face Detroit

Billiken's Crack End the Third Regular to Join Hospital Squad on Eve of Big Game.

Two first string men, possibly three, will be missing from the St. Louis lineup tomorrow against Detroit University, owing to injuries suffered in the past week. Center Hannegan and Halfback McCarty will be on the sidelines, the former with a dislocated knee and the latter with a dislocated shoulder, and Tom Stanton, end, may also be out because of an injury to his elbow.

Although Hannegan is one of the bright lights of the team, he will be missed less than McCarty because McCarty's weight is almost indispensable for the Billiken interference while four willing workers are putting up a fine fight for Hannegan's berth. Just what will be at the key position when the whistle blows tomorrow is still in doubt, but unquestionably the choice will be between Wenter and Kearns, both of whom have done great work in recent scrimmages.

Two Good Center Subs.

Kearns looks like the favorite as his well distributed weight gives him a physical advantage, but Wenter is displaying plenty of fight and may make the grade. Both are excellent men and will put up a creditable exhibition.

The backfield, with the exception of McCarty, is in fine trim. Ramacchini will give the Detroit men trouble. The instruction in interference which the varsity backfield has been absorbing, should begin to bear fruit on the offense. Lewis, a comparatively new man with lots of drive may get in the game but it is probable that the regular first string backfield will start the game.

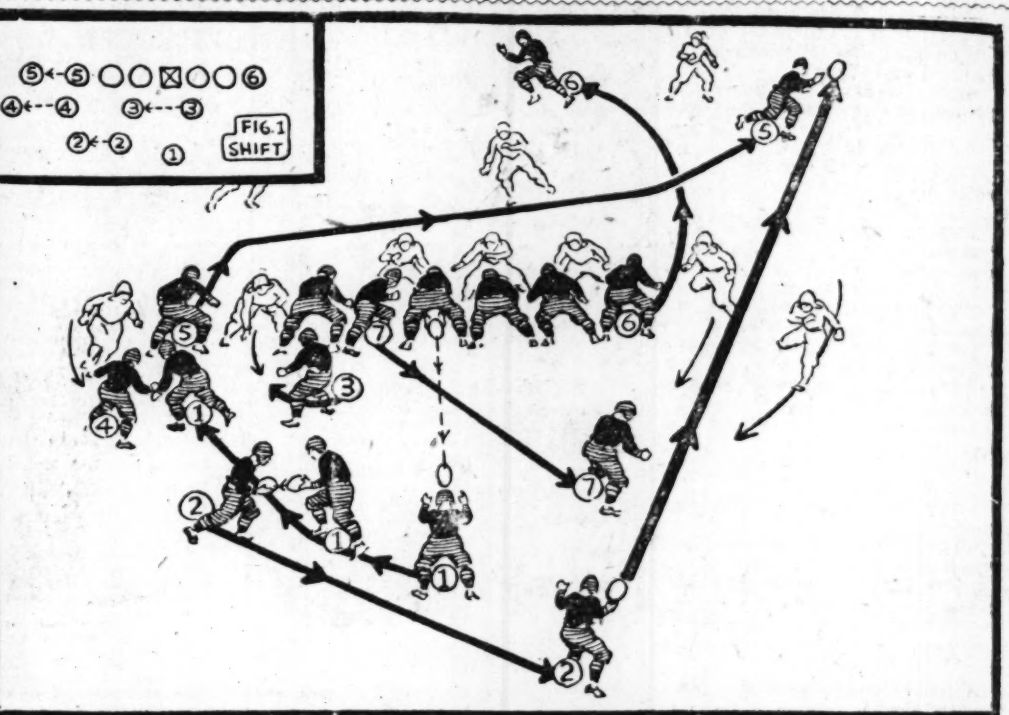

Preliminary at 1 P. M.

Tomorrow's big game will be preceded by a preliminary battle between the Central Wesleyan College team of Warrenton, Mo., and the Billiken freshmen, at 1 P. M. This game will be abbreviated to 15-minute periods, in order that the big game may start on schedule time, 2:30 p. m.

Detroit Averages 185 Pounds.

The athletic authorities of St. Louis University yesterday received from Detroit a probable line-up for tomorrow's game. While the numbers of the players were sent, there

Famous Winning Football Plays--No. 16

THE West Point forward pass as developed by the Cadets' coach, Capt. John McEwen, has put to rout many opponents. The working of this particular formation is a quick shift, a fake end run, and a forward pass.

The diagram in the corner gives the starting lineup. The short shift to the left is executed by left end, No. 5 and Nos. 2, 3, 4 in the backfield.

The ball is passed direct to No. 1, who quickly turns to the left as if on an end run. After taking a few steps he gives the ball to No. 2 who comes over to the right side to make the pass. After giving No. 2 the ball, No. 1 keeps on going and helps No. 4 block defensive right end. No. 3 comes over and helps block defensive right tackle. Left guard, No. 7, after checking opponent, comes back and furnishes protection for the passer.

Right end, No. 6, first checks opponent and then after slight delay goes down field, cuts over to the left for the pass.

Revamped Pikers Meet Strong Foe In Rolla Miners

Injuries to Regulars Force Shifts in Washington Lineup.

A light workout and signal drill this afternoon will complete the Pikers' preparations for their battle with the Missouri School of Mines team at Francis Field. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock, despite the announcement of postponement and tickets naming 3 o'clock as the hour. The change was made necessary by the earlier setting of the sun.

Both teams will enter tomorrow's contest apparently evenly matched. The Miners have a better team than has come from Rolla for several years and many local football fans who watched the Miners in action against St. Louis University are predicting a victory for the invaders. Rolla has a puny nucleus of the Rolla attack. The big fellow played well against the Pikers the past two years, and this year is going better than ever. His off-tackle smashes form the nucleus of the Rolla attack.

The Miners, who are expected to reach St. Louis tonight, are in good physical condition, with the possible exception of Fullback Lee. Several Pikers Out.

Injuries will keep several of Coach Wimberly's regulars on the sidelines. Webster, regular center, will not play. "Louie" Avis was shifted from end to the center of the line and gave an excellent account of himself in scrimmage; but yesterday Avis was sick and unable to practice.

Drewes and Purnell, two other promising center prospects, are also out with injuries. Shabers passed for the varsity yesterday, and will play the position Saturday unless Avis recovers.

Sam Floun, veteran halfback and one of the best plungers on the team, is suffering from boils.

Charley Levy, however, has recovered from the bruising he received against Grinnell, and will perform at fullback.

Levy's playing in the backfield will be watched with particular interest by the Washington followers, for they have never seen Charley perform in the backfield. The big tackle made his debut at fullback at Grinnell, and was reported to have played a fine game in his new position. Levy's presence in the backfield will add much deception to the Piker attack, for the big fellow can punt, pass and plunge.

Former Rutgers Star at End.

Charley Stanwood, former Rutgers player, will be playing his first game as a Piker tomorrow at right end. His playing in practice this week has been favorable.

The probable lineup follows:

Washington Positions. Rolla. Guards. Left tackle. Anderson. Right tackle. Anderson. Quarterback. Stanwood. Fullback. Levy. Halfback. Stanwood. End. Stanwood. Punter. Stanwood. Kicker. Stanwood.

Balkline Champion Again Out-scores Rival in Match at Three Cushions.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—While Hoppe continued his onslaught against Augie Kieckhefer last night in their 400-point three-cushion match, when he took the sixth block, 50 to 35. The standing is now 300 to 198 in Hoppe's favor. Kieckhefer for the first time during the match had a greater higher run than his opponent, getting seven, while Hoppe could do no better than roll up four in one inning.

Hoppe took the afternoon block, 50 to 45, which was the highest score for any one block made by Kieckhefer during the match.

Wall Street
News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—At intervals in the course of the day's session the market appeared very strong. But when it came to summing up at the end of the day price changes were of no great consequence.

U. S. Steel common drew close to 100 following publication of Judge Gary's address, in which he spoke of the third quarter earnings as having been "substantial." But Crucible Steel was heavy. Republic Iron and Steel was down and so was Colorado Fuel and Iron, Bannockburn Steel advanced at 46, as against Thursday's low of 45, but the advance was entirely due to short covering. Later on the stock receded and it was noticeable that selling was coming into the preferred shares.

The quarterly report issued after the close of business the previous day had been quite as bad as expected, showing expenses and charges covered, but with a scant margin of $102,167. There was a deficit of $1,875,129 after preferred dividends compared with a surplus of $1,880,297 last year.

Railway stock is coming for a time under the leadership of New York Central, Reading and Lehigh Valley. The street is talking about an increased distribution on New York Central, but this gossip is not necessary to explain the rise in the stock. It is merely getting back in proper line with its present return. The selling of Southern Railway credited to the fear that, after the U. S. East Iron Pipe decision, the Southern Railway preferred shareholders might be able to enforce their claim for the payment of back dividends, appeared to be over.

Rutland preferred sold at a new high above 63 and Ontario & Western was strong for a while above 23. New Haven has a joint interest with New York Central in the Rutland property. The idea is that New Haven would be willing to trade, at least in part, its interest in the Ontario & Western for the New York Central holdings of the Rutland. It was said in the street.

American Smelting dominated the market for the metal shares. During the first six months of 1934, exchangers were nearly $4.50 on the common and as much more is expected in the second half year. U.

S. Smelting, American Metals, Anaconda, Kennecott and Utah were all strong. Butte & Superior made some response to the report for the September quarter, showing a surplus of $53,193 as against a deficit of a slightly larger amount in the preceding quarter.

Much was made of Judge Gary's address before the American Iron and Steel Institute, in which he stated that during the first half of October the Steel Corporation's subsidies had booked an average of 5000 tons more business a day than they had in September. But even so confirmed an optimist as the chairman of the Steel Corporation had his reference to the "spirited competition in selling" accompanying the increased business.

The Bond Market.

There was further buying of St. Louis-San Francisco prior Nov A

Transactions in this issue this week have been extremely heavy. In fact, rivaling dealings in the money market, which are generally the speculative favorite of the St. Louis-San Francisco system. At present prices the prior New 4s yield more than 4 per cent and the present price is more than 4 1/2 points under the high of 1932.

Activity kept up in Missouri-Kansas-Texas adjustments as the quotation approached 64. Unusual interest was also shown today in Chicago & Eastern Illinois Co. The statement of the president of the Pennsylvania in favor of including Chicago & Eastern Illinois in its system attracted attention to the bonds. Seaboard Air Line adjustment improved their position and New Haven obligations generally were firm.

So Big

Edna Ferber

TWENTY-THREE

WHEN she spoke of modern farming, of books on vegetable gardening, he came very near to angry impatience, though his amusement at the idea saved him from it. College agricultural courses he designated as foolishness. Of Linnaeus he had never heard. Burbank was, for him, nonexistent, and he thought head-lettuce a silly fad. Selma sometimes talked of raising this last named green as a salad, with marketing value. Everyone knew that regular lettuce was leaf lettuce which you ate with vinegar and a sprinkling of sugar, or with hot bacon and fat sopping its wilted leaves.

He said, too, she spoiled the boy. Back of this may have been a lurking jealousy. "Always the boy, always the boy," he would mutter when Selma planned for the child; shielded him; took his part (sometimes unjustly). "You will make a softy of him with your always babying." So from time to time he undertook to harden Dirk. The result was generally disastrous. In one case the process terminated in what was perilously near to tragedy. It was during the midsummer school vacation. Dirk was 8. The woody slopes about High Prairie and the sand hills beyond were covered with the rich blue of huckleberries. They were dead ripe. One shower would spoil them. Gertrude and Josina Pool were going huckleberrying and had consented to take Dirk—a concession, for he was only 8 and considered, at their advanced age, a tanger. But the last of the tomatoes on the De Jong place were also ripe and ready for picking. They hung, firm, juicy scarlet globes, prime for the Chicago market. Pervus meant to haul them to town that day. And this was work in which the boy could help. To Dirk's, "Can I go berrying?" The huckleberries are ripe. Gertrude and Josina are going," his father shook a negative head.

"Yes, well tomatoes are ripe, too, and that comes before huckleberries. There's the whole patch to clean up this afternoon by 4." Selma looked up, glanced at Pervus, at the boy's, said nothing. The look said, "He's a child. Let him go, Pervus."

Dirk flushed with disappointment. They were at breakfast. It was barely daylight. He looked down at his plate, his long, thin fingers heavy on his cheeks. Pervus got up, wiped his mouth with the back of his hand. There was a hard day ahead of him. "Time I was your age, Sobie. I would think in an easy day when all I had to do was pick a tomato patch clean."

Dirk looked up then, quickly. "If I get it all picked can I go?"

"But if I do pick the patch—if I get through early enough—can I go?"

In his mind's eye Pervus saw the tomato patch, more scarlet than green, so thick hung the fruit upon the bushes. He smiled. "Yes. You pick them tomatoes and you can go. But no thumbing into the baskets and getting 'em all soiled up."

Secretly Selma resolved to help him, but she knew that this could not be until afternoon. The berry patches were fully three miles from the De Jong place. Dirk would have to finish by 3 o'clock, at the latest, to get there. Selma had her morning full with the housework.

He was in the patch before 8; fell to work feverishly. He picked, heaped the fruit into hillocks. The scarlet patches glowed, blood-red, in the sun. The child worked like a machine, with an economy of gesture calculated to the fraction of an inch. He picked, stooped, heaped the mound morning. The sweat stood out on his forehead, darkened his blond hair, slid down his cheeks that were pink, then red, then tinged with a purplish tinge beneath the summer tan.

When dinner time came he gulped a dozen alarming mouthfuls and was out again in the broiling noonday glare. Selma left her dinner dishes unwashed on the table to help him, but Pervus intervened. "The boy's got to do it alone," he insisted.

"He'll never do it, Pervus. He's only eight."

"Time I was eight—"

He actually had cleared the patch by three. He went to the well and took a huge draught of water; drank two great dipsperful, lipping it down thirstily, like a colt. It was cool and delicious beyond belief. Then he dobed a third and a fourth dipsperful over his hot head and neck, took an empty hat full for berries and was off down the dusty road and across the fields, running freely in spite of the scorching heat waves that seemed to dance between fiery heaven and parched earth. Selma stood in the kitchen doorway a moment, watching him. He looked very small and determined.

He found Gertrude and Josina, surprised with fruit, berry stained and beaming from, lifting languidly in Kuyper's woods. He began to pick the plump blue balls but he ate them heltersky, though thrifly, because that was what he had come for and his father was Dutch. When Gertrude and Josina prepared to leave not an hour after he had come he was ready to go, yet curiously loath to move. His hat full was half filled. He trotted home labbriously through the late afternoon, feeling giddy and sick, with horrid pains in his head. That night he tossed in delirium, begged not to be made lie down, came perilously near to death.

Selma's heart was an engine pumping terror, hate, agony through her veins. Hate for her husband who had done this to the boy.

"You did it! You did it! He's a baby and you made him work like a man. If anything happens to him!"

"Well, I didn't think the kid would go for to do it. I didn't ask him to pick and then go berrying. He said could he and I said yes. If I had said no it would have been wrong, too, maybe."

"You're all alike. Look at Roelf Pool! They tried to make a farmer of him too. And ruined him!"

"What's the matter with farming? What's the matter with a farmer? You said farm work was grand work, once."

"Oh, I did. It is. It could be. It—Oh, what's the use of talking like that now! Look at him! Don't Sobie! Don't, baby. How hot his head is! Listen! Is that Jan with the doctor? No. No, it isn't. Mustard plasters. Are you sure that's the right thing?"

It was before the day of the omnipresent farmhouse telephone and the farmhouse Ford. Jan's trip to High Prairie village for the doctor and back to the farm meant a delay of hours. But within two days the boy was again about, rather pale, but otherwise seeming none the worse for his experience.

That was Pervus. Thrifty, like his kind, but unlike them in shrewdness. Penny wise, pound foolish, a characteristic that brought him his death. September, usually a succession of golden days and hazy opalescent evenings on the Illinois prairie land, was disastrously cold and rainy that year. Pervus' great frame was racked by rheumatism. He was forty now, and over, still of magnificent physique, so that to see him suffering gave Selma the pang of pity that one has at sight of the very strong or the very weak in pain.

He drove the weary miles to market three times a week, for September was the last big month of the truck farmer's season. After that only the harder plants survived the frosts—the cabbages, beets, turnips, cava, pumpkins, squash. The roads in places were morasses of mud into which the wheels were likely to sink to the hubs. Once stuck you had often to wait for the farmer's team to haul you out. Pervus would start early, detour for miles in order to avoid the worst places. Jan was too stupid, too old, too inflexible to be trusted with the Haymarket trading. Selma would watch Pervus drive off down the road in the breaking old market wagon, the green stuff protected by canvas, but Pervus wet before ever he climbed into the seat. There never seemed to be enough waterproof canvas for both.

"Pervus, take it off those sacks and put it over your shoulders."

"That's them white globe onions. The last of 'em. I can get a fancy price for them but if they're all wetted down."

"Don't sleep on the wagon to-night, Pervus. Sleep in. Be sure. It saves in the end. You know the last time you were laid up for a week."

"I'll clear. Breaking now over there in the wet."

The clouds did break late in the afternoon; the false sun came out hot and bright. Pervus slept out in the Haymarket, for the night was close and humid. At midnight the lake wind sprang up, cold and treacherous, and with it came the rain again. Pervus was drenched by morning, chilled, thoroughly miserable. A hot cup of coffee at four and another at ten when the rain stopped was over stimulating him but little. When he reached home it was mid-afternoon. Beneath the bronze wrought by the wind and sun of many years the gray-white of sickness showed daily, like silver under enamel. Selma put him to bed against his half-hearted protests. Barked him with hot water jars, a hot iron wrapped in flannel at his feet. But later came fever instead of the expected relief of perspiration. Ill though he was he looked more ruddy and hale than most men in health; but suddenly Selma, startled, saw black lines like gashes etched under his eyes, about his mouth, in his cheeks.

How to Bring New Beauty to Your Feet and Ankles

By LUCREZIA BORI
Famous Spanish Prima Donna

A NEW fad among French women is that of wearing high laced boots in the house during the morning hours when they are at home, so as to preserve the slender beauty of the ankles.

This should give the up-to-date American woman pause. It is very true that the wearing of slippers and low shoes at all seasons of the year and at all times of day and evening will have a general effect upon the ankles.

The low shoe offers little or no support to the ankles. It is most attractive in appearance, to be sure, and one cannot blame any woman for not wearing high shoes when shoes of this type have not appeared in the fashion lists for some time past.

However, the answer is that one need not adopt them for general wear. But high shoes may still be obtained and the wise woman is the one who finds that she can wear shoes of this kind at home, or when she goes walking in the country, and improve the beauty of her ankles immeasurably.

If you find a pair of discarded high shoes in your closet, or even if you buy a pair of inexpensive comfortable shoes that lace up about your ankles, try out this plan of wearing them about the house.

Indeed, if you are independent enough, you would do well to adopt high laced shoes for everyday wear during the winter months. They are certainly not unattractive in appearance, but they will undoubtedly train your ankles down to the beauty proportions that they are losing by the continual wear of shoes that offer you no real ankle-support. If you spend most of the day at home, this may be easily accomplished. The girl who goes to business daily will find these high shoes not inappropriate, and when she goes her best low slippers for dancing in the evening, she will be thankful for the slender lines of her ankles.

And while you are paying attention to foot and ankle beauty, do not forget the importance of sensible heels for general wear. I regret very much to see extremely high heels on girls who go to work each day and must necessarily do a large amount of walking and standing. If they would only realize that the sensible medium heel looks much better for everyday

The vogue of the jacquette declines and the world of fashion returns to the more comfortable, graceful and beautiful long and three-quarter length garment of soft fur. This one combines taupe broad-tail with collar and cuffs of blue fox.

Philosophical Phrasings

Utopias are often only premature truths.

One is not often dissatisfied with others excepting because one is dissatisfied with one's self.

You can only govern men by serving them. The rule is without exception.

Think what you like to say, say what you ought.

The more one approaches greatness the more one finds that they are men.

Each one should endure with equanimity what he has brought upon himself.

When good will is taken away the name of friendship is gone.

Adding Spice to a Meal

By Hannah Wing

A Recognized Authority on Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

AT this season of the year there are plenty of green tomatoes in market and garden. Some of these may be ripened and used well toward the winter if they are carefully wrapped in newspaper and kept in a cool place. The immature fruit has much of the food value of the mature vegetable, and is well worth the trouble of cooking. Many housewives point with pride to the family mince-meat of which the "meat" is largely these same tomatoes. One of the most delicious preserves on another's shelves is made from green tomatoes, while others count on the green tomato for stuffing and baking as peppers are for frying.

A Tomato Relish.

Chow-chows and relishes always make good use of a quantity of this underripe vegetable. The following recipe has been popular in many families:

One gallon chopped green tomatoes, two gallons chopped cabbage, four red peppers chopped, six green peppers chopped, one pound brown sugar, three quarts medium strong vinegar, two tablespoons mustard seed, few pieces cinnamon, one tablespoon celery seed.

Soak the tomatoes overnight in three-quarters cup of salt and a gallon of water. Next morning drain the tomatoes and add the other vegetables and spices. Cook slowly until clear. Seal in glass jars.

Sliced Green Tomatoes.

Use five pounds of fairly small green tomatoes. Wash the tomatoes, but do not peel them. If larger than crabapples, slice them, but if they are small, prick them with a fork and do not slice. Make a syrup of three pounds of granulated sugar, one pint of vinegar, one tablespoon stick cinnamon, one teaspoon whole mustard seed. Bring to the boiling point and pour over the tomatoes. Let them stand in a crock or porcelain dish overnight or for several hours. Pour off the liquid and cook it until it is so thick that it coats a spoon. Add the tomatoes and cook them until they are clear. Seal in jars.

Compote Bigarée.
Brigitte, who is one of France's most famous "cordon bleus," makes this delicious compote bigarée. Now, when all the fresh fruits are at hand, is the best time to make it.
Poach together several kinds of fruits, observing this order: Apples cut into quarters, pears in quarters, peaches skinned and cut in halves, apricots whole with the stems removed, as well as green plums.
For the syrup use equal amounts of sugar and fruit. Moisten with sugar a little. Let all the fruit cook together and then put in the syrup. One may add to this marmalade...

With common salt and a little iodine, science is solving a grave problem. When it was discovered that a lack of iodine in the thyroid gland causes GOITER, a way was sought to supply this deficiency. GOITER is so general that a preventive treatment must reach everyone. At first iodine was added to drinking water, but this proved impractical as did several other methods.
Salt was finally decided upon as the one inexpensive and universal commodity which would combine with iodine in an effective manner. Hardy's Iodized Salt was prepared in direct response to an urgent appeal from leading physicians. It supplies the necessary iodine and is just as tasty and wholesome as the best refined table salt. Use Hardy's regularly to promote health!

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Bobby Coon Feels Helpless

Pity those whose helpless plight leaves no chance to run or fight.

BOBBY COON is big and strong and a good fighter. When Bobby is himself Reddy Fox would never think of quarrelling with him. Old Man Coyote would hesitate to attack him. Even Howler the Bob Cat would think twice and unless he were very, very hungry would prefer to hunt a little longer for a dinner.

But now that he was partly helpless because of that dreadful little can fast to one paw, Bobby knew that if he should be discovered by any of these big, hungry neighbors he would be likely to have to fight for his life with the chances very much against him. He thought of Bowser the Hound. Supposing Bowser should happen over that way. He knew that Bowser could and very likely would kill him.

So Bobby sat at the foot of the big, hollow tree in which was his home, and grew more and more frightened every minute. He must hide somewhere, but where could he hide? It wouldn't do to stay there. So after a while Bobby hobbled away, whimpering with every step. He must find some place he could crawl into or under where he would be out of sight. He went slowly. Every two or three steps he stopped to sit down and whimper. He was so frightened and his leg ached so that he just couldn't think. So he just hobbled along, not knowing where he was going.

At last Bobby came to a great pile of brush. He knew of that pile of brush and all about it. His eyes brightened when he saw it. "It's queer I didn't think of this right away," said he to himself. "I can crawl in under this and be out of sight anyway." He had been under that pile of brush many times, so he knew just where was a little opening big enough for him to crawl through. He whimpered a good deal getting under there for that dreadful little can kept catching on sticks and each time it hurt dreadfully. But at last he reached the place under the very middle of that pile of brush where there was room for him to lie down.

There for the remainder of that night Bobby Coon lay. He couldn't sleep. His leg pained him too much. He no longer feared

The Custom-Corseted Look

THE imperious gesture of Fashion's Finger commands the youthful outline. The lines of youth, however, do not exist on the surface of your smartly fashioned gown. They must begin 'neath stitch and seam.
Correct corsetry is the answer. It gives you the unruffled poise and exquisite charm that are hand in hand with the ingenious lines and fearless simplicity of youth.
There is no corset like the P. N. Practical Front. It reduces, where necessary. The patented, exclusive, flexible Inner Elastic Vest brings the instant feeling of perfect ease and fit. It retains the individuality of the wearer while preserving the lines of youth. It gives the body a fresh fitting daily.
Let your favorite shop show you how the Practical Front will mould and hold your figure in the mode of the hour.

MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

POLITE DIVORCE.

THERE is nothing like trying a new shoe or a new servant to make you appreciate the comfort and virtues of an old one.

There is nothing like looking around at other women's husbands to make you value your own special "Blessing" or "Dispensation," as he may be.

And there is nothing like reading a foreign divorce scandal to make you appreciate and applaud The Great American Husband!

When you hear that an English duke has sent his duchess packing, ejected her maid from the house, and locked the door on both of them, you thrill with pride at the realization that the American husband would never have been so impolite about it.

No, indeed! He would have helped her pack her trunks, strapped them for her and ordered the expressman.

He would have carried her Pekinese down to the motor car and made it comfortable under the rug on the back seat.

Would have found her smelling salts, her vanity case and her purple shoes, and have helped her fasten her dress on the shoulder.

Would have promised to engage a good lawyer for her, and to see that her mail was forwarded.

Would have bought her railway ticket and tipped the porter, and told him to "look out for the lady in lower eleven."

He might even have telegraphed ahead to order the florist to have her favorite flowers in her room when she arrived.

That's the American man for you!

Whatever he does, he does it thoroughly, whether it's ordering a dinner, making a fortune, giving a banquet, closing a deal, or putting the "finishing touches" on marriage.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Prevents Splashing.

When the house plant is kept on a polished surface care must be taken when watering it. Try giving it a drink of water through a funnel and you will never spill a drop.

Pass It Along.

Hot water is much better than cold for sprinkling clothes.

Allow at least 20 inches from plate to plate when seating guests.

No household machinery will run without at least an occasional oiling.

Don't forget to boil the new clothespins before using, to prevent them splitting.

Home Repairs.

If you have Colonial furniture you are probably bothered with the knobs coming off of the bureau drawers, as they are wont to do.

Should this occur, place a toothpick in the hole in the knob and break it off even with the knob. Then place the knob on the screw and holding the screw taut with a screwdriver turn the knob until it is tight to the dresser. You will find it more secure than if glued there.

SHE is wise because she seeks a gown shop that will understand her figure. She is wise in perceiving that this understanding is a matter of flawless fitting, knowing that fit is not easy but a matter of delicate hand-tailoring.

She is wise because she knows that the loveliest frock is betrayed by ill-fitting underthings.

She is wise because she has discovered the hand-tailoring of Mérode, the finishing, the individuality of each manufacturing process—processes which aim to fit her figure perfectly—and to protect her health.

She is wise in taking advantage of values in Mérode at this time—and in the satisfaction that the truly representative stores sell it.

She is indeed wise!

NO RULING FOR TWO DAYS ON TAX PUBLICITYDepartment of Justice Ungarding Printing of Returns for 48 Hours.ATTORNEY-GENERAL TO DECIDE QUESTION"If Law Is Violated It Is Up to Department of Justice to Act," Blair Says.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Newspapers can expect no guiding suggestion from the Government within 48 hours to aid them in determining whether they can publish facts relating to income tax payments without violation of law.

The Department of Justice will be unable to announce its conclusion before Monday, and Commissioner Blair of Internal Revenue announced today that he would have nothing further to say.

The Department of Justice will reach no final conclusion on the meaning of the law in advance of Attorney-General Clegg's return Monday. Officials at the Treasury insisted they "were out of it," and that if there were differences of construction of the law it would be a question for the courts to decide.

Meantime the flood of protests from newspaper publishers and appeals for something definite continued with no indication of abatement. None of them elicited responses of a character that would help to clear up the tangle.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue explicitly stated its position in telegrams to collectors, said Blair. "They were advised that a provision of the revised statutes makes it unlawful to publish any income tax return. If this law has been violated, it is up to the Department of Justice to act."

STONE TO DECIDE
IF PUBLICATION
VIOLATED LAWPost-Dispatch Bureau.
23-25 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—To Attorney-General Stone will be left the question of determining whether newspapers which published data from the income lists thrown open by the Treasury did so in violation of the law.

Treasury officials contended consistently throughout a case of confusion, caused by the unusual publicity on the opening of the lists, that publication of the heretofore strictly confidential information was specifically prohibited by the revenue act of 1924. Some of them interpreted violation of the law as technical or inadvertent, others as a matter on which the Government might begin action.

It was agreed with virtual unanimity that the interpretation of the statute, which was admitted by officials to be puzzling, should be left to the Law Department of the Government.

Solicitor-General Beck, who was acting Attorney-General, issued a statement saying the Justice Department had begun a careful study of the law. Attorneys started to gather the facts and compile a brief for Attorney-General Stone who is due back at the department Monday morning.

Explanation of Officials. There was considerable wonder as to why the attention of the newspapers had not been called to the inhibitory clause at the time of the original announcement, rather than after newspaper correspondents had left the Treasury and by a statement which did not gain full circulation until late at night.

Officials of the department said they were in no way charged with responsibility of bringing before newspapers the clause forbidding publication of the tax data. They resented the implication that the department had not taken all necessary precautions to prevent inadvertent violation of the statute.

At the White House a spokesman for the President said Mr. Clegg did not know in advance that the lists were to be opened for public inspection. The President was quite sure, it was added, that no political reasons were involved.

The change of political purpose was based on the assumption that business would be frightened on the eve of the election by an announcement of the work of the liberal bloc in Congress and that published lists

THE PASSING SHOW.

THE ballot we will soon prepare.

Election day is nearing.

While politicians everywhere

Are out electioneering.

Convincing arguments we hear.

Addressed to man and brother.

While, as they say, go in one ear

And then right out the other.

A flock of optimistic birds

Are these same office seekers.

As they broadcast their hopeful words

From platforms and loud

speakers.

They pat the farmer on the back

And toss a sop of labor:

And speak to Tom and Bill and

Jack

Just like a friend and neighbor.

The autumn days are nearly spent.

The trees are on the hummer;

The winter of our discontent

Will follow Indian summer.

His happy home the robin's lost.

And to his mate he's calling:

Perseverance soon will feel the frost

And 'neath the ground be falling.

Soop every woman, child and man.

Throughout our glorious nation.

Will be a cross-word puzzle fan

And have no occupation.

Save looking for elusive words.

That really have no meaning.

Propounded by those puzzle birds

Who ought to get a beaming.

A MERE JESTURE.

Dear sir: Please put this article

In your jesture column:

Of all the guys I'd like to smote

Is the one that put the sign on K'Highway and Cote.

(Signed) North and South.

I mean by this that there is an automatic policeman on Kingshighway and Cote. Brilliante avenue, which is a great hinderance to north and south bound traffic.

WE HAVE no doubt you'd like to smote.

The guy who rounded up your goat.

Right on the head the nail you hit.

In saying that he should be smit;

And by some chauffeur, like as not,

In course of time he will be smot.

See where the Republicans are calling AFIS a "mud-slinger."

That's what the burglar called the Judge who made some caustic comments on his career before sending him up.

What has become of the old-fashioned drummer, with his old-fashioned jokes? He is now a new-fashioned salesman, but he still peddles the old-fashioned jokes.

Eggs should be eaten not more than three days after being laid.

After that time the hen refuses to be responsible for their state of health.

Silver dollars if paid out on a basis of 14 to one would make the carrying charges so heavy that there would be a tendency to spend them to get rid of them.

How about sneaking up on Bob

La Follette's "good" side and slipping him the news that the war is over?

"Landis and Dreyfus May Dine Together."

Each hoping that the other will choke on a fishbone.

THE TIE THAT BINDS—By Irvin Cobb

A YOUTH wrote from New Bedford to a New England press club seeking admission as a member. As a main qualification he stated that he was connected with the Springfield Republican.

When his name came up for balloting, one of the directors remembered it.

"Hold on before you take a vote on this chap," he said. "I know him slightly. He's a clerk in a summer resort hotel. As far as I recall, he never did any active newspaper work."

So the corresponding secretary was instructed to write the applicant for more particulars.

"In what way are you connected with the Springfield Republi-

The answer came back promptly:

"As a subscriber."
